LONDON — A ceremonial funeral with the entire royal family present will be held in Westminster Abbey next week for Earl Mountbatten of Burma, 79, who was killed Monday when his boat was blown apart by Irish Republican Army terrorists.

Mountbatten's grandson, Nicholas, 14, and a 15-year-old crew member, Paul Maxwell, also were killed.

The death of the Second World War hero is the first direct attack by IRA guerrillas against the royal family in their 10-year armed struggle against British administration in Northern Ireland.

Mountbatten was a favorite cousin of Queen Elizabeth and one of Britain's most distinguished soldier-statesmen.

Other members of Mountbatten's family, including his daughter, Lady Brabourne, and another grandson, Timothy, were struggling for their lives in a Sligo hospital after they were plucked from the water by a fleet of small boats. The cruiser Shadow V held nine occupants. Two were missing.

The IRA Provisionals described Mountbatten's killing, with what they said was a 50-pound bomb set off by remote control, as an "execution" to bring world attention to the fact British authorities still "occupy" the six counties to the north.

The Irish army and police threw up roadblocks in the area. Irish Justice Minister Gerry Collins flew to Sligo to take charge.

Officials said Mountbatten, whose illustrious career spanned the rule of four monarchs, apparently was killed instantly in the blast that destroyed and sank the craft in Sligo Bay, 18 kilometres from the border of Northern Ireland.

IRA sources acknowledged responsibility for the bombing, saying "the operation had been planned for quite some time and is part of a continuing campaign to end British torture of the Irish people."

The attack occurred less than 90 kilometres from Galway, one of the sites Pope John Paul II will visit next month.

Mountbatten, who raised his nephew Prince Philip, was the supreme commander of allied forces in Southeast Asia in the Second World War and Britain's last viceroy in India before independence in 1946.

Ambush follows blasts

WARRENPOINT, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British Army said two remote-controlled bombs and an ambush by Irish Republican Army guerrillas killed at least 17 British soldiers Monday and possibly as many as 24.

The double bombings near Warrenpoint claimed the worst death toll in a single incident since the IRA began its guerrilla war 10 years ago to drive the British out of Northern Ireland and unite Ulster with Ireland.

An army spokesman said the exact number of soldiers killed cannot be immediately determined because some bodies were so mutilated. Eight soldiers also were severely wounded, he said.

Authorities said that in an ambush following the explosions, one suspected guerrilla was killed and a second was wounded. The IRA claimed responsibility for the bombs but denied its members had fired at the soldiers.

The IRA said the bombs were detonated by remote control "in similar fashion to the bomb which was set off to kill Lord Mountbatten."

The army spokesman gave this account of the bombings and the army's version of the firefight that he said followed:

The soldiers, in a truck and Jeep, were travelling between Newry and Warrenpoint in County Down when a bomb concealed in a parked truck loaded with straw exploded.

At least six men were killed in the blast that hurled

Thatcher vows to wage war on Irish terrorism

Colonist wire services

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Monday pledged a war against terrorism.

In a statement following the death of Lord Mountbatten, she said:

"By their actions today, the terrorists have added yet another infamous page to their catalogue of atrocity and cowardice.

"If reports of their involvement in the death of Lord Mountbatten prove true, they will earn the condemnation and contempt of people of good will everywhere.

"By the same token, the senseless murder of members of the security forces has reinforced the repugnance felt for those who seek to advance their political ends by these evil means.

"The government will spare no effort to ensure that those responsible for these and all other acts of terrorism are brought to justice. The people of the United Kingdom will wage the war against terrorism with relentless determination until it is won."

Earlier, Thatcher sent a message of condolence to Queen Elizabeth, saying: "The British people give thanks for his life and grieve his passing."

Ireland's deputy prime minister, George Colley, issued a statement expressing "profound shock and regret." It noted "subversive organizations have claimed responsibility" for "this cowardly and heartless outrage," adding that no effort would be spared to bring those responsible to justice.

Meanwhile, Tomas Cardinal O'Fiaich, the Catholic primate of Ireland, expressed horror and revulsion for the death of the earl and the British soldiers.

"The news from Ireland this evening totally appalls and horrifies me," the cardinal said in a statement made public by the Irish college in Rome on Monday. "This is mass murder and nothing can justify it."

O'Fiaich, 55, a strong spokesman for the rights of Catholics in Northern Ireland, arrived in Rome earlier in the day to arrange details for Pope John Paul's visit to Ireland next month.

Mourning week called for India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The Indian government Monday ordered a week's mourning for Lord Mountbatten, who as last viceroy signed India's independence from Britain 32 years ago.

"Lord Mountbatten will always occupy a place of honor in India," President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy said in a message to Queen Elizabeth.

Indira Ganhdi, daughter of India's first Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, called the assassinated British leader "an extraordinary personality, a lion, a born leader of men."

"Lord Mountbatten showed sympathies and understanding of complex problems facing India at that particular period. And this was the basis of his friendship with my father and our family and other Indian leaders," Mrs. Gandhi said.

Bandit gets out with 2 hostages

QUEBEC (CP) — A bandit fled the scene of a foiled bank robbery in a car with two hostages shortly before midnight Monday. He released 10 others, ending a siege which lasted throughout the afternoon.

The bandit escaped in the bank manager's car with the manager and a teller just after the other hostages were released.

The three left the bank with their faces covered as the others were released. Several of those released were suffering from shock.

At about 11:20 p.m. the manager, who had left unseen, returned with his car and stopped in front of the bank with the engine running. Shortly afterward, the first of the hostages were let go and ran into the street screaming hysterically.

Police went in and cleared the scene.

The lone gunman had held 12 people hostage following an aborted holdup in a suburban bank branch Monday afternoon.

Ballerina says nyet, flies home

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-day impasse between the U.S. and Soviet governments that left a jetliner and passengers stranded on a runway ended Monday when ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova reaffirmed her intention to return to the Soviet Union.

"We are satisfied that the principles involved in this incident have been upheld, and that is that she is leaving on the basis of her own expression . . . that she wishes to return at this time to the Soviet Union," said Donald McHenry, chief U.S. negotiator at the scene.

U.S. officials had insisted that Miss Vlasova — whose husband, Bolshoi Ballet principal dancer Alexander Godunov, defected to the United States last week — meet with them to state in person that she was leaving of her own free will.

Miss Vlasova had refused to leave the plane, and she and 52 other passengers remained aboard until Monday, when McHenry and other U.S. and Soviet officials met with her aboard a mobile van used to ferry passengers to and from planes.

After the interview the jetliner departed for Moscow.

The international drama started at 5 p.m. Friday when a police car parked behind the Aeroflot Ilysuhin-62 to keep it from moving to the runway. Miss Vlasova, 36, a soloist with the Bolshoi Ballet, had been ushered aboard the plane by eight Soviet officials.

Godunov had insisted his wife also wanted to defect but Soviet officials claimed she wanted to return to Moscow and that she did not want to get off the plane to talk to U.S. officials.

Tuna-fleet arrest heats sea feud

Another Canadian-U.S. fishing controversy is shaping up over the first-ever seizure of American tuna trollers over the weekend.

The federal fisheries patrol vessel Tanu escorted the seven of the vessels suspected of fishing inside Canada's 320-kilometre (200-mile) zone into Ship Point dock at Victoria's Inner Harbor just before midnight Monday.

An eighth fish boat, the Four C of San Pedro, is to arrive sometime this morning under escort by the federal fisheries vessel, Laurier.

Canadian customs and immigration officers boarded the vessels on their arrival but federal fisheries officials will wait until later this morning to inspect the boats.

Among those meeting the boats was Dr. Wally Johnson, Canadian Fisheries regional director in Vancouver who said following this morning's search a decision would be made around noon as to what charge or charges would be laid against the boat owners

All of the eight seized boats are about 60-foot in length and capable of carrying between 20 to 40 tons of frozen fish.

The eight captains are to be represented by a Victoria law firm in the event of any charges being laid, said Lew Wright, general manager of the San Diego-based Western Fishboat Owners Association.

"We'll do what ever we have to do to get them out fishing again," said Wright who was at Ships Point to meet the vessels.

The U.S. and Canadian governments are at odds over tuna-fishing regulations. Under American law, the individual state has jurisdiction over fishing within 20 kilometres of their coasts. Under Canadian law, there is a ban on foreign fishing within 320 kilometres of the coast.

Five of the American vessels are from Seattle and the other three are from California. Four of the Seattle boats are identified as the St. John II, Majestic, Alma J, and Lorelei II. The othersare from San Diego and San Pedro.

A Canadian official said five of the American skippers refused to follow the Canadian vessels when they were intercepted Sunday 90 kilometres off Cape Cook, south of Quatsino Sound on the west coast of Vancouver

Pickets from Harmac shut MB Chemainus mill

Colonist staff and CP

However, problems for MacMillan Bloedel mounted on another Island labor front with pickets from the Harmac local shutting down the large Chemainus sawmill.

The 10 New Brunswick pickets, members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, came to B.C. Friday to protest slow negotiations with their employer, MacMillan Rothesay in Saint John, a company partly owned by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. of Vancouver.

The New Brunswick workers have been on strike since April 10.

The labor relations board ruled Saturday that Local 601, which represents the New Brunswick workers, is not a recognized local in B.C. and therefore cannot institute job action.

MacMillan Bloedel spokesman Gordon Towill said the 10 pickets at both mills kept about 4,000 workers off the job.

MacMillan Bloedel holds a majority interest in the New Brunswick company, with the remainder held by Spanish interests.

Larry Hanley, a union local president in Saint John, said Sunday that if the striking workers from New Brunswick were forced to stop picketing in B.C., they would move to mills in other cities.

Harmac has been closed over a hot-pulp dispute since early last week, but on Monday, Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada pickets from the Harmac local spread their wings all the way to Chemainus.

Thus, as the 4,000 millworkers in Port Alberni and Powell River were returning to their jobs, some 1,200 Harmac workers were joined on the sidelines by the majority of the 600 employees at Chemainus, all members of a different union, International Woodworkers of America.

As was the case in the Powell River-Port Alberni clash, MacMillan Bloedel intends to seek a cease-and-desist order from LRB against Chemainus pickets.

IRA kills Mountbatten

a war record rivalling fiction —Noel Coward wrote a film about his exploits as commander of the destroyer Kelly that went down off Crete with guns blazing—but his peacetime activities were also legend.

He was one of the planners of the ill-fated Dieppe raid in which about 900 Canadians were killed in the disastrous attempt to test German shoreline defences.

He made many trips to Canada and often spoke of the Dieppe raid suggesting his own ideas were overruled by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

He was the modernizer of the British navy, a linguist, inventor, author and athlete who rewrote the tactics of polo.

He wore 10 rows of medal ribbons and 26 citations for courage under fire. During the Burma campaign when doctors told him he might lose an eye unless he stopped for treatment he refused with the words: "I'd rather lose an eye than (strategic) Kohima."

Mountbatten raised his nephew, Philip Mountbatten, from the age of eight and brought him and Elizabeth together.

Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth, on holiday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, was deeply shocked.

French police intercepted Philip's car as he drove to an equestrian event in Normandy and broke the news.

Charles, who had been scheduled to leave Thursday, was salmon fishing in northeastern Iceland when told of the earl's death by his private secretary. He was cutting short his holiday and returning to London.

The Prince of Wales was devoted to Mountbatten and was in his company as often as possible.

Buckingham Palace announced Monday night:

"The queen and the whole of the royal family will attend the service at Westminster Abbey.

"Interment will be at a private ceremony at Romsey Abbey in Hampshire near Lord Mountbatten's home, Broadlands.

"Flags will be flown at halfmast Tuesday and on the day of the funeral. The court will be in mourning up to and including the day of the funeral, which will pobably be on Wednesday or Thursday of next week. A final decision on the funeral will have to take account of the fact that a number of members of Lord Mountbatten's family are still gravely ill."

The IRA's slaughter of a member of the royal family may bring a backlash against Roman Catholics by the one million Protestants in Ulster.

After a low-point two years ago the IRA regrouped its 600 members into six-member squads. British army chiefs expect a long, increasingly sophisticated campaign by the Provisionals.

Reg Williams, a member of the household at Mountbatten's estate at Classiebawn Castle, Cliffoney, said, "We heard from him yesterday and he said he was thoroughly enjoying his holiday. He was going out fishing and was having a complete rest.

"He went to County Sligo every year for a month. He had no enemies in the world. Everyone liked and loved him. As far as I know he had never been threatened by a terrorist group."

Last March, a small Marxist group known as the Irish National Liberation Army murdered Airey Neave, the Conservative spokesman for Northern Ireland. A bomb was planted in his car.

Guerrillas have also killed British ambassadors to the Irish Republic and to the Netherlands.

Montbatten owned the castle at Cliffoney for about 35 years and a local official said he "was a very popular annual visitor."

The official said, "The village is full of holidaymakers —many of them from Northern Ireland—at the moment. Everyone is stunned over what happened, too stunned yet to say a lot about it.

"He knew local people very well and was very happy while he was there. He often visited other local areas incognito. There were frendships going back to the time of the last war when he was in a battleship anchored off Derry for 18 months . . . He loved Ireland and the Irish people . . ."

debris across the Narrowater canal into the Irish republic only a few metres away. The IRA's clandestine statement said the device contained one-half ton of explosives.

Helicopters and reinforcements were summoned, and 25 minutes later a second bomb exploded, killing and maiming more soldiers and leaving a six-metre crater in the road. That device, spotted 100 metres from the first bomb, contained 500 pounds of explosives, the IRA said.

One helicopter landing to evacuate the wounded was damaged but succeeded in taking off and returning to base with some of the injured aboard.

IRA gunmen across the canal then opened fire with automatic weapons and the bomb-stunned soldiers shot back.The guerrillas then disappeared.

The spokesman said the army casualties were members of a parachute regiment and the Queen's Own Highlanders.

Island. The vessels were then boarded by fisheries officers and escorted by the 185-foot Tanu.

First word of the alleged infraction came Friday from Canadian tracker aircraft patrolling the B.C. coast.

John Cairns of the Canadian fisheries department's Vancouver office said the vessels were given ample opportunity to leave the area.

"They were first advised Saturday that they were fishing in Canadian waters and were given a second opportunity to leave later that day," he said. "The third time, we had no choice but to escort them in."

Paul Glasoe, the American consul in Vancouver, demanded the release of the vessels and their crews.

"We want the boats and the fisherman released as soon as possible," said Glasoe who met the boats on their arrival in Victoria..

The boats were believed to have been following a run of albacore tuna, which are rare in that area.

Robert Alverson of Seattle, manager of the Fishing Vessel Owners Association, called for an embargo on Canadian fish imports to protest the move. Alverson said the U.S. group would request the embargo to be in effect until the vessels are released.

The earliest possible appearance in Victoria provincial court, if charges are laid, would be this afternoon.

Under the Coastal Fisheries Protection Act, the maximum penalty, if the crown proceeds by indictment, is a $10,000 fine and/or one year in jail for the captain. If the crown proceeds by summary conviction, the maximum penalty is a $2,000 fine and/or one month in jail.

A check Monday with U.S. Coast Guard authorities in Seattle indicated no Canadian fishing vessels have been seized or charged recently, nor was there any increase in surveillance.

The U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said the situation of seizures was particularly sensitive because of negotiations to renew the Canadian-U.S. reciprocal fishing agreement which lapsed last year.

Another American fisherman is to appear in court this morning following the seizure of the gillnetter Killer Whale about midnight Sunday.

Leo Linehan, 42, of Port Townsend, is expected to be charged with fishing illegally in Canadian waters.

Fisheries officers aboard the patrol vessel Howay say they observed the gillnetter almost two kilometres inside Canadian waters near Port Renfrew. The catch of approximately 350 pounds was sold for $354.85 after the vessel was taken into Port Renfrew.

of Irish bishops are in Rome making arrangements for this great event in our history, adds to the revulsion I feel at this moment," O'Fiaich's statement said.

"These deeds bring disgrace to our country and give scandal to Christians everywhere."

Irish opposition leader Garrett Fitzgerland said in a telegram to the Queen, "We feel a deep sense of shame at this brutal act."

Gen. Jacques Dextraze, former chief of staff of the Canadian Armed Forces, described Mountbatten as a man who worked for world unity. Dextraze said he had carried on admirably in India where he was viceroy in 1947-48 despite a serious threat of civil war.

U.S. President Jimmy Carter said Monday he was "profoundly shocked and saddened" by the death.

The president said Mountbatten's memory is enshrined in the United States "for the paramount role he played in achieving victory for the allied forces during World War II."

The president said he has sent condolences "in this time of great loss" to Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Rear-Admiral George Green, South Africa's chief of naval staff who once served under Lord Mountbatten, said: "He was a British sailor of the calibre of Nelson. He had a tremendous capacity for work and had a hand in shaping the destinies of millions of people."

In Brussels, NATO Secretary-General Joseph Luns called him one of Britain's "great servants in war and peace."

Legendary Lord Louis had it all

Colonist-Washington Post Service

LONDON — Lord Louis Mountbatten was a central figure on the world stage in this century and a legendary Englishman: royal playboy, flamboyant military leader, decisive diplomat, beloved elder statesman, gentleman inventor and sportsman.

At his death at the age of 79 Monday, in an explosion that demolished his yacht off the coast of Ireland, he was Earl Mountbatten of Burma, an Admiral of the Fleet in the Royal Navy and personal aide-de-camp to Queen Elizabeth, whose second cousin he was.

He was thought to have won more medals and honors than any other man of his generation, and was listed in the Guinness Book of Records for having the most honorary initials after his name of anyone in the world.

His life ran like a golden thread of inspiration and service through the history of our country in this century," Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said in response to his death. Queen Elizabeth was "deeply shocked," Buckingham Palace said. And King Carl Gustaf of Sweden, a great-nephew of Mountbatten, said he felt "great personal grief."

Royally born, the son of Queen Victoria's granddaughter and a German prince, and richly married to the beautiful heiress Edwina Ashley, Lord Mountbatten first became known during the 1920s and 1930s for his world cruises with the future King Edward VIII (later the Duke of Windsor), his rounds of London's most exclusive nightclubs, his storybook society wedding and Hollywood honeymoon with Edwina, their glittering parties at her Broadlands country estate, and their unconventional friendships with Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Noel Coward and Paul Robeson.

Driven by the need to avenge the First World War humiliation of his father, who was forced to resign as Britain's naval chief of staff and repudiate his German title and family name by anti-German hysteria here, Mountbatten fought at sea as a teenager, became the youngest captain and then the youngest admiral in Royal Navy history and the youngest supreme commander in the allied forces during the Second World War.

Temporarily detached from the Royal Navy by Prime Minister Clement Attlee to begin the liquidation of the British empire as the last viceroy of India, he boldly and expeditiously supervised the partitioning of India and Pakistan and the transfer of power to their new governments, accepting India's invitation to be its first governor general.

THEN, RETURNING to Britain and finally achieving his ambition of succeeding his father as naval chief, Mountbatten went on to become Britain's first chief of staff, again acting decisively to pull the nation's three armed services into a unified ministry of defence and take them into the nuclear missile age.

Following his retirement in 1965, after 52 years of continuous military and diplomatic service to his country, he championed the electronic revolution in Britain and continued his own inventive work, which over a lifetime produced a cure for lameness in horses, new forms of naval telecommunications, an advanced torpedo sight and a more efficient polo mallet.

He also worked for charity, served as president of the new United World Colleges in Wales, Canada and Singapore, chaired sensitive government commissions, and represented Britain and the royal family at countless functions here and around the world.

Mountbatten was born in stately Frogmore House at Windsor in June 1900. Queen Victoria held him on her knee and was present at his christening. Related to royalty throughout Europe, he was a second cousin of Queen Elizabeth and the favorite uncle of her husband, Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh. He was credited with helping nurture their royal romance, at one point sending pictures of Philip during his naval service back to then Princess Elizabeth in London.

At 13, he followed his father, German-born Prince Louis Alexander, who had married Queen Victoria's granddaughter, Princess Victoria, in the British navy. The teenager wept when his father, then a British citizen, was forced to resign as naval chief of staff, renounce his German title and change his family name, Battenberg, to its British equivalent, Mountbatten.

"It made a very deep and lasting impression because I knew how deeply loyal he was to this country," Mountbatten said decades later. "My parents were broadminded, progressive and never, never reactionary."

The younger Louis Mountbatten—known to his family, friends, comrades-in-arms and later the British public as "Dickie"—rose quickly in the navy, even while enjoying a globe-trotting social life during the years between the wars. He earned both fame and notoriety for his fearless and sometimes reckless style of leadership at the beginning of the Second World War. Twice he saved his destroyer flotilla flagship, the Kelly, from being shot out from under him in the North Sea, once ignoring orders to abandon his bridge, before it was finally sunk by enemy fire off Crete. His friend Noel Coward later immortalized the Kelly saga in the film, In Which We Serve.

SURVIVING THE sinking, Mountbatten directed the 1942 Dieppe commando raid that cost the lives of several thousand Canadian soldiers and earned him the condemnation of some fellow officers.

But Winston Churchill, who had worked closely with Mountbatten's father years before in the naval office, chose the bold officer first to help plan the invasions of North Africa and France and then to become admiral in 1943 as supreme allied commander of the newly formed Southeast Asia command.

"There was no alternative way of doing it," Mountbatten said much later of the haste with which he moved in India in 1947. "There was already a great deal of rioting going on."

Indian leaders praised him Monday for his pivotal role in helping India to independence. Seven days of mourning have been decreed to honor him, and the flag of independence will fly at half-mast.

He had been scheduled to accompany Prince Charles on a lengthy royal tour there and was to have travelled separately so that the Prince of Wales would not be upstaged by the man whose visit was being anticipated in India as "the return of the Raj."

Mountbatten distinguished himself in Burma by rallying outmanned troops there into fighting back and defeating the Japanese, earning him the honor of receiving the Japanese army commander's sword of surrender at Singapore in September, 1945.

Tall, imposing and charismatic, Mountbatten also imposed his will in seemingly impossible circumstances as viceroy in India. He decided that India and Pakistan must become separate nations and pushed through the transfer of power in just five months. Some critics said he should be held responsible, however, for the deaths of countless thousands in ensuing Hindu-Muslim strife.

In the end, he was revered by the Indians, hated by the Pakistanis and alienated from his longtime friend and sponsor, Winston Churchill, who opposed the transfer of power.

But Churchill, in his second term as prime minister, later made Mountbatten naval chief of staff, after he had served as the first commander-in-chief of allied forces in the Mediterranean in the mid-1950s.

LATER, AS BRITAIN'S first chief of staff, he bullied the reluctant military services into a unified civilian command and, according to one contemporary admiral, "literally bulldozed through the opposition of top naval brass, the guided missile destroyers, commando carriers and nuclear submarines of our present-day navy. Without these ships, the Royal Navy would have been reduced to the role of coast-guard force."

"He was always an innovator, ahead of his time, always a tremendous enthusiast, and we were inspired by his example," the present navel chief, Admiral Sir Terence Lewin, who becomes chief of the defence staff next month, said. "Lord Mountbatten, more than any other of the wartime leaders, was the hero of my generation."

"He made a very deep impact on all who met him, whether it was the Indians, or in the Western alliance, or in the defence services," said former prime minister Lord Home.

He was also a close adviser to Queen Elizabeth and held a special place in the royal family. "He was regarded as the elder statesman by the family. He was a constant adviser to Her Majesty and was always there to offer his guidance," said Patrick Montague-Smith, editor of Debrett's Peerage.

Mountbatten remained an iconoclast to the end, preferring polo and water sports to the elder statesman game of golf, befriending new generations of Britons as kindly "Lord Louis," refusing to write his memoirs but helping Britain's commercial television network do a 12-part documentary on his life and times. Two years ago, he was interviewed by BBC television for his planned obituary, (which was broadcast Monday night) and began, like Churchill, to plan in meticulous detail his own funeral.

He was sorry, he said in the BBC interview, that he would miss the "fun" of his funeral but was ready to die after having "enjoyed the fun of life." He said he only hoped his death would be peaceful.

Earl preferred minimum personal guard

LONDON (AP) — When Earl Mountbatten sailed out of Mullaghmore Harbor to his violent death Monday, the Irish police had an eye on him but he apparently had had no bodyguard of his own.

Two members of the Garda Siochana, the police force of the Irish republic, were following the progress of his craft through binoculars and they said they saw its hull shatter in the explosion.

Police Superintendent Philip McMahon, heading the investigation, said: "The earl used to go out in his boat regularly and he was in constant sight of Garda. It was at his own request that he was not constantly accompanied. . . ."

Add Mountbatten to lost comrades

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — Veterans of the Dieppe raid meeting here for their annual reunion are no strangers to violent death—and now they must add Earl Mountbatten's name to the long list of comrades killed.

"It is strange that he should die just after so many of his old friends got together," said Lt.-Col. John Foote as veterans prepared to return home Monday after the weekend reunion.

"I was a great admirer of his and he was very popular with the men," said Foote, awarded a Victoria Cross for his actions at Dieppe.

"When he was head of combined operations, he made every attempt to meet informally with the men. He inspired great confidence and they had a great measure of rapport."

Mountbatten was head of combined operations in England during the Second World War and was a planner of the Aug. 19, 1942, Dieppe raid on occupied France.

'Just ghastly'

"I just thought he was one of the greatest," said Mrs. Kemp.

A holy man's unholy acts

HAS IT REALLY been less than seven months? Remember those television pictures of the euphoric scenes on the streets of Tehran, as more than two million cheering, chanting Iranians welcomed back from 15 years in exile Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini?

In his flowing black robes the bearded patriarch of Iran's 32 million Shi'ite Moslems looked a saintly old man who wouldn't dream of stepping on a cockroach, let alone harm his countrymen or do anything harsh or repressive.

For the 14 months before his triumphant return, the ayatollah had directed the street violence which forced Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi from his Peacock throne. After two weeks of fighting, his supporters ousted the shah-appointed government of Premier Shapour Bakhtiar.

Since then the revolutionary courts of this blind fanatic — whom Andrew Young, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, described as a saint — have been responsible for more than 450 executions (including adulterers, homosexuals and prostitutes, as well as officials and officers of the royal regime). Women's rights have been suppressed, broadcast music banned as sinful and rigid press censorship imposed.

And now the ayatollah's forces are engaged in a bloody war attempting to stamp out the home-rule aspirations of one of the country's ethnic minorities, the fiercely nationalist Kurds.

As their country slides further into economic chaos and terror, it must be dawning on Iranians that with their revolution they merely exchanged one dictatorship for another that is far more ruthless.

The picket line that never was

IT IS NOT the handful of picketing pulp workers from New Brunswick who shut down the mills in Port Alberni and Powell River late last week. It is the local mill workers themselves, fellow members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union. They are responsible for yet another illegal shutdown — because it is they who decided to respect those illegal picket lines.

Whether they know it or not, the 3,000 paperworkers who stayed off the job at those mills are playing a dangerous kind of game which in the long run can only hurt the entire labor movement. The strategy is simply to ignore the law until it gets in a position to thump you, then back off. It is this studied arrogance by a handful of unions which gets and keeps so many people mad at all unions and ensures politicians the voter support they need to pass anti-labor legislation.

Officers of the Canadian Paperworkers Union in this province knew full well this contingent from the East coast had no legal standing here, even before the B.C. Labor Relations Board ruled that way on Sunday. They accepted the role of accessory in an illegal strategy.

Both union and employer know the script well in such situations. After the Labor Relations Board ruling comes the enforcing Supreme Court order. Anyone who defies that faces real trouble. Meanwhile the mills go down, production is lost and orderly operation of a mammoth capital investment is unfairly disrupted. That, of course, is where the union hopes to exert pressure.

There is a long tradition in the labor movement of respecting picket lines. Fair enough, but it shouldn't be a mindless tradition. It's time the rank-and-file protected their long-term interests by asking themselves: when is a picket line just another cheap fraud?

COMMENT/BACKGROUND

A pioneer will peek at a mystery world

Robert Strand
United Press International

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. — Man reaches another frontier in his search of space this week. For the first time, a spacecraft controlled from earth will swoop past the planet Saturn and its mysterious rings.

It will be the farthest-out planet that a remote probe has reached and investigated.

Pioneer 11 arrives at Saturn 6½ years after its launch from Cape Canaveral. It will make its closest approach to the planet on Saturday.

In 1974, the spacecraft visited Jupiter, the largest planet, and then wheeled back across the solar system on the five-year, 2.4-billion-kilometre trip to Saturn.

Saturn, a yellow-banded orb 815 times as large as earth, has long fascinated poets and school children as well as scientists because of its spectacular and brilliant rings, spanning 274,000 kilometres.

The rings were discovered with a rudimentary telescope in 1610 by a startled Galileo. He described them as "handles."

Today relatively little is known about Saturn. Science does not know for sure of what the rings are made or whether the gaseous planet is enveloped in a magnetic field and belts of deadly radiation.

And then there is the mystery of Titan, the largest of Saturn's 10 moons. Many scientists feel that Titan may be one of only two places in the solar system, besides earth, where life could exist.

For the 565-pound spacecraft, somewhat battered by its encounter with Jupiter, the trip into the Saturnian environment is fraught with danger.

It is scheduled to dive outside the rings but through their plane and accelerate underneath them on the planet's dark side to 107,000 kmh at 11 a.m. Saturday, and its closest approach is to be 21,000 kilometres from Saturn's frigid cloudtops. Then Pioneer is to curve up and out through the ring plane again, past Titan and beyond.

The danger waits in the ring plane. The three main rings themselves are thought to be a mile thick and composed of flying metal and ice, objects ranging in size from dust flecks to chunks the size of the Pentagon.

Outside the rings and on their plane, an unknown amount of planetary debris is suspected. One theory is that a newly-suspected ring, ring E, lies directly in Pioneer's path.

At high speed, a collision with an object the size of a dust fleck would be fatal.

Pioneer 11, and its predecessor in a $100-million project, Pioneer 10, garnered a treasury of data about Jupiter, its 13 moons and its Great Red Spot, a hurricane in its atmosphere 400 years old and 20,000 miles wide.

Oddly, when Pioneer 11 was launched in 1973, a trip to Saturn was not in its travel plans. It was intended as a backup to its predecessor at Jupiter, in case Pioneer 10 was destroyed by radiation.

When Pioneer 10 survived, NASA decided to reroute Pioneer 11, then halfway to Jupiter, into a risky close approach to determine if the planet's "slingshot effect" could be safely used to help whip future spacecraft on to the outer planets.

The slingshot worked, and Pioneer was flung all the way across the solar system to Saturn, on the other side of the sun.

Like Jupiter, Saturn is a huge ball of gas, mostly hydrogen. Jupiter is banded orange and blue-grey, and Saturn is banded in various yellows.

Saturn has a diameter of 120,000 kilometres, spins fast enough so that a Saturnian day is only 10 hours and 14 minutes, and is somewhat flattened at the poles because centrifugal force pulls it outward at the equator.

Located 1.6 billion kilometres from the sun, Saturn radiates 2.5 times as much heat as it receives. Much of the heat is believed to be left over from the collapse of the gas cloud that formed the planet. The heat rises from a core, probably of rock and liquid metallic hydrogen.

Pioneer will gather data about Saturn's structure and weather and will map its magnetic and radiation belts, if they exist, before proceeding a day later past Titan.

Because Titan, a moon larger than the planet Mercury, has an atmosphere, Titan could harbor life. It has all the necessary chemicals.

For the moment scientists suspect that Titan's surface temperature is minus 184 degrees Celcius, too cold to be hospitable to life.

But there might be "a greenhouse effect" to heat up the lower atmosphere, and there might be hot springs to make biological evolution possible in specific areas.

Although Pioneer's closest approach to Titan will be 220,720 miles, its equipment could provide a lot of clues.

Much more data will be gathered by two larger, more sophisticated probes, Voyagers I and II, that will arrive at Saturn in 1980 and 1981.

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — The sudden flowering of ties between black leaders and the Palestine Liberation Organization points up a critical feature about ethnic politics. The blacks differ in important ways from the classic ethnic groups in this country.

The Irish, the Italians and the Jews were late comers to the American scene. The Irish began to swarm in only in the 1850s; the Jews 30 years after that; the Italians around the turn of the century.

Most brought with them a tradition but not a homeland. Ireland was a British colony. Italy was a geographical expression. Biblical law fixed the Jewish homeland around a place few Jews had ever seen -- Jerusalem.

To those immigrants the United States was a kind of promised land. Religious and ethnic barriers were far more porous than in the old country. Opportunities -- to move about, to find jobs, to learn, to make money -- abounded. America beckoned.

The coming from nowhere to a welcoming society generated among the first two or three generations of immigrant Americans a special drive — a willingness to do anything to get ahead. That special drive pushed the Irish, the Jews and the Italians, each in their own style, to make it in the U.S. Only later, in the fullness of ethnic pride, did they take up as a kind of luxury the causes of Ireland, Israel and Italy — the mother countries reborn and rediscovered.

Very few blacks enjoyed that experience. The majority descended from forefathers who came here in the 17th and 18th centuries. They were early Americans, not late arrivals. They came as slaves, and stayed in bondage for generations. Even after emancipation, the great bulk were shackled by race prejudice to menial tasks as farm laborers or domestic servants.

So when the blacks began to push forward some 50 years ago, they did not move with the rich sense of a heavenly opportunity which characterized other groups. On the contrary, they worked against a grievance set deep in the structure of the national society.

With avenues for individual advancement relatively closed, and the drive blunted by generations of unsuccess, the blacks had to move forward as a group, organizing among themselves and by alliances with other groups to change the social environment. The civil rights movement of the 1950s was basically an alliance with Northern liberals to force the South toward more equal treatment in schools, courtrooms and voting booths. More recently, there has been a black alliance with the South, to wrest from the North better access to education and the job market. The tool of the new alliance is affirmative action — a kind of retribution for centuries of discrimination.

Both Andrew Young and the Jews have played not insignificant roles in this process of alliance and alignment. Mr. Young, a strategist for Martin Luther King in bringing Northern liberals to support the civil rights cause in the South, has been the architect and, as American ambassador to the United Nations, chief symbol of the black alliance with the Southern whites of the Carter regime.

As to the Jews, many were active supporters of the civil rights movement in the South. As the thrust turned North, misgivings developed, and Jews were among the leading opponents of affirmative action in the Bakke case.

So there was a tit-for-tat connection when black groups moved closer to the PLO in the wake of Ambassador Young's resignation. But if there is a logic to the connection, there is no clear payoff. The PLO can do very little for most blacks, and not many blacks are in position to enjoy the psychic luxury of an alliance with the Third World countries that support the PLO and oppose the white nations.

So what the latest turn of event suggests to me is that black leadership is now at a dead end. The strategy of making alliances with discontented groups to change political and social conditions has about run its course. Quick advances by sweeping reforms in schools, housing and jobs are no longer possible.

To forge ahead now blacks will have to admit something they have denied while all efforts have been focussed on undoing grievances. They will have to admit they have made enormous progress over the last few years. Once that is acknowledged the road will be again open to progress. But if politics plays a part, so will the kind of individual effort that leads to the middle class and the suburbs and beyond.

Thought for today

Demagogues and agitators are very unpleasant, and leagues and registers may be very unpleasant, but they are incidents to a free and constitutional country, and you must put up with these inconveniences or do without many important advantages.

Today in History

William Lyon Mackenzie, Toronto's first mayor and the leader of Upper Canada's 1837 rebellion, died 118 years ago today — in 1861 — at age 66.

Mackenzie first came to public attention with his virulent attacks on the Family Compact in his newspaper the Colonial Advocate.

In 1826, after Family Compact supporters destroyed his printing presses, Mackenzie became a popular hero and came to be regarded as the leader of the province's reform party.

After three years in the legislature, he was expelled for breach of privilege and not allowed to resume his seat, although re-elected by his constituents five times.

After the unsuccessful 1837 rebellion, he was exiled to the United States, but later returned under the 1849 amnesty.

1828 — Leo Tolstoy was born.

1940 — Axis planes attacked the Egyptian city of Port Said.

1949 — Chinese Communists announced the establishment of a people's government in Manchuria.

Libya's Gadaffi: 10 years of lunacy

Gwynne Dyer

LONDON — Ten years after he overthrew the king and seized power in Libya — and still only 36 years old — Colonel Gadaffi can certainly not be accused of having grown mellow in office. He is still the same loon as he was at the start.

In the past four months he has invaded Chad, threatened to stop exporting oil for three or four years to punish the West and sent a military expedition to Uganda in a futile attempt to save Idi Amin from overthrow. It is true that he has not tried to assassinate any other Arab rulers since he had a go at the presidents of Egypt, Tunisia and the Sudan in 1976-77, but the master has clearly not lost his unique touch.

It is very hard to take seriously a national leader who, after taking power on September 1, 1969, sent an envoy to China asking could he please buy an atomic bomb to drop on the Israelis. He obviously lives in a fantasy world of his own, where a combination of moral purity, righteousness and a great deal of money will make anything possible.

Yet money does make many things possible, and with oil revenues of over $11 billion this year and only 3 million people Libya clearly has money to spare. Gadaffi really can subsidize plots to overthrow the Saudi royal family or airlift almost 3,000 troops to Uganda on short notice to fight for Idi Amin. Even if his assassination squads hardly ever reach their targets, he is a force to be reckoned with.

His ambitions are immense: to turn Libya into a paradise for the long-oppressed population, so many of whom were until recently starving in black tents, and to unite all the Arab and Muslim countries into a great force (under his guidance) which could control its own destiny even against the super-powers. But the agents who seek to carry out his orders are so ludicrously incompetent that very little actually happens.

When the Libyan armed forces were airlifted to Uganda in late April to save Idi Amin's collapsing regime from the Tanzanian and Ugandan guerrilla forces closing in on the capital — Amin had declared his intention to turn Uganda, which is 95 per cent Christian, into a Muslim republic — their performance was too bad to be true. Their weapons were vastly superior to the Tanzanians' but they proved to be even worse fighters than Amin's own useless troops.

The Libyan soldiers fled at the first shot — and Libyan air force bombing raids on Tanzania missed their targets literally by miles (kilometres), succeeding only in wounding one person and killing six gazelles. In the end the Tanzanian forces took only 56 Libyan prisoners, leaving a corridor open for all the rest to withdraw from Kampala and fly home in disgrace.

At home the gap between pretensions and reality is just as wide. The Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya (a newly coined Arab word which is supposed to mean "State of the Masses") is not much more than the usual tinpot dictatorship run by the secret police and drowned in preposterous propaganda.

For all the "People's Congresses" that are supposed to confer democracy on the Libyan people, the true character of the political system was better expressed by a cartoon in the daily paper al-Fajr al-Jadid which showed the Libyan masses on the march, holding aloft the torch of "people's authority". Every face bore the identical features of "Brother Colonel".

The quality of Gadaffi's political thoughts as expressed in the famous "Green Book" is aptly summed up by the fact that the Libyan government is now backing a Broadway musical that will be based on it. The reality of Libya is a state where most of the population are drugged into passivity by the new oil wealth, most of the work is done by 400,000 foreigners, and jails or the firing squad wait for any Libyans who dispute Gadaffi's rule.

His only possible domestic opponents are the students and the officer corps. But student rioters are unhesitatingly shot down in the streets, and the last two attempted military coups, in March, 1977 and early this year, were nipped in the bud (with the subsequent executions of 22 and 14 officers respectively).

Gadaffi lacks the power base or the competence to impose his grandiose dreams on the rest of the Arab and Muslim world. But only a chance bullet could end his rule in Libya any time soon.

Keeping Up

"Believe me, sir, I wouldn't ask it if I didn't need it. I've got a wife, an ex-wife, three kids and a gas guzzler."

Faith in man restored

As a visitor to Victoria, recently I stopped at Atlas Motors, an Esso station at 324 Cook Street, for gas.

One of the attendants found one of my radiator hoses in a weakened condition and said it should be changed — to which I agreed. The radiator was also flushed and refilled.

This was done and the proprietor — Mr. de Jong, advised that the radiator was now leaking and stated that this had occurred after the flushing.

He then had his wife drive my daughter back to our hotel, repaired the rad, delivered the car to our hotel, left the keys at the desk and then called to advise there would be no charge made — except for the new hose, which had already been paid for.

Mr. de Jong's fairness and honesty in this respect is greatly appreciated and has left us with a renewed faith in mankind.

Canadians lax when singing National Anthem

It is a disgrace the way Canadians have become so lax about our National Anthem.

When I was in school in the 1920's, we sang the whole anthem. Three verses and chorus. I remember every word.

I will give you the full song and hope you bring it to the attention of all Canada.

Oh Canada, beneath thy shining skies
May stalwart sons and gentle maidens rise.
How dear to us, thy broad domain
From east to western sea.
And stand on guard, oh, Canada, we Stand on guard for thee.

Almighty God, by Thy mysterious power
In wisdom guide, with faith and freedom's dower.
The loyal heart, the constant mind, the Courage to be true,
Our wide extending empire bind and
All the earth renew.
Thy name be known, through every zone,
Lord of all the worlds make all the Lands thine own,
Lord of the worlds make Canada
Thine own!

Taxes be damned

Re the Tseshaht store fire (Port Alberni — Colonist, August 21, I take exception to your wording of two fire departments "unable to act." I suggest that it was blatant racism that allowed able-bodied men to stand by and watch other men's dreams burn.

Both chiefs of the fire departments should be fired, for their dispicable crouching behind a technicality, for dereliction of duty. Taxes be damned, if my neighbors' home or livelihood is threatened I trust I will not stand by counting my nickels.

The whole Island is shamed and humiliated by this inhumanity and scurrilous behavior. Maybe Port Alberni needs another tidal wave.

Public transit owed to all

All citizens have the right to public transportation. Due to varying circumstances the transportation system is by no means available to all our citizens.

We do have Lions Easter Seal Transportation Service which is at present providing services; for example: handicapped children to school and therapy, adults to meet their necessary needs - it is a growing demand because we are encouraging people to further their education, seek employment, and develop their recreational and social needs. In other words people are being encouraged to enhance their lives and contribute to the community even though they have a disability that requires a particular service such as the Easter Seal Buses.

The four buses that have been installed with lifts will by no means adequately supply the service that is needed here in Victoria; but it is definitely a step in the right direction.

The adults who are now using the Easter Seals Transportation are paying $3 return within a radius of four miles. We strongly feel that this service should be subsidized by the municipal and provincial governments and the service enhanced through the demands of usage. As of Nov. 1, 1979, these individuals are going to be charged $14 return for the radius of four miles.

Why should individuals on a limited income be charged such an exorbitant rate for transportation which is virtually necessary when the average citizen with very little difficulty can work and earn a reasonable wage and take a bus that costs 50 cents?

Ulster problems popular with U.S. politicians

By BRUCE LEVETT from London

The Canadian Press

Humphrey Atkins, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, is being damned because he didn't and damned because he eventually did.

The critics are divided on his rejection of a proposal by Gov. Hugh Carey of New York to discuss the Ulster upheaval with Republic of Ireland and United States politicians in the U.S.

Atkins turned down the proposal when it was made about a month ago, but he didn't do it very firmly. It was only after he had a chance to check with Prime Minister Thatcher that he penned a blunt refusal.

Some commentators here are saying Atkins has embarrassed his government by not rejecting the suggestion out of hand immediately.

Others are saying that any sort of rejection makes it seem that Atkins is not able to argue his case convincingly.

Where the commentators are united at all, it appears to be in the suspicion that such U.S. politicians as Carey and Senators Daniel Moynihan and Edward Kennedy are using the issue to drum up domestic Irish votes.

Atkins, 56, is regarded as an agreeable man with a touch of the courtier whose particular merit for his job is that he comes to the subject without the prejudice of previous experience.

He is reported to be embarrassed about the situation. He apparently had hoped to be allowed to make the trip, to use the platform to emphasize to the U.S. public that Irish Republican Army sympathizers there are sending money to support terrorism.

Instead, he has had to write on Mrs. Thatcher's instructions that it would be wrong for any British minister to take part in talks or negotiations about Northern Ireland anywhere outside Britain.

Atkins, however, will be going to the U.S. this year in a bid to counter IRA propaganda.

He will be putting forward the British case during a lecture tour at a time when many U.S. politicians will be trying to ingratiate themselves with Irish-American voters.

In the meantime, it is becoming apparent that the Republic of Ireland is keen on involving the U.S. in finding a solution.

Dublin has approved the suggestion that Foreign Minister Michael O'Kennedy take part in Carey's proposed talks.

In November, Jack Lynch, Irish prime minister, is to visit the U.S. as head of the European Economic Community council of ministers.

We naturally take great pride in being in such a beautiful city and to notice that the attendance at our Victoria International Festival concerts is up by exactly 50 per cent over this date last year. We are proud of the fact that we have been able to attract a considerable number of tourists this year, but equally important, we are extremely grateful to the Victoria public for having become such great fans of our festival.

J. J. JOHANNESEN,
Founder/Director,

School of the Arts

Dear Mr. Johannesen:

In many years of concert attendance, I would consider the Victoria Festival concert of July 30th as a special and rare pleasure. One is not often treated to four outstanding international instrumental soloists, a fine orchestra and conductor at one concert. The entire evening was a delight and I thank you and your patrons for making such an event possible.

While distributing kudos, I would also like to mention Craigdarroch Castle and the efforts of the preservation group that are working on that extraordinary edifice.

The festival and such landmarks, not to mention your outstanding parks, make a visit to your city rewarding and memorable. I do hope civic and other benefactors will give you the support you certainly deserve.

Don't make beer permanent thing

Apparently, Toronto reporters covering the refugee crisis in the Far East were so impressed with the harassed immigration officers, working overtime to process refugee families for the trip to Canada, they asked one of them, what they, the reporters, could do for the nine Canadians. One 22 year-old officer replied some Canadian beer would be neat.

When told of the request, Immigration Minister Ron Atkey followed up with 24 cases of Canadian beer as his personal token of thanks to the immigration officers.

I do not question the personal token of the beer. But, hopefully, if a follow-up of the beer request becomes a perpetual token, we as taxpayers, do not once again pick up the tab on continued government squandering.

These men are supposed to be doing a very important job. The future of our country depends very much (I for one am very concerned) as to what type of people these immigration officers pass through to come to Canada.

Conversation piece is dull

In your weekly comic section you have a picture of Uncle Art and two of Marmaduke in the centre of each page.

It is the same every week and it has been in the paper for a very long time.

These pictures are totally meaningless and they make an awful dull conversation piece to visitors who want to know what they are there for.

Editor's Note: You have a point about the repetition. But there is a mechanical reason related to the press for having some detail in that wide gutter.

Increase freeze answer

Inflation, we are told, is caused in part by what we buy from other countries. The other part is the unending demand for higher wages. Why non-productive employees, who give service only, seek and get annual increases two and three years ahead in anticipation of inflation is difficult to understand.

Take the case of senior citizens; they are an unproductive segment of society. Their quarterly increase in pension is based on the cost of living figures, paid at the end of the period, not projected two or three years ahead.

The answer to inflation, of course, is no increase to anyone for two years. The cost of living index put out by Stats Canada should be the basis for any adjustment of wages. This will keep our happy band of pickets off the streets, and let others get on with their work.

Democracy hopes spring from Andes

By LUIS CARLINO
of Reuter News Agency
from Buenos Aires

A return to democratic rule in three Andean countries may be changing the political map of South America, long dominated by military dictatorships.

With elected governments taking over in Ecuador and Bolivia, and with Peru due to hold general elections next May, a solid block of democracies will emerge in the subcontinent.

These three countries, plus civilian-run Colombia and Venezuela, have been linked economically by the Andean Pact for a decade, but increasing political co-operation has recently turned them into a major diplomatic force in continental affairs.

ON THE OTHER hand, the military is well entrenched in the southern countries — Argentina, Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay — while Brazil has started a gradual political opening after 15 years of authoritarian rule.

The handling of the Nicaraguan revolution by the Organization of American States, in which the United States followed the lead of the Andean Pact countries in calling for the resignation of President Anastasio Somoza, was a clear demonstration of a new balance of forces.

FIFTEEN YEARS ago, the OAS had bowed to heavy U.S. pressure and thrown Cuba into the Communist camp by severing links collectively and imposing an economic embargo on the island.

However, the democratic process is not without risks.

Bolivians have gone to the polls twice in one year without overcoming a chronic political instability that has produced 200 coups in 54 years of independent life.

AFTER THE LAST Bolivian vote July 1 failed to elect a majority, senate president Walter Guevara Arze was elected interim head of state to preside over new elections next May.

In Ecuador, a 39-year-old populist lawyer finds himself the country's first civilian president in almost 10 years.

The election triumph of Jaime Roldos wiped out three years of careful planning by the former military government, which had sought to strengthen the traditional Conservative and Liberal parties.

IN PERU, GENERAL elections have been announced for May after the promulgation of a new constitution.

The military, which seized power 11 years ago with an ambitious program of social reforms, has made sure the main changes introduced by its regime are included in the constitution.

However, continued social strife and sharp differences within the military cabinet on how to tackle Peru's economic woes will make the next 10 months into a difficult transitional period.

IN THE SOUTHERN part of the continent, change does not seem likely for a long time.

Argentina and Uruguay are under indefinite military rule, and Chile has hinted that only in 1985 will elections take place under conditions designed to prevent a new Socialist government from taking over.

Dogs draw defence

The following letter has been written to Oak Bay council:

I disagree strenuously with Dr. M. L. Brigden's attempts at the August 20 Oak Bay council meeting to force a restrictive leash law on Oak Bay dogs. Dogs are in general better behaved than most children in the municipality and are probably friendlier than the average Oak Bay adult.

One of my own children was nipped last year by a leashed dog. However, I saw no reason to mount an attack on the entire dog community. I agree that a known, irritable dog should be closely controlled, but there is no cause to restrain all dogs.

With regard to an occasional mess dropped on my lawn, I am quite tolerant if it is done by a dog — I'm told it's good for rose bushes.

Toronto trading

Trading in shares of Revelstoke Cos. Ltd. resumed at noon following a halt at the opening. The stock gained ⅝ to $12⅝.

Revelstoke said a proposed merger between it and Consumers Distributing Co. Ltd. might involve the redemption of Revelstoke's outstanding 1961 series preference shares at $20.50 a share plus accrued but unpaid dividends.

MARKET REPORT

Closing quotations for Monday, Aug. 27, 1979

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned in its best performance in more than a week in moderate trading Monday.

Analysts sited an accumulation of events — including relative stability of the dollar in the face of record gold prices last week and the hope that high interest rates may slow the economy slightly and dampen inflation — as encouraging developments.

The labor department also revised its figures on productivity in the second quarter. The report showed that productivity dropped at an annual rate of 2.4 per cent instead of the previously reported 3.8 per cent drop.

Oil stocks were generally higher after reports that the energy department was reviewing gasoline price controls to provide added incentives for oil companies to expand and improve their refineries.

The NYSE composite of all listed common stock rose .28 to 62.22.

Among Canadian issues on the New York Stock Exchange, Canadian Pacific was up ⅝ to $30⅝, McIntyre ½ to $50¾ and Alcan ½ to $38⅝.

Trident seeks faster aid

By GEORGE GIBSON
Colonist business editor

Trident Aircraft Ltd.'s fledgling assembly business at Sidney says it is not in the financial trouble that others claim that it is. But its chief executive officer, Jerry Vaverek, admitted Monday that his company would welcome quick assurance that promises of federal financial aid will be filled.

Responding to a weekend story in a Vancouver newspaper, Vaverek said that his company has not applied for an additional $5 million from the federal government, as the story implied. He also said that the company has already been given advances on an earlier $6 million and was given reasssurance last week by Ottawa that further funds will continued to be paid.

"But this sort of story has a demoralizing effect on our staff, and I resent it because it's not based on the full facts," Vaverek said in an interview. The company employs about 90 people, many of them skilled technicians and engineers.

Vaverek went on to say that delays are proving costly and he expects that one day Trident perhaps will have to have further financing as a result.

The provincial government has been a strong supporter of the Trident enterprise for several years now and continues to provide it. Vaverek confirmed that the economic development department's minister, Don Phillips, has sent messages to Ottawa asking for a quick decision on the promised support.

The federal support, of two years' standing and reiterated here last May by the then-Liberal government during the election campaign, is under review by the new Conservative administration, as are many other government promises.

Trident is attempting to produce the Trigull amphibian aircraft, a six-place plane that will sell for in excess of $120,000 each. Work has begun on the preliminary stages and the company has orders for about 40 of the craft.

However, a complicating factor that has arisen is that other aerospace companies that were being counted upon to manufacture many of the parts, have turned down Trident's small order because of the recent boom in other aircraft business, particularly in the U.S.

Consequently, Trident is having to tool up to make those parts itself and so has a requirement for its promised funds right now, instead of on future dates, as the original agreement called for.

Work is going ahead, however, in the northeast corner of the airport property on an assembly hangar, being built for the B.C. Development Corp. on proceeds of a loan from the federal and provincial governments. BCDC will lease the facility to Trident.

BCDC president Newell Morrison said recently, however, that only one of three buildings planned for the site would be built at this time. He said that the main reason for the four-month delay in construction (the first building was originally expected to be finished next month) is that it took longer than expected for the gravel-filled site to settle.

Construction steel is being moved onto the site this week.

U.S. dollar stronger

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. dollar continued strong against the Japanese yen in Tokyo today after making recorded sharp gains yen Monday. The dollar also rose against most other currencies Monday except for the British pound. The price of gold dropped slightly.

The dollar opened in Tokyo today at 220.80 yen compared with the previous day's close of 220.175, and moving in the 220.60-220.90 yen range in early moderate trading.

Currency and bullion markets in London were closed for a national holiday, and foreign exchange activity was generally quiet as traders awaited the release today of U.S. international trade figures for July. Traders predict the report will show a $2.3 billion deficit.

In Zurich, gold closed at $314.125 an ounce, down 50 cents from Friday's record close.

Are you entitled to cash bonus payments on your Canada Savings Bonds?

Canada Savings Bonds are a safe and popular investment purchased by close to a million Canadians each year. But how well do you know the facts about your existing CSB holdings?

This fall special interim cash bonus payments come due on six outstanding issues of Canada Savings Bonds. The right to these interim bonuses will be lost if these bonds are cashed before November 1, 1979. References to the cash bonus program, and the amounts payable on each series do not appear anywhere on the actual bond certificates.

Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities has prepared a booklet: Facts About Canada Savings Bonds which lists the CSB series where the cash bonus applies and the amounts payable.

The booklet covers many other considerations such as accrued versus cash reporting of CSB interest, capital gains or interest income and the use of the $1000 tax free allowance on CSB interest income.

Write or call today for your free copy.

Roller record had its ups and downs

Richard Rodriguez spent most of Monday recuperating after a record 170 hours of high speed ups and downs on the giant roller coaster at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver. The 21-year-old pre-law student from Brooklyn, N.Y. looked jubilant, though slightly the worse-for-wear, as he stepped out of the coaster car Sunday after breaking his own previous world record of 150 continuous hours, which he set only a month ago in Scranton, Pa. The week-long ride will keep Rodriguez in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Karl Boehm celebrated his 85th birthday a day early in Salzburg, Austria, on Monday with 1,200 invited guests, including opera greats who kidded the conductor on the stage of the Small Festival Theatre with musical jokes. Surprise guest Giulietta Simionato, an Italian mezzo-soprano who once performed with Maria Callas, sang an aria from the part of Cherubino in The Marriage of Figaro, which she had sung under Boehm's direction before her retirement 11 years ago.

Folks in Lubbock, Texas, where the late rock 'n' roll king Buddy Holly was born, are going to remember their most famous son in the traditional way—with an 8½-foot bronze statue. Western sculptor Grant Speed of Lindon, Utah, has been commissioned for the job. It will be funded through proceeds from a Waylon Jennings concert Sept. 7,and by sale of 250 miniature statues at $1,000 each.

When Ryan O'Neal signed on to play a boxer owned by Barbra Streisand in Main Event, he needed no method acting classes to get a handle on the character. He says he started boxing at the age of 10 when his father built a ring for him and his brothers. Before going Hollywood he fought a string of YMCA bouts—and even traded a few punches on behalf of the Golden Gloves.

With seeds from his jumbo watermelon selling for about $8 apiece, Ivan Bright of Hope, Ark., is not too upset that he missed a chance at a $10,000 prize by just a few pounds. Bright's watermelon gained eight ounces in three hours to weigh in at 200 pounds at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, but that was 33½ hours past the deadline.

Let others argue the pros and cons of television's influence on children, Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos is doing something about it. He's banned from Manila television all cartoons featuring robots. He says the popular films are "too warlike" for children who reportedly are "aping" many of the robot characters.

Thatcher son safe in crash

MALLORY PARK, England (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's 25-year-old son, Mark, escaped unhurt Sunday when his racing car crashed and burst into flames.

Thatcher was running second in a race when another car touched his Ford at about 160 kilometres an hour and spun it out of control.

The car burst into flames and race organizers said Thatcher was saved by the car's fireproof bulkhead. Race marshals dragged him from the car.

Pair quickly rescued after crash

The rescue came after the couple's home-built aircraft crashed in heavy woods 200 yards from the Duncan airport.

Walter Staub, 55, of 8290 Alec Road in Saanichton, the builder and pilot of the plane, was in stable condition in the intensive-care unit of Duncan's Cowichan District Hospital.

Staub is a former member of the Victoria Symphony, who played first bassoon for about a year after coming to Victoria from Switzerland in 1960.

His passenger, Lorraine Welch, 41, of 832 Blakeney Place in Victoria, was in the same hospital in satisfactory condition.

The plane was a write-off.

RCMP Constable Ray Kobzey of the Duncan detachment related the events after the crash.

He said Cobble Hill teacher and flying instructor Leo Gervais landed at the Duncan airport shortly after the crash.

Kobzey then also arrived at the airport, and Gervais offered to take him up in an aircraft since no one knew exactly where the Staub craft had crashed.

Gervais, a flying instructor with Juan Air Services in Sidney during the summer, located the wreck within a few minutes in dense bush near the airport.

Shortly after, members of the Cowichan Bay volunteer fire department, ambulance personnel and RCMP were headed for the scene.

Mrs. Welch, who had suffered multiple injuries, had walked away from the crash scene and met the rescuers.

Staub was pulled from the wreck, suffering from a head wound, dislocated left shoulder, abdominal bruises and scalp cuts.

Early indications were that the accident was caused by mechanical failure.

The plane was estimated to have been worth $10,000.

According to Gervais, the plane had a crash locator but he said he was not sure whether it was on because he was over the crash site so quickly.

"I really want to commend local RCMP, ambulance personnel and the Cowichan Bay firemen," Gervais told the Colonist Monday in Duncan.

"By the time I grabbed my fire extinguisher and fought my way down the bank through the dense brush, I could hear the police sirens coming—that's how quick they were."

FOREST HAZARD BACK TO HIGH

Warm, dry weather in the B.C. interior is bringing the fire-hazard back to the high and extreme levels in most areas, a forests ministry spokesman said Monday.

Widespread rainfall in some of the hardest-hit areas of the province eased the situation last week, he said.

He said there were 396 fires burning in all areas, bringing the total number of fires this season to 3,212.

An outbreak at Naden Harbour in the Queen Charlotte Islands required water bomber action Sunday, but this and all other fires are under control, the spokesman said.

Symposium Sept. 21

A medical symposium on common orthopedic problems in children has been announced by the Queen Alexandra Hospital for Children.

Featuring orthopedic surgeon Dr. Mercer Rang of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, the day-long symposium on Sept. 21 will examine various stages of child development, the early detection of orthopedic problems, the effects of exertion and athletics, and mismanagement of orthopedic problems.

The symposium will be held at the hospital, 2400 Arbutus Road.

Dad has custody, mom pleads guilty to abducting daughter

A 32-year-old Vancouver woman pleaded guilty in Victoria County Court Monday to abducting her 10-year-old daughter from the father who has a court order giving him custody of the child.

Judge E. J. C. Stewart placed the woman on two years probation with no right of access to the child until the B.C. Supreme Court hears that matter and makes any further order regarding custody and access, with the exception of one supervised visit before she goes to the United States for several months studies.

"I hope by now you realize the very serious nature of the offence which you have committed and to which you have pleaded guilty," he told her.

This newspaper is not publishing the names of the mother, father and child out of consideration for the child.

The offence occurred Nov. 13 on one of the Gulf Islands where the father lives, crown counsel Robert Mulligan said.

The mother, who was granted liberal access under a 1978 Supreme Court order which gave custody of the child to the father, took the child one weekend and did not return her. It was not until four months later that the child and mother were found.

He said a psychiatric report found the mother did not suffer any major psychiatric disorder and was not an unfit mother.

Defence counsel David Lisson said the mother hasn't given up her strong desire to have custody of the child and felt the only way she could prove her fitness was to take the child. She now recognizes that was the wrong procedure, he said.

"She somehow felt she had to prove herself," he said, adding that the child was well cared for while absent from the father.

4-death inquest set for Sept. 19

An inquest in a highway smashup Thursday night which has now claimed four lives will begin Sept. 19.

The latest victim is 56-year-old Lidia Josefa Christophers, who died Saturday at Victoria General Hospital of injuries received in the head-on crash on the Trans-Canada Highway near Savory Road. Her husband, 64-year-old Nicholas John Christophers, and sister-in-law, 71-year-old Fern Jeanette Christophers of Winfield, died shortly after the accident, and 17-year-old Michael Patrick Weldam, of 2500 Florence Lake Road, died Friday afternoon at Victoria General.

Weldam and a 17-year-old passenger, Richard Russell Rodger, of 1576 Midgard, were in a southbound vehicle. The Christophers' vehicle was heading north at the time. George Christophers, the third passenger in his brother's car, is listed in fair condition at Victoria General's intensive care unit.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered the inquest for 7:30 p.m. in the small claims courtroom of the Law Courts building.

TRAFFIC JAM IN GOALCREASE occurs when Ivan Thompson (18) of the Shamrocks squeezes between two Coquitlam players and fires a shot at goalkeeper Greg Thomas, just missing the right post. Checking Thompson are Dan Wilson (19) and an unidentified mate whose number is blocked out by Kevin Alexander (26) of Victoria.Rocks emerged with 8-3 win and west title.

Shamrocks take aim at Mann Cup honors

BY REG REYNOLDS

"We got this far last year and didn't come through. This year we're going to come through."

Those were the words captain Larry Bell had for 3,000 Victoria Shamrock fans Monday night as he accepted the Western Lacrosse Association championship trophy on behalf of his teammates.

The Shamrocks had just captured their second straight WLA championship by scoring an 8-3 triumph over Coquitlam Adanacs.

They won the best-of-seven final four games to one and earned the right to host the best-of-seven Mann Cup final which starts next Tuesday.

Last year the Shamrocks traveled to Peterborough for the national final and lost four games to three to Peterborough Red Oaks.

Fittingly the Red Oaks will likely be the Shamrocks opponents this year as they hold a 3-0 lead over Brampton Excelsiors in the Eastern final.

The Shamrocks haven't won the Mann Cup in 22 years but they did win it the last time it was held here, 1957.

"We're going to win it and we're going to do it front of the hometown fans," said a jubilant Ranjit Dillon. And nobody on the Shamrocks has waited longer than Dillon, a 14-year veteran and at 35 the oldest player on the club.

Monday's game featured the closest checking of the series but Dillon didn't consider it the toughest.

"It was the most intense game but we let down a bit in the second period. We tried to play too cautious and started dropping the ball." said Dillon.

Dillon then pointed across the noise, champagne-soaked dressing room to goaltender Larry Smeltzer and said "that guy there is the most phenomenal goaltender I've ever seen."

Smeltzer was without a doubt the standout of the series and even though he was afforded excellent protection Monday he still had to come up with 54 saves.

The way the game started it looked like Victoria would have a romp. The checking was close and the hitting hard but Shamrocks built a 5-0 lead on goals by Jim Lynch, Dan Green, Bob Cool, Ivan Thompson and Kevin Alexander.

Green scored on a power-play and Alexander's goal, shorthanded and the best of the night, came after a tremendous penalty-killing effort by Joe McCrea.

McCrea fought off two players to get the ball and passed to Alexander who was clear in front. Alexander, who stayed calm decide some fierce special attention, faked three times before bouncing a shot by goaltender Greg Thomas.

Green scored 29 seconds into the second period. But then Thomas, making his first Victoria start of the series, came up with some big saves and the hard-working Adanacs took advantage of the Shamrock lapse to score three straight goals, Dave Durante at 3:15, Gord Quilty at 17:49 and Randy Delmonico at 19:55.

Coquitlam continued to press in the third period and neither team could score early. But then Thomas left his net to make a pass. Dave Thomson was on top of the play and made a tremendous hit on the Coquitlam receiver to knock the ball free. It bounced to Chris Hall who quickly fired into the empty net for the 400th point of his career.

The six-foot-three Hall jumped high to knock in a rebound at 11:46 for the final goal of the game.

Thomas, who made 38 saves, stopped 15 in the second period and 12 in the third.

Opportunity knocks and Hudon answers

Joe Hudon did a lot with some live stock and good post position Monday night and Sandown Raceway again has a close scrap going on for meet driving honors.

The ex-Manitoban, starting from the rail in three of his six drives, made it to the winners' circle four times and is again challenging Keith Linton.

Linton was winless in five drives, finishing second once and third twice to drop his Universal Driving Rating percentage to .408 while Hudon moved up to .403.

Linton did cross the line second a second time, with Lady Fort in the fourth race, but a claim that he interfered with Nechako Chris just after the start was upheld and Lady Fort was moved all the way back to seventh place.

The five-year-old bay mare, owned by ex-hockey player Pat Lundy, opened its Sandown campaign by winning the first time out. Then it broke stride in four of its next five starts, was requalified on July 5 but promptly broke stride again in its next start.

It took five tries before Shoot The Works managed to requalify a second time, but finally, on Aug. 23 the balky mare went the distance, in 2.10 3/5, without breaking stride. And on Monday night it was all the way again to beat out High Morning.

Hudon was in the No. 5 post two other times without success, finishing fifth with Mr. Ming and fourth with Sandy Pick, but he was perfect from the No. 1 hole.

He scored from there with Holridge Bob in the fifth race, Bold Design in the seventh and Alemite Quill in the eighth.

The evening's payoff thrill came in the fourth race, and could be said to provide additional proof that hard work and perseverance, even when forced, does pay off.

Ceejay Hathy, starting for the 26th time at Sandown this year, wound up on the front end for the second time to become part of a $254.30 Exactor return. The four-year-old mare paid $14.80 to win and the rest of it was done by Milt Rodney, which paid $17.90 to place although it had won and finished close up in its two previous outs.

Former Bulls threaten suit

TORONTO (CP) — Five former players for Birmingham Bulls of the defunct World Hockey Association will take the National Hockey League to court to become free agents if they don't get a $1-million contract settlement from the league by Friday, the players' agent says.

William Waters said Monday that the five young players — all top choices in the NHL's recent entry draft — want the cash settlement on $2.8-million worth of contracts arranged with the Bulls before last March when the WHA folded and four of its clubs joined the NHL.

All WHA player contracts, including those of such teams as Birmingham which folded or did not join the NHL, had to be honored by the four incoming NHL teams as part of the expansion agreement.

But Watters contends that Rob Ramage, Rick Vaive, Craig Hartsburg, Gaton Gingras and Pat Riggin had their contracts ignored and were forced to join the NHL through the entry draft.

Watters said that Bulls' owner John Bassett had announced the $2.8-million contract package — five separate one-year deals — prior to the merger agreement.

"Then, in the NHL's wisdom, the contracts were ignored and the players were shuffled off for dispersal in the entry draft, normally reserved for amateur players," Watters said.

NHL president John Ziegler called the situation sticky and said "it's still under advisement and discussion."

None of the players have signed with their new NHL teams.

Ramage was chosen first over-all in the entry draft by Colorado Rockies. Vaive was also a first-round pick, by Vancouver Canucks. Hartsburg was Minnesota North Stars' No. 1 selection and Gingras went to Montreal Canadiens, also in the first round. Atlanta Flames took Riggin as their second-round pick.

"We will invalidate the draft if necessary," Watters said. "We want one of two things — a cash settlement or free-agency. If we receive a cash settlement we will proceed to deal with the NHL teams that drafted the players."

Vida Blue
. . . threatens reporters

Frustrated Giants corps fighting mad, rebellious

San Francisco Giants' pitching staff, expected to be one of baseball's strongest, instead has become the angriest.

"It's unfortunate we have things to worry about other than baseball," says manager Joe Altobelli.

John Montefusco, the starting pitcher and loser in Sunday's 4-1 setback to Chicago Cubs, left Candlestick Park saying he didn't plan to come back. He was one of four players fined $500 for drinking on a plane trip last week.

"We'll just have to see if he shows up Tuesday night," said Altobelli, whose team had Monday off before opening a three-game series with St. Louis Cardinals.

Vida Blue, the 18-game winner of 1978 who ranks as a major disappointment this season, screamed at two baseball writers after Sunday's game. He grabbed a chair at one point and warned a reporter to move away or "I'll hit you over the head."

They've become the San Fiasco Giants, with five weeks remaining in the season and their hopes for a National League pennant long forgotten.

"I'm sure it's somewhat frustrating; we did have a club that was supposed to do something, and we didn't," said Altobelli in discussing the recent clubhouse blowups, including a fight between pitcher Ed Whitson and shortstop Roger Metzger.

During the team's last road trip, Blue became angry over some things written about him in San Francisco newspapers and he barred reporters from the Giants' clubhouse following one game.

The worst things printed about the Giants' pitching this year may be the box scores, however.

Blue, Montefusco, Bob Knepper and Ed Halicki were counted on in spring training as a solid starting foursome. They have a combined record of 27-29.

Blue, with a 5.20 earned run average, has been puzzled and bothered by his problems because he feels physically sound. Up until a few weeks ago, however, he also was able to smile.

"Thank God for Mickey Mahler," he said once, referring to the Atlanta pitcher who had the only higher ERA in the National League statistics carried in Sunday newspapers.

Glenn Schwarz, baseball reporter for the Examiner, quoted Blue a week ago as saying that writers "are never getting in here again after I pitch. . . . I'm going to start bringing a shotgun."

After hearing similar words Sunday, Schwarz said: "He's threatened me three times in 10 days and it goes deeper than newspaper stories. He's just become irrational. And this place is the snakepit of the major leagues."

Spec Richardson, the Giants' general manager, said Monday he was aware of Blue's outbursts.

"I'm making an investigation into it," he said, but he did not plan to meet with the pitcher Monday.

As for Montefusco's threat to leave the team, Richardson said: "That's his decision. I can't tell him what to do."

DETROIT (AP) — Left-handed reliever John Hiller, a native of Toronto, has been placed on the 21-day disabled list with a sore left shoulder, Detroit Tigers announced Monday.

SEATTLE — There were nothing but records Sunday in the 44th running of the Longacres Mile.

The largest crowd in the 44-year history of the track accounted for a record mutuel total and favored Always Gallant won the richest-ever Longacres Mile in record time.

Owned by Joe LaCroix of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a one-time real-estate developer and greyhound owner, and trained by his 25-year-old son, Dave, the Florida-bred five-year-old took the lead at the head of the stretch but needed its record 1:33 4/5 to neck out the 12-1 Tilt Balance.

Always Gallant, carrying top weight of 127 pounds and rated perfectly by Darrel McHargue, paid $7.30, $5.10 and $3.90 across the board in earning the $79,500 winner's share of the $127,000 purse.

Tilt Balance, which came from well out under the guidance of Bill Mahorney, paid $11.20 to place and $5.70 to show. Bad n' Big ($4) finished third, beaten almost two lengths. The defending champion, also weighted at 127 pounds, was ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye, making it a sweep for imported California jockeys. Canadian-owned Detrimental, off at 34-1, finished sixth, about four lengths in arrears.

The crowd of 19,827 wagered $2,131,872, and three additional records were set when the daily double pool totalled $173,204 and the Exacta pool reached $257,240 and brought a $6,002.25 payoff (for $5 tickets) when a 23-1 shot won the 10th race and a 34-1 outsider was second.

Mussels racing against clock

When the boys in the wheelhouse of organized baseball dubbed the Northwest League a short-season Class-A circuit, they weren't whistling an empty tune.

It is — a little too brief, in fact, for Victoria Mussels' liking.

Mussels and their seven counterparts have packed 69 games into a compact two months. Now the Mussels are running a footrace with time.

Because they were slow from the starting blocks, Mussels have had to maintain an eye-opening clip to climb within snatching distance of first place in the Northern Division.

Winners in 16 of their last 22 outings, Mussels completed a three-game sweep of division-leading Walla Walla Padres Monday night, 9-5 at Royal Athletic Park.

It was their third series sweep of Padres this season, closing Victoria's season slate at 12-4 against the Washingtonians.

But the Mussels still have much to do.

Mussels must sweep. It's that simple.

Even if they accomplish that objective, Padres must oblige by dropping at least two of three in Bellingham to the Mariners. Mariners, tied with Victoria, dumped the Mets 10-7 Monday.

On Monday, Mussels rallied from a 4-0 deficit with a four-run fifth inning, highlighted by Doug Morganti's sixth homer and a two-run triple by Jim Burton.

Capitalizing on some slipshod work in the field by Padres, Mussels got another run on a bloop double by Dan Purpura.

Righthander Doug Mathey (3-1) pitched the route, scattering seven hits.

Teen-agers signed for coming season

VANCOUVER (CP) — Teen-age forwards Brent Ashton and Arthur Rutland have signed multi-year agreements with Vancouver Canucks, the National Hockey League team announced Monday.

They were selected by Vancouver in the NHL's recent entry draft, which included numerous players with one year of major junior eligiblity remaining. Both are 19 years of age.

Lions take tackle on trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have placed import offensive tackle David Hudgens on a five-day trial.

Hudgens, 25, was a third-round draft pick in 1977 of Dallas Cowboys and recently was released by the National Football League club. He joined the Lions Sunday.

Canadians bow to Korea

KOBE, Japan (AP) — Halfback Lee Tae-ho booted in the winning goal in the second half, giving South Korea a 1-0 victory over Canada in a Group C preliminary match of the world youth soccer championship Monday.

The victory left each of the Group C teams — South Korea, Canada, Paraguay and Portugal — with records of one victory and one defeat.

On Wednesday, South Korea meets Portugal and Canada plays Paraguay.

Enforced holiday for Earl

CHICAGO (AP) — Baltimore manager Earl Weaver has been suspended for three games by American League president Lee MacPhail for protesting Sunday's first game against Chicago White Sox because of "umpire's integrity."

Weaver filed a protest after he was ejected by umpire Ron Luciano for questioning a third strike called on Doug DeCinces in the third inning.

Integrated team to U.K.

LONDON (Reuter) — A multi-racial South African rugby union team has been invited to tour Britain and Ireland in October, the British rugby unions announced Monday.

The visit by the South African Barbarians, as the team is to be known, is bound to rouse controversy in view of the possible effect on Britain's participation in the Olympic Games in Moscow next year.

Simpson's daughter dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 23-month-old daughter of pro football star O. J. Simpson has died at the UCLA Medical Centre, eight days after she was pulled unconscious from a swimming pool at her home.

Aaren Simpson had remained in a coma since the incident, a hospital spokesman said. The child had been kept alive by life support systems, and the cause of death at 6:45 p.m. Sunday was listed as "respiratory failure."

Hush-hush Hull meetings

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Hartford Whalers officials declined to give details Monday on weekend meetings with famous National Hockey League left winger Bobby Hull.

Jack Kelley, director of operations, and Howard Baldwin, general managing partner, met with Hull Sunday night in Boston.

Kelley said Monday that "a number of things remain unresolved" and that further negotiations are expected. No other details were released.

The Bid back with a bang

STANTON, Del. (AP) — Spectacular Bid, winner of the first two jewels of this year's thoroughbred Triple Crown, ended an almost three-month absence from racing in spectacular fashion Sunday, capturing an $18,000 allowance race at Delaware Park in track-record time.

Spectacular Bid, who captured the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, had not raced since June 9 — the day his Triple Crown hopes were shattered by a third-place finish in the Belmont Stakes.

Lions play host to Stamps

Ingredients for a classic

Toronto Argonauts visit defending Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos in a game which has the potential for a classic confrontation — an excellent pass offence against an excellent pass defence.

The telecast will not be available in B.C. because the Lions play at home tonight against Calgary Stampeders.

The Argonauts will be trying to take over first place in the Eastern Conference, a position they currently share with Montreal Alouettes, who play second-place Ottawa Rough Riders on Wednesday.

The Eskimos are currently tied for second in the Western Conference with the Stampeders. B.C. leads the WFC with 11 points, while Calgary and Edmonton have 10 each.

In the other CFL game tonight, winless Saskatchewan Roughriders visit Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Edmonton features an attack that has scored 24 touchdowns and 203 points in only six games, by far the best offensive output in the league this season.

The Eskimos have lived by the pass scoring 18 times through the air. Quarterbacks Tom Wilkinson and Warren Moon have passed for more than 1,750 of the 2,240 yards Edmonton has gained.

But they face in Toronto a defence that, in six games, has intercepted 18 passes, allowed only 800 yards through the air and given up only 81 points.

"John's the kind of guy who's going to show you right away whether he has a hot hand," said Gotta, who will be trying to turn his club around from an embarrassing 6-5 win last week over Saskatchewan.

Another change will see Willie Burden return to the tailback slot and probably handle the majority of the running.

Lion-coach Vic Rapp will be looking for a better performance from his defensive squad.

"We have to play better defensively than we did against Hamilton," said Rapp, in reference to last week's 22-16 victory over the Tiger-Cats.

"We have to rush the passer better. I don't think we reacted well to the pass at all. We weren't sharp."

The Lions usually have trouble with the Stampeders, the last club to beat them. Stampeders won an exhibition game and handed the 5-1-1 Lions their only defeat in schedule play.

Linebacker Paul Giroday, coming off a torn calf muscle in training camp, will be making his first appearance of the season.

At Winnipeg, Saskatchewan rookie coach Ron Lancaster will be looking for his first win.

Bottlers win title

Doug Barnes saved his best for last Sunday and in so doing helped Vancouver Island Goodwill Bottlers to the Canadian intermediate lacrosse title on Sunday.

Barnes connected on two of his four goals in overtime as Goodwill earned a 15-11 decision over Burnaby Cablevision in the 'A' divison final of the tournament at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Gordon Taylor and Leigh Pollock scored the other goals for Bottlers in extra time, a 10-minute session. Burnaby was shut out in the extra period.

Taylor's total bag included three goals while Shawn Dheenshaw picked up two. Singles came from John Crowther, Paul Pynn, Will Reid, Frank Wendt and John Lightbody, who added four assists.

Doug Deschner potted three goals for Cables. Keith Keller and Sam Beckett, with two apiece, Rick Lum, Len Leonty, Brian Mawhinney and Gerry Van Beek completed scoring.

NFL veterans cut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Garo Yepremian, working on a record string of successful field goals, was among the casualties Monday as National Football League teams trimmed their squads to the 45-man opening day limit.

The colorful Yepremian was dropped by Miami Dolphins, losing his kicking job to rookie Uwe von Schamann, a seventh-round draft choice from Oklahoma. The veteran had finished last season with a string of 16 consecutive field goals, tying an NFL record.

Yepremian had been the Dolphin placekicker for nine years but, at age 35, he was beaten out of his job by the 22-year-old rookie.

In other moves, the Dolphins traded fullback Leroy Harris to Philadelphia and waived linebacker Joel Williams, and wide receivers Jeff Groth and Lloyd Henry, all rookies. Harris was beaten out of his job by 32-year-old Larry Csonka, who was signed as a free agent after being released by New York Giants.

Other familiar names sliced Monday included running backs Booby Clark of Cincinnati Bengals James McAlister of New England Patriots, kick-return specialist Tony Green of Washington Redskins, defence-lineman Mack Mitchell of Cleveland Browns and tackle Andy Frederick of Dallas Cowboys.

Mitchell, a five-year veteran with the Browns, was squeezed out by Cleveland's acquisition of veteran defence-ends Lyle Alzado and Jack Gregory.

Veterans Jake Scott, Sammy Johnson, Steve Craig and Bob Lingenfelter were among five players cut by Minnesota Vikings, who also released free-agent kicker Tom Jurich. Veteran defensive tackle Lyman Smith was put on the injured reserve list.

Scott, who had been signed as a free agent in July before the start of training camp, was named the most valuable player in the seventh Super Bowl with Miami. He had spent the three previous seasons with Washington after six years with the Dolphins.

The six-foot, 188-pounder, who once played for British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League, had 49 interceptions in his nine-year career prior to this season, including a team-leading seven with the Redskins last year.

Watson edges Miller for fifth title of year

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Tom Watson, given second life when Johnny Miller bogeyed the 72nd hole, successfully defended his title in the Hall of Fame golf tournament Sunday with a winning par on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Watson and Miller, who was seeking an end to a three-year non-winning string, each finished the regulation 72 holes on the famed No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club with 12-under-par 272s.

Both men scored routine pars on the first extra hole. On the second, Watson reached the green in two and Miller was in the fringe, some 60 feet away. He took three shots to get down and Watson two-putted for the victory, his fifth of the season. It virtually assured him of a third consecutive player-of-the-year title.

The $45,000 first-place cheque pushed Watson's earnings, already at a record level, to $447,636 for the year and put him within reach of the $500,000 mark.

While it may have been a disappointment for Miller — who held a one-stroke lead when play started — his strong performance served notice that he's back again, and again is a factor in the game he dominated before plunging into one of the most puzzling slumps in the history of golf.

It was his best tournament since his last victory, three years ago in the British Open.

Miller, playing behind Watson over the final 18 of regulation play, had a one-stroke lead with one hole to go, but drove into the piney woods, made bogey and set up the playoff. Miller had a closing 70, Watson a 69 that included a dramatic eagle-three on the 16th hole.

Chris extended by teenager

MAHWAH, N.J. (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd lost the first set and was down in the second before staging a comeback for a victory Sunday over teenager Tracy Austin in the finals of the $75,000 Women's Tennis Cup at Ramapo College.

Lloyd, who was down a break in the second set at 2-4, won 10 of the last 11 final games for a 6-7, 6-4, 6-1 victory as Austin, the high-school junior who turned pro last fall, tired in a match that lasted two hours 19 minutes in the 90-degree weather.

Beauchemin earns top money

Bob Beauchemin earned himself a nice payday just before departing Monday for Woodbridge, Ont., and the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association tournament.

The touring pro from Glen Meadows carded a four-under-par 63 Sunday for a 36-hole total of 125 and first place in the Metro Honda-CFAX Open Golf Tournament at Cedar Hill Golf Club.

Beauchemin picked up $800 while Uplands tour pros Jim Rutledge and John Morgan and Terry Wiens of Vancouver Langara also picked up a fair amount of cash.

Rutledge and Morgan also left Monday for Woodbridge.

Wiens shot a course-record 59 on opening day but came in with 68 Sunday to finished tied for second with Rutledge at 127. Rutledge had rounds of 63 and 64, Morgan shot 64 and 65 and earned $450 as he wound up tied for fourth at 129 with Glen Meadows amateur Don Gowan.

Gowan with rounds of 65 and 64 edged out Fred Worthington of the host club, who shot 65 both days, for low amateur honors.

The southpaw Beauchemin was a model of consistency. He was in the foursome with Rutledge, Morgan and Wiens but said he didn't let their play affect his game plan.

Bill Bond of the host club won the low-net title by three-strokes over Bob Verpoorte of Uplands.

Can halt baldness Finnish scientists say

LONDON — Two Finnish scientists said they have developed a scalp treatment that can halt baldness and even start new hair growing in many cases.

The scientists, who are putting the treatment on sale in the form of a solution, say that among volunteers who applied it to their scalp for 28 weeks, hair growth resumed in 60 per cent of the cases and hair loss decreased within four weeks.

The product contains a synthetic detergent, which clears away dead hairs and other dirt clogging the follicles — the tiny sacs in which hair grows.

Another ingredient, a compound, then sets in motion a process which allegedly results in the growth of new hair.

Beth first rookie to win this year

MAPLEWOOD, Minn. (AP) — Beth Daniel became the first rookie to win on the LPGA tour this season Sunday when her four-stroke lead over Hollis Stacy held up after the final round of the $100,000 Patty Berg Golf Classic was cancelled due to heavy rains.

Daniel, who led the tournament from its cold, windy start to its premature, wet finish, ended the 54-hole event with an 11-under total of 208. She had rounds of 68, 69 and 71 and earned a first-place paycheque of $15,000.

"It feels strange to win this way," said Daniel, who was waiting in the locker room with the other golfers when the decision came to cancel the fourth round.

Stacy, a two-time U.S. Open champion, finished with a seven-under total of 212. Pat Bradley was third at 214, followed by Vicki Fergon and Jan Stephenson, tied at 216.

At the end of Saturday's round, Daniel was shaken when her second shot on the par-5, 460-yard 18th hole struck marshal Kathy Nelson on the head, producing a lot of blood and requiring stitches.

The injury to Nelson was later determined to be not serious. But Daniel took a bogey six on the hole, a hole she had birdied the day before, or her score and winning margin probably would have been even greater.

Daniel, 22, who joined the tour after qualifying at the LPGA's winter school, hadn't finished higher than a tie for third until two weeks ago, when she was runner-up to Judy Rankin in the WUI Classic in Jericho, N.Y.

Nancy Lopez, who struggled to a 76 and 74 respectively in the first two rounds, had a 69 Saturday to finish at even-par 219.

Defending champion Shelley Hamlin carded a 218.

Oakville, Ont., native Sandra Post and Cathy Sherk of Port Colborne, Ont., both shot 74s Saturday and finished with 225 totals.

WIN! GRAND PRIZE TRIP FOR TWO TO HAWAII, By Wardair

The object is to match the official letters published every day with the letters in the grid which you have filled in with your name (see samples 1 and 2). You may submit as many entries as you wish per game, but each must be in a separate envelope.

LETTERS FOR TODAY, GAME No. 5 ONLY
FINAL GAME IN THIS SERIES

IMPORTANT!

THE NAME GAME
Rules and Procedures

Object of "The Name Game": To become eligible for prize drawings by matching letters of the alphabet, published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist, with the letters in your name. Each game starts with a Saturday Times and ends in the Sunday Colonist two weeks later. The official entry form will be published every day. All members of a family may play. There is no age limit. You may enter more than once but only one entry per envelope may be submitted. As each game ends, you are invited to play the next game.

1. Using the official entry form or a reasonably hand-drawn facsimile (no mechanically reproduced forms accepted), start at the upper left hand corner and print your name continuously, one letter in each square, until all the squares are filled in. (For example, if your name is John Anderson, Sample 1 shows how to fill out your entry form.) Do not include punctuation.
Use your legal name, in a form which can be verified on your driver's licence, social security card or other official identification. You may use various forms of your first name (e.g. John, Jonathan or John S.), as long as your identity can be verified. No nicknames, please.
2. Letters for the Name Game will be published as follows: 4 letters Saturday Times and Sunday Colonist and 3 letters daily. When an official letter matches one in your diagram, circle it on your entry. That letter may appear in more than one square on your diagram, but you may circle only one such letter (of your choice) each time. Since individual letters are selected at random, they may appear more than once — even on the same day. You may circle one such letter as many times as that letter is published. The same letters will be published in the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist, but may only be used once in any one entry.
3. When you match enough letters to complete one row on your diagram — horizontal, vertical or diagonal (corner to corner), as in Sample 2, you are eligible for the prize drawings for that game. Drawings for 15 prizes will be held every other week for 10 weeks. At each drawing $500 goes to the first name drawn, $100 to the next —, $50 each to the next 3, and $25 for the last 10 — (Winners must answer a time-limited skill-testing question before collecting prizes.) All names drawn will be returned to the drum for the grand prize drawing.
4. Mail your completed entry form to: The Name Game, Victoria Press, P.O. Box 1390, Victoria, B.C. V8W 3C4; postmarked no later than the Monday following the end of that game. Completed entries may also be delivered, in a sealed envelope, to Victoria Press, no later than Tuesday, the following day. The game number (such as 'Game 1', 'Game 2', etc.) must appear at the lower left-hand corner of the envelope.
5. All entries will be placed in a container and the winning entries will be drawn at random. Winners will be announced in the Colonist and Times on the Friday following the close of each game. The odds of winning will depend on the number of eligible entries received.
6. It is not necessary to buy the Times or Colonist to participate. Copies of the newspaper may be inspected free of charge at the newspaper's offices during regular business hours. Sorry, official letters will not be given over the phone.
7. Employees of the newspapers and members of their immediate families are not eligible to participate. Unclaimed or invalidly claimed prizes will be donated to a recognized charity at the close of the contest.
8. Winners agree to allow publication of their names, pictures and publicity in the Times and Colonist without additional consideration. Submission of an entry indicates acceptance of all game rules.
9. Decisions of Victoria Press judges in all matters relating to the The Name Game will be final.

Debbie bests best to prove a point

MONTREAL (CP) — There may have been better world-class performances on the day, but high jumper Debbie Brill proved conclusively she can perform under pressures at home.

The lithesome, 26-year-old from Aldergrove, B.C., took on the best in the world at Olympic Stadium and came away with a gold medal Sunday, the last day of the three-day World Cup of Athletics.

Brill, who has a long history of failing to jump up to expectations at major Canadian track meets, looked cool and poised throughout the competition.

When Brill cleared her third attempt at 1.96 — setting a Commonwealth record — the more than 20,000 at Olympic Stadium gave her a standing ovation. The record was 1.94, established by Brill at Quebec City on Aug. 12.

The ovation grew even louder when Simeoni, the only other rival in the field still in contention, hit the bar with her wrist on her third attempt.

Brill continued at 1.98 — the winning height for Ackerman at the first World Cup meet in Duesseldorf, West Germany, two years ago — but missed all three tries as she tried to time her jumps between a 5,000-metre race that was already in progress.

But while Brill's performance as a representative of the Americas team brought back memories of 1976 when Vancouver's Grey Joy gave Canada its only medal of the Olympic Games in the same stadium, it was a red-letter day for the United States squad.

The American men captured the team title with 119 points, spearheaded by the superb running of world record-holder Renaldo Nehemiah in the men's 110-metre hurdles and long-jumper Larry Myricks.

Nehemiah, whose world mark of 13 seconds was never threatened in the race, won in a blanket finish at the tape over defending World Cup champion Thomas Munklet of East Germany and Cuban Alejandro Casanas.

There were no world record performances over the three days of the World Cup of athletics which brought together outstanding performers from the U.S., Soviet Union, East Germany, Europe, Asia, Oceania, Africa and the Americas.

The 1981 World Cup of Athletics will be staged in Rome, Sept. 4-6. Meet organizers refused to give a final-day crowd count Sunday, which seemed to be only slightly higher than Saturday. Including freebies, the total with Sunday's 30,261 was 69,734 for three sessions in the spacious 60,000-plus seat stadium.

Saanich peewees win title

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. — Saanich captured the 'A' Division title by defeating Peterborough 7-4 at the Canadian peewee lacrosse championships Sunday.

Windsor and St. Catharines were the winners in Divisions B and C, Windsor defeating Burlington 12-9 in an all-Ontario final while St. Catharines shaded Delta 10-9. The three losing finalists received silver medals.

In bronze medal playoffs Coquitlam edged Richmond 7-6 in overtime in Division A, New Westminster beat Port Coquitlam in another all-B.C. clash in Division B and Langley crushed Bridgenorth, Ont., 14-0 in Division C.

Seaboard, Elks need fifth game

The clubs split a doubleheader Sunday at Central Park and forced a fifth and deciding game in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League final.

The title game goes tonight at 6:30 p.m. and it will be a rubber-match of championships. Seaboard won the McGinnis League title while Elks-Athletics won the District senior "B" championship.

Bob Wilson and Ray Beveridge cracked home runs as Elks-Athletics took Sunday's opener 8-5 but home runs by Wilson and Alf Hass weren't enough to stop Seaboard from picking up a 3-2 decision in the second game.

Wayne Forland, with his second home run in as many days, and Brian Grexton powered the Seaboard attack with homers and Randy Jackson pitched a three-hitter.

Meanwhile in the Heywood Avenue Men's League, Victoria Athletics and Capital Builders scored wins and advanced to the final which opens 6:30 p.m. today at Heywood Avenue Park.

The Athletics downed Brentwood Merchants 7-3 and the Builders edged Mears Realty 6-5.

Roundup

Meralomas pummel Dolphins

Unbeaten Meralomas upped their record to 3-0 while Dolphins, who missed threes regulars and lost three other players during the game, slipped to 0-3.

Dolphins dug themselves a 48-0 hole at half-time. Their only concerted drive, a push from their own 10-yard line to Meralomas' five, ended in an interception.

Next outing for Dolphins is next Sunday, when they tackle North Shore Cougars at Royal Athletic.

Meanwhile, defending champion Saanich Hornets clobbered Cowichan Timbermen 27-2 and Nanaimo Headhunters trimmed Oak Bay Farmer Construction 14-6 in opening games of the Island Junior 'B' League.

Warren Paugh led Headhunters with a pair of touchdowns and Randy Barr converted both. Mark Edgington's touchdown stood for Oak Bay.

'Cap fever grips Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Playoff fever gripped this West Coast city Monday as thousands of professional soccer fans lined up for blocks in the downtown area to buy tickets for Wednesday's game between Vancouver Whitecaps and New York Cosmos.

Both teams advanced to the national conference final during the weekend with stirring victories in the confusing North American Soccer League playoffs.

The Whitecaps defeated Los Angeles Aztecs 1-0 in a regulation game and 1-0 in a 30-minute mini-game here Saturday, while in New York the Cosmos performed similar surgery on Tulsa Roughnecks by 3-0 and 3-1 scores Sunday.

And the teams seem to have scores to settle, assuring a sellout at the 32,000-seat Empire Stadium.

Vancouver defeated the storied Cosmos 4-1 and 4-2 in regular-season games this year, with the second match in New York marred by a lengthy brawl.

Two players from each team were suspended, including scoring star Georgio Chinaglia of the Cosmos and controversial winger Willie Johnston of the Whitecaps.

Both played key roles in advancing to the conference final; Chinaglia scored three times Sunday against Tulsa and Johnston was player of the game against Los Angeles.

The game should pit the over-the-hill gang enthusiasm of the Vancouver team, dominated by former English players, against the world-wide collection of Cosmos stars.

Morris best in mini-tour

Tom Morris returned to the scene of many previous triumphs and added one more to his credit on the weekend.

The former Victorian, now racing out of Vancouver, scored a combined time of six hours, three minutes and 47 seconds to win the three-stage Victoria Wheelers' mini-tour.

Morris, a former member of the Wheelers', covered a total of 223 kilometres in the "A" division of the three-stage competition which consisted of a short road race, a time trial and a long road race.)

Results:

"A" class (223 km): 1. Tom Morris, Vancouver, 6:03.47; 2. P. Tettamenti, Vancouver; 3. M. McPhalen, Vancouver.

"B" class (160 km): 1. K. Sinclair, Vancouver, 4:16.07; 2. S. Cahill, Vancouver; 3. Paul Taylor, Victoria Wheelers.

"C" class (119 km): 1. R. Naasgard, Port Alberni, 3:12.21; 2. B. Pulfer, Vancouver; 3. P. Peron, Victoria Wheelers.

Veterans (119 km): 1. A. Everton, Vancouver, 3:16.37; 2. G. Patterson, Vancouver; 3. J. Butler, Vancouver.

Novices (56 km): 1. D. Richardson, Vancouver, 1:31.45; 2. B. Ratcliffe, Vancouver; 3. E. Justice, Vancouver.

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — Vernon Tigers edged North Vancouver Indians 12-11 Sunday to win their fourth consecutive British Columbia senior B lacrosse championship. Vernon now advances to the Canadian senior B championship in Cornwall, Ont., next week, where the Tigers will be looking for their fourth consecutive national title.

M. V. Chesnut's Garden Notes

One particularly delicious fruit featured in the supermarkets is the nectarine. This is really a clean-shaven peach, with a smooth skin like a plum, and with a flavor sweeter and richer than ordinary peaches.

Nectarines have been around for something over 2,000 years, and one of the unexplained mysteries in horticulture is why one single branch of an otherwise normal peach tree will start bearing nectarines instead of peaches. The great Charles Darwin nearly drove himself round the bend trying to figure this one out.

Several of my readers have been so captivated by the melting flavor of these imported nectarines they have told me they are saving the stones and are planting them in pots or in the garden in the hope of growing their own supply of this delicious fruit.

I wouldn't go so far as to condemn the practice of sowing the seeds, pips and stones of fruit. After all, it is a lot of fun and does no harm, and I have to confess that one of my wife's favorite plants is a tiny pomegranate tree grown from a seed and artificially dwarfed.

The novice gardener should, however, have some idea of what she is getting into, and should plant her fruit seeds with the realization that her chances of getting any fruit in this way are extremely slender.

First, there is the question of climate. Our avocados, papayas and the like come from frost-free parts of the world and cannot survive our winters. There are a few exotic fruits which can be grown indoors, notably the Meyer and Ponderosa lemon and the Calamondin orange, but all the other tropicals get too big to be kept indoors and are too tender for outdoor growing.

The second point to be remembered is that seedling fruit trees, like any other babies, must live out their youth and become sexually mature before they can start to reproduce their kind. This means a very long wait before you get a chance to sink your teeth into the fruit. Some peaches start bearing in their seventh or eighth year; apples and pears from 10 to 15 years from seed, and some of the exotic fruits even longer before blossoming and fruiting begins.

Even then, you are not out of the woods. You can sweat it out waiting for your pet tree, grown from a seed, to pass through adolescence and reach the age for reproduction, then it can come into blossom and bloom its head off without making any fruit if it doesn't have a husband.

A few kinds — most peaches and some of the sour cherries — can bear fruit while living in a state of single blessedness, but most kinds need another tree of the same kind of fruit but of a different variety nearby so the bees can cross-pollinate the blossoms.

Just to be a thorough-going crab, I'll list one more reason why growing fruit trees from seeds isn't ordinarily a profitable undertaking. Most of our garden fruits are mongrels, in the sense that their seed parents were two different varieties, like crossing a cocker spaniel with a fox terrier, and the chances are their parents and grandparents were mongrels too. Consequently, any chance of the seedling fruit resembling the fruit from which the seed was taken is pretty remote.

A seed taken from a Bartlett pear or a Golden Delicious apple cannot make Bartlett or Golden Delicious trees. The pear's mother was a Bartlett, but nobody knows who the father was, except that he was definitely not a Bartlett. The offspring can be almost anything.

Once in perhaps a hundred thousand of such chance matings will the offspring turn out to be better than either of the parents — this is how new and improved varieties are born. But the chances for the fruit from your particular seed-grown tree to be as good as its known parent, let alone better, are about as good as your chances of winning the Lotò Canada lottery.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD — President Carter has promised he would take one day a week and go out and talk to the "People." In this way he can find out what Americans are "really thinking." Then he can return to Washington and make presidential policy based on what he has heard.

I thought this was hyperbole until the other day when a bunch of us were sitting on the Hackney porch, rocking back and forth, drinking iced tea and peering out at the Vineyard sound.

Suddenly two secret servicemen appeared and started to look under our chairs. Then they crawled under the porch. After that they went into the kitchen and searched around. Finally one said to the other, "It looks clean to me."

He got on his walky-talky and said, "Sparrow Two, this is Sparrow Seven. We found a home in Vineyard Haven with fine God-fearing Americans who have hopes and fears and dreams, though they now suffer from a malaise. Tell Eagle One it's safe for him to come."

In less than 10 minutes a cavalcade of cars came earing down the road. A sandy-haired man with a big grin on his face stepped out of a bullet-proof Caddilac. He was accompanied by a lady and a little blonde-haired girl.

"Hi there," he said. "I'm Eagle One and this is my wife, Eagle Two, and my 11-year-old daughter, Eaglelette. I have come to visit you so I can find out what you are thinking. You see, those of us who live in Washington are isolated from the real America and the only way I can help you is to visit in your homes and find out why you have lost faith in our country. Do not hesitate to speak frankly because I know that you are all filled with pessimism and despair and fed up with promises that Congress refuses to keep. Please tell me what is on your mind."

"I'll tell you what I don't like about this country," Wallace said. "It's the humidity. It weighs down on you so you don't want to do anything. I perspire all the time."

"I know how you feel," Eagle One said. "Even in Plains, Ga., we had humidity and nobody liked it. My staff is now working on a plan to make sure that if there has to be humidity everyone gets his equal share."

Virginia Durr said, "The thing that gripes me the most is the Styron's dog. He's over in my tomato patch all the time. How can we have hope for the future when Styron won't tie up his dog?"

Eagle One turned to his aide. "There you are. If I hadn't left Washington I would never have known about the stray dog problem."

Elizabeth Hackney, age 15, said, "I can't stand my brother. He's a spoiled brat and gets to do anything he wants to, while I have to do everything I'm told. Why should I believe in a country that permits brothers to make the quality of life for sisters so miserable?"

The sandy-haired man said to his aide, "Why hasn't anyone briefed me on this problem before?"

"Washington has lost touch," the aide said.

Brustein said, "I'll tell you what has made me lose faith in the American dream. I like blue fishing. Every time I think I have one on the line it turns out to be seaweed or an old shoe. I haven't caught a fish in weeks, so why should I vote in the 1980 elections?"

Eagle One grinned and got up to leave. "I can't tell you how helpful you've all been in speaking out in this forthright manner. I will now return to Washington a wiser and more humble leader, aware of my mistakes and willing to try once again to make a better world for all of you. I can only be a good president if I know what the people expect of me, and you can only have your faith restored in our government by telling me what you want me to do. God bless you one and all."

He got back in his car with his wife and daughter. The TV men packed their gear and the reporters got on the press bus to rush back to the airport.

As the cavalcade disappeared into the sunset Williams hit himself on the head with his hand. "Damn it! I forgot to tell him my septic tank doesn't work."

Things I Learned En Route to Looking Up Other Things:

—That the "bounty" on the head of the deposed Shah of Iran is an old political device: 300 years ago, King Charles II of England offered the equivalent of $25,000 a year for life "to any man whosoever by pistol, sword or poison destroys the life of Oliver Cromwell." (He also discussed with his brother a plan to kill Cromwell with an "infernal machine," the first recorded instance of bombing for personal assassination.)

—That a long-range jet plane carries enough fuel on a single flight to power a compact automobile nearly 50 times around the world.

—That Sir Edward Grey, elected as Chancellor of Oxford University in the 1920s, was expelled from that school as a student for "incorrigible laziness."

—That there is an African freshwater fish that, though blind, generates a standing electric field through which it distinguishes between predators and prey, and communicates with potential mates and other fish of the same species. (The entire organ system and sensory capability long antedated any human technological knowledge.)

—That there is a kind of arithmetic, perfectly reasonable and self-contained, in which two times one does not equal one times two.

—That King Richard II was tall and good-looking; his hunchback, perpetuated by Shakespeare's drama, was an invention of Tudor propaganda.

—That in his early days, Einstein had pictures of two scientists, Newton and Maxwell, hanging in his study; in his later years these were taken down and replaced by pictures of Gandhi and Albert Schweitzer, whom he considered the greatest men living.

—That male camels literally spit in each other's eye when confronting each other for the possession of a female. (They also emit a repugnant odor from two special glands in their necks.

—That a book on The Training of Horses was written for the Hittites as far back as 1400 B.C. (Horses are still around, but whatever happened to the Hittites?)

—That between Henry VI and Elizabeth, all the reigning sovereigns of England were killers. (So why do we pick on Henry VIII?)

—That the "firefly" is the male of the species, and the "glowworm" is the female, which has no wings. (The luminosity persists in the male even after death.)

—That Rudyard Kipling received his unusual first name not from his upbringing in India, but from little Lake Rudyard in England, where his parents spent the day they became engaged to be married.

—That fish have a natural mechanism for regulating their populations: they give off growth-inhibiting substances whenever the density reaches a certain point.

James Bacon's Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — For some strange reason, my phone has been ringing off the hook about that party in Beverly Hills the other night where guest of honor Mikhail Baryshnikov, along with Barbra Streisand and Dustin Hoffman, showed up for only 18 minutes and then left.

All the callers rapped the three celebrities for bad manners, saying, in effect: "Isn't it awful that that poor woman cooked for two weeks and those dreadful people only stayed for 18 minutes?"

I don't know why they called me, because I didn't write the original story. I am on record as saying it was ill-mannered of them, but there is an explanation and now I am not sure they were wrong.

First off, Beverly Hills and Bel-Air is filled with publicity-seeking rich people who use celebrities to get their own names in the columns.

The famed ballet dancer and his friends thought they were attending a quiet dinner party. Instead, they were greeted by 300 guests who behaved like rock star groupies, not to mention a small army of paparazzi.

Hostesses like this take advantage of shy celebrities like Streisand and Hoffman. No one likes to be used.

Baryshnikov had just danced a strenuous ballet at the Hollywood Bowl. That's like being a linebacker in the Super Bowl. His leg was hurting. He didn't need to be mobbed.

So, you see, there are two sides to every story.

Kenny Kingston, our resident psychic, held a seance the other night for the 17th anniversary of Marilyn Monroe's death.

And Marilyn told Kenny that she saved me from falling in Venice's Grand Canal when I was over in Italy with Merv Griffin. Must have been the night I met up with those two guys from County Mayo.

In other news from the spirit world, Harry Truman says the Democratic ticket in 1980 will be Teddy Kennedy and Mayor Tom Bradley.

And Hedda Hopper in her new column, Hedda Hopper's Heaven, predicted as her lead story that a famous female singing star will go the Christine Jorgensen route this year. Hedda said she could be the new Sinatra after her transsexual operation.

Judge William Ostler said he had no authority to order an assessment under the Heroin Treatment Act for John Arthur Heffernan, of 1792 Rockland.

Heffernan and two others are charged with a break-in Aug. 4 at the McGill and Orme pharmacy at 1105 Pandora and possession of stolen property. He was denied bail Aug. 8.

Defence lawyer John Hills applied for his client to be assessed by the program's evaluation panel for possible voluntary admittance to facilities at Brannen Lake near Nanaimo.

Ostler said he had checked over the legislation previously and could not see where the courts had authority to order voluntary assessment.

The judge suggested Hills take the matter up with the attorney-general's ministry and the corrections authorities, and Hills said he would speak with officials at Wilkinson Road jail.

Provincial Court

Michael Harold Jose, 26, of 1450 Douglas, appeared in court sitting in a wheelchair. He and 19-year-old Calvin Lloyd Patterson, of no fixed address, were charged with breaking and entering and possession of a stolen guitar.

Jose was denied bail following a hearing and was remanded for election of his trial method.

Patterson pleaded guilty to the break-in and to a charge of theft under $200 in connection with the theft of flags Aug. 19 from the Royal Olympic Hotel.

He was remanded in custody until Friday for sentencing.

CROWN COUNSEL Clinton Kittle entered a stay of proceedings, abruptly ending a preliminary hearing of a charge of robbery with violence against five persons just before the alleged victim was to be called to the witness stand to testify.

Charged were 20-year-old Richard Byron Barker, of 804 Foul Bay; 19-year-old Dale Rodney Giebelhaus, of 835 Ellery; 18-year-old Martin George Knight, of 115 Carey; 18-year-old Richard Lane Monette, of 2533 Dowler; and 21-year-old Gavin Robert McMillan, also known as Gavin Robert Prior, of 2735 Quadra.

They had been charged in connection with a June 22 incident in which Mark Leslie Schneider was reportedly beaten and robbed.

A 17-YEAR-OLD youth who took part in the theft of a large quantity of copper wiring was given a suspended sentence, six months probation, and 100 hours of community service work.

Crown counsel Richard Law said Ferreira and three juveniles were seen loading 200 pounds of copper wiring, valued at $120, into the rear of a truck at the back of Houle Electric, 625 Hillside, at about noon.

Police located the same vehicle later that day at Victoria Iron and Metal, 10 Saghalie. When questioned, Law said, Ferreira initially told police he got the copper from the Prospect Lake Road area but later admitted taking it from the Hillside address.

FINED FOR drinking-driving were: Thomas Lawrence Griffin, 22, of 2231 Arbutus, $350; and Russell Alan Court, 18, of 2822 Colquitz, $200.

Beach Drive noise rocks council

By DON COLLINS
Colonist reporter

Up he popped in his bed.

Was that the enemy guns?

A motorcycle droned into the distance.

Then there was the man down the road.

He didn't hear guns. He heard crashes.

"In the two years I lived in my house (1247 Beach Drive) my car was hit four times, each time by a drunk coming from the Snug."

There were 20 of them in all, these people of the 1200 block of Beach Drive.

They were there in the Oak Bay municipal hall Monday to say their piece. And while they demonstrated that Beach Drive tip-of-the-hat politeness, a couple of them were . . . well . . . a little on the brittle side.

LIKE THE one portly gentleman with the complaint about cars speeding around a blind curve.

"About once every two months we hear the police siren instead of three or four times a night," he grumbled to indicate police should be more active. He aimed the grumble in the general direction of Police Chief Irving Bailey.

A few weeks earlier the municipality decided it was time to draw the line. Monday's show was proof that you don't draw a line on the people of Beach Drive without hearing about it—even if the line in question is one of those yellow curb lines forbidding parking.

The meeting was strictly an information session to let the people state their case to the municipality's non-council troops—such as Chief Bailey, administrator Jim Craven and engineer Geoff White.

THE IDEA, as a diplomatic Craven put it, was for the three paid officials to put their heads together and come up with some recommendations for one of the council committees.

The yellow line on the east (seaside) curb was for safety reasons, since most of the waterfront strollers chose that side, and parked cars were considered hazardous.

But, said members of Monday's tight little group, this had simply chased all the cars to the west side where they were blocking entrance pathways and driveways, and generally making a nuisance of themselves.

"We don't entertain at home," said the portly complainer. "We have to entertain elsewhere because there's no place to park."

While it was a bit distasteful, he had nevertheless found in necessary on occasion to have offending cars towed away.

MUCH OF the generally polite attack was aimed at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. It was said to be causing a traffic problem with, as one man put it, "car jockeys" parking cars along Beach Drive as far as a quarter of a mile from the hotel lot.

The lot, without clearly marked entrance and exit signs, was also described as a hazard.

There had been some question of the Oak Bay Beach (only hotel in Oak Bay) providing too much landscaping and too small a parking lot.

The yellow line (some of the people on the west side want one of their own) was used as an excuse to unload all the old complaints about speeding, noise and even the perils of cycling on the sidewalk.

It remained for a man with a twinkle in his eye to give the best example of what was meant by noise.

"Ten minutes after two this morning I woke up and I thought there was a machine gun in my bedroom," he said. "But it was just another motorcycle going by.

"He was a little early—most of them don't come by until about 2:30."

As it turns out, the yellow line separates more than cars and people. It may be a symbol of a little bit of class distinction.

A NO-NONSENSE resident of the west side of Beach Drive complained that with no limit on cars per home, a great many unwanted vehicles could be expected from those on the east side of the road.

"Everybody on the east side are transients . . . or . . . they rent," he intoned. Those on the other side— his side, that is—were owner-residents of long standing.

Bus line dispatchers expected back today

The buses continued to operate Monday with management personnel filling the gap.

Union sources said the dispatchers, members of the Office and Technical Employees Union, took the action to protest what they saw as stalling tactics in contract negotiations.

Although they were prepared to return to the job today they said they would refuse overtime work until their was some sign of progress.

Toronto police kill black

TORONTO (CP) — Black community leaders say they fear increasing racial tension may follow Sunday's fatal police shooting of Albert Johnson, a black immigrant, in his home.

Johnson, 35, was shot in the chest from a distance of one metre after he came down a staircase swinging a lawn edger, which police said they thought was an axe. He died later in hospital.

The Ontario Human Rights Commission said it would meet with Johnson's family after the dead man's sister said publicly that she wondered whether the incident was racially motivated.

Police say they are satisfied that the color of Johnson's skin had nothing to do with the shooting.

They say Johnson had charges of assaulting police, possession of dangerous weapons and disturbing the peace outstanding when he died.

Black community leaders say their phones were tied up Monday with black people expressing fear, anger, frustration and outrage.

Alfred Hamilton, publisher of Contrast, a weekly newspaper for the estimated 150,000 blacks in Toronto, said, "I really don't like the mood of things at this point.

"I wish it hadn't happened, not just for the family's sake but for the sake of the whole community."

PIPE GIVEN NOD

OLYMPIA (AP) — Trans Mountain Pipe Line Co.'s application for permission to build a multi-million oil pipeline was officially accepted Monday by Washington State's Energy Facility Site Evaluation Council.

But that acceptance marked just the beginning of a long and tedious process toward a possible green light for the project.

The pipeline company, based in Vancouver, wants permission to build a 1,360-kilometre line from Low Point, about 18 miles west of Port Angeles on the Strait of Juan de Fuca, to Edmonton.

No talk on fish —chief

LILLOOET, B.C. (UPC) — Chief Victor Adolph of the Fountain Indian band, currently embroiled in a fishing rights dispute with the federal department of fisheries, said Monday he will not meet with Dr. Wally Johnson, director-general of the department's Pacific Region.

In a telex to Adolph late last week, Johnson requested a meeting Tuesday in Cache Creek, about 50 kilometers east of Lillooet. The telex also requested Adolph to reply by noon Monday.

"I called Dr. Johnson and he apologized for being so gruff in his telex," Adolph said. "It sounded like he was issuing an ultimatum. I told him we won't meet with him Tuesday in Cache Creek."

The band has requested a meeting with Indian Affairs Minister Jake Epp and Fisheries Minister James McGrath, but Adolph has not received a reply.

Vacation bus crash injures 17

MONTREAL (CP) — Seventeen members of a Montreal social club were injured Monday afternoon when the bus bringing them back from a week-long vacation blew a tire and ran into a ditch about 30 kilometres north of Montreal.

About 50 members of La Familiale de la Gaiete, a group which offers vacations to people who can't normally afford them, were aboard the bus.

The group included adults as well as children.

Police said there were no serious injuries.

From Patricia's soldiers: 'What a colossal waste'

Lady Patricia Brabourne on recent visit

Earl Mountbatten of Burma, killed Monday in a terrorist explosion off the Irish coast, was remembered Monday by Victorians as a man who was comfortable with people and at home in the world.

Mountbatten's great-grandmother was Queen Victoria, for whom this city was named. Mountbatten was closely related to almost every royal house in Europe.

Mountbatten's daughter, Lady Patricia Brabourne, was in critical condition Monday following the explosion aboard his yacht.

LADY BRABOURNE has been colonel-in-chief of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry since 1974.

Most soldiers in the battalion had met Lady Brabourne and were fond of her, said Lt.-Col. Brian Vernon, commanding officer of the 3rd battalion PPCLI in Esquimalt.

"The average reaction of soldiers is disbelief," Vernon said.

"She was extremely pleasant to the soldiers, no matter what their rank or the occasion. She always fitted in well and was always well thought of.

"To say this was a criminal act would be redundant. What a colossal waste, a sheer waste."

LT.-CMDR. DAVID TUDOR, who is with the staff of Rear-Admiral Michael Martin, Commander of Maritime Forces Pacific in Victoria, served with Mountbatten in the Far East in 1944 and in the Mediterranean in 1948-50.

Tudor said Monday in an interview that Mountbatten was held in warm esteem by all who knew him, whatever their rank.

"He was able to talk at all levels to all people," Tudor said.

"He had a rapport with everybody, and a total dedication to the navy."

MOUNTBATTEN VISITED Royal Roads Military College several times in recent years, and his talks to students and officers were remembered warmly.

Former lieutenant-governor George Pearkes, V.C., said history had lost "a remarkable man" with the death of Mountbatten, citing his contributions as a soldier and a statesman.

Pearkes grew up not far from Mountbatten but it was during the First World War that he made his acquaintance and was later to become a personal friend. It was Mountbatten, on Pearkes' invitation, who oppened the G.R. Pearkes Clinic in 1969.

Anglican Bishop Roy Gartrell said Mountbatten "represented a quality of dedication to the public good which obviously made him a target for those who resent that kind of philosophy. I regret that those who perpetrated the crime of his death and several other innocent people could think they were furthering their cause, for I'm sure the opposite is true."

MOUNTBATTEN helped establish Pearson College, and had travelled around the world raising money for Pearson and the other two world colleges in Singapore and Wales.

Pearson College director Jack Matthews said Monday that Mountbatten "seemed to have the knack of having ordinary people respect him."

Matthews recalled an incident in 1972 when he and Mountbatten were at a cocktail party in Toronto with about 300 others.

The party was to raise money for the International Council of United World Colleges, and the room was filled with important people.

"Suddenly Lord Mountbatten saw someone across the room. He grabbed my arm and said, 'Jack, I know that man, he was on the Kelley.' (Mountbatten was commander of the destroyer Kelley which went down off Crete, guns blazing at German dive bombers, in 1941. About half the crew died.)

"He barrelled across the room and went right up to the fellow and said, 'You were on the Kelley but I can't remember your name.

"The man, who had been an ordinary sailor on the ship, remembered Mountbatten, and introduced himself.

"Although all the important people in the room wanted to talk with Mountbatten, he stayed and talked with the man for about half an hour."

John Colhoun, manager of the touring Omagh Academicals rugby team, declined comment on the assassination. "Rugby around the world is non-political and our boys in particular are glad to get away from the troubles for awhile," he said.

Terrorist murders cold, calculating

The terrorist murder of Lord Mountbatten was part of a cold and calculating game, a military historian said Monday.

The Irish National Liberation Army, a splinter group of the Provisional IRA, took responsibility for the killing.

Maj. Reginald Roy of the University of Victoria said Monday, "You blow up a plane. You kill Jewish athletes (as in Munich in 1972). The most outrageous things are done to gather attention and keep terrorists' aims in the public eye."

Terrorists hope for "overreaction," he said.

"The immediate popular reaction is to overreact, clamp down, hinder. Both guilty and innocent may get imprisoned. This causes some people to react against the government in power, which sometimes gains new adherents for the terrorists.

"Terrorism is a cold, calculating game with the object of gaining adherents from the backlash it causes."

Another carrier plans to apply for airport route

By GEORGE GIBSON
Colonist business editor

AirWest Airlines Ltd. is the second carrier within three days to announce that it is attempting to upgrade its service between here and the Lower Mainland.

It said Monday that it has decided to apply to the Air Transport Committee of the Canadian Transportation Commission for permission to fly between Victoria and Vancouver airports with wheeled aircraft. Such a service, the company said, would supplement existing harbor-to-harbor downtown service.

West Coast Air Services Ltd. just last Friday announced a similar program. Both proposals involve additions of new and bigger planes.

AirWest president Richard Laidman, Richmond, said at a press conference at the Captain's Palace that his company's proposal was different in that it calls for an "airbus" operation—passengers would be bused to and from downtown locations to the respective airports for connections.

Laidman added that this type of service would be particularly useful under bad weather conditions and at night when float plane services are suspended.

News of the application came after an AirWest board of directors meeting here. Laidman said that one decision arrived at during the meeting was to go ahead with the purchase of one and take an option on a second twin turboprop British Aeropsace HS-748. Both planes, which can carry 48 passengers, are veterans of service with a Philippines airline and can be obtained for "about $2.5 million."

A second $2.5 million has been designated for the purchase of two new de Havilland Twin Otter 300s, on floats, Laidman added.

News that the second harbor carrier would like to expand its service here was greeted with pleasure by members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. It had its transportation committee out in force at the event.

Chamber president Mel Cooper said that such positive-sounding news after years of campaigning by the chamber and others for improved air service "was recognition at last that this city is one of the fastest-growing cities around. It's been one of the best-kept secrets. But our biggest problem is one of transportation and things like this will help us realize our potential."

Pacific Western Airlines and Air Canada, major carriers on the Victoria-Vancouver route, withheld comment, with an Air Canada spokesman adding that they would have to see the application first. Friday PWA said that it would likely intervene in the West Coast application.

Also, West Coast president Lynn Thow said that his firm "would have to look at" AirWest's application, after it was made and published, before commenting further.

Laidman said that AirWest, under previous ownership and management, had applied four times and been turned down each time in bids for the airport route. However, as a former PWA executive who was among those to pioneer the highly-successful Edmonton-Calgary airbus service, he said he was confident that the newest application would have a good chance.

AirWest was bought last year by The Jim Pattison Group of Vancouver and has taken major steps to improve the line, which had been beset with fatal air crashes and labor difficulties.

Pattison was on hand Monday to tell of the hiring of Laidman and others who are experienced in airline administration, and several former PWA executives are among that group. Pattison also dislayed a Twin Otter model with new red, white and blue motif that will shortly adorn the aircraft.

AirWest is also awaiting U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board approval for flights between Vancouver harbor and Lake Union in Seattle and ATC approvals on two recent acquisitions in B.C.—Trans-Provincial Airlines of Prince Rupert and Pacific Coast Airlines of Nanaimo.

Saanich six named

An advisory design panel to deal with applications for the proposed Royal Oak industrial zone was established by Saanich council Monday.

The six-member panel, chosen by the Royal Oak Community Association, comprises assistant municipal planner Allan Hopper, Peter Arn, Margaret Kinsley, Graham Hunter, Robert Richards and Arthur Kool.

Terms of reference call for the group to advise council on merits of all applications for development permits in the industrial zone.

Council expects to give bylaws covering the development final approval next month.

The loan authorization, specified area and development cost charge bylaws are being vetted by various provincial government ministries.

Council has agreed to ignore a demand by Saanich-The Islands MLA Hugh Curtis to drop the Royal Oak proposal. The minister threatened last month to bring government pressure to bear if council did not scrap the project.

Split board clears Tillicum proposal

There will be no further opposition by the Capital Region Board to the Tillicum shopping centre, directors decided Monday after an acrimonious emergency meeting.

With five directors dissenting, the board decided to accept a Saanich undertaking to refer any future shopping centre development proposal to the CRD in spite of a preamble to the resolution which some felt set conditions.

Saturna Island director Jim Campbell said he felt the preamble was there to provide Saanich with an excuse to ignore its undertaking at some future date.

Sooke director Charles Perkins said that in any resolution clauses in a preamble are historical and have no effect on the actual resolution.

"It is unduly belaboring a minor concern and attributing to Saanich a duplicity which is not warranted.

"We have no reason to believe they would pass a resolution of this kind with their fingers crossed and an escape clause. That is unthinkable and in any case would be ineffective."

Sidney Mayor Norma Sealey pointed out that Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier had told the board he had not had legal advice on the status of the preamble, and also that he had.

It would be interesting, she felt, if there were a verbatim record of board debate which could be played back, and Couvelier could tell directors which statement was correct.

Couvelier said he had had a "general" discussion on the effect of preambles on resolutions, but had not had specific legal advice on the resolution under discussion.

Couvelier said Saanich had been concerned that in giving an undertaking to refer shopping centre plans to the CRD the municipality was being singled out. Other municipalities were not being asked to give any undertakings.

"Perhaps," replied Perkins, "the difficulty is Saanich is the only municipality that has attempted—and been reasonably successful—to avoid the consequences of the regional plan.

"We have to assume in dealing with this matter that other municipalities are prepared to live up to the requirments of the regional plan. Presumably they regard themselves as bound by it and we are repeating ourselves if we say they are bound."

With the discontinuance of legal action, Saanich is free to allow developers to carry on with the Tillicum plan. However, the municipality will consult the region before rezoning for any major shopping centre at Broadmead.

Meanwhile, a proposal for a shopping centre on Jacklin Road in Langford goes to public hearing Sept 4. Rezoning for that centre will go before the regional board for approval because Langford has no municipal council.

TRUSTEES STANDING FIRM ON SHIFT FOR VIC HIGH

In spite of a "deluge" of protests from Victoria High School students, the Greater Victoria school district is sticking to its plans to put them on the afternoon shift when school opens Sept. 4.

School board spokesman Bill Stavdal said Monday the school board offices have been deluged with calls from students and parents who say students who have afternoon and evening jobs will be badly hurt by the afternoon shift, which runs from 1-5:30 p.m. The morning shift, from 7:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., will be taken by Central Junior High School students.

Stavdal says district educators believe the younger students will not be able to remain attentive to their studies late into the afternoon, and for that reason decided to put them on the earlier shift. They affirmed that decision at a meeting on Monday, Stavdal said.

The shift system, which is expected to last at least until Sept. 24, was necessitated by a delay in renovations at Victoria High school. The $1.6 million job, most of which is aimed at satisfying fire protection requirements, was scheduled to be sufficiently completed by the time school opened to enable students to attend at Vic High, but delays in shipments of materials from suppliers have set the work back, according to Dura Construction, the contractor.

As a result, the school will not be ready for occupancy until at least Sept. 24, and the 1,100 students who normally attend Vic High will have to use Central Junior High for most of the month. Some parts of the Vic High building, such as the Andrews gym and change rooms and the Fairey technical wing, will be available for use throughout the month.

'Make post office crown corporation'

Inside postal workers in Victoria and across western Canada will set up information picketlines Wednesday as part of their campaign to make the post office a crown corporation.

Peter deBelle, vice-president of the 240-member Victoria local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said Wednesday's move will not impede the normal work in the postal terminals, but is intended strictly as a means of informing the public.

Pamphlets will be distributed, as was the case recently in the Atlantic region. There will be similar demonstrations in the future, deBelle said.

He agreed with CUPW western Canada technical advisor Ed Langelier, who said in Edmonton that the shift to crown corporation status for the post office would be an obvious step in the right direction.

The blitz is aimed at getting action on the matter from the new federal Conservative government, which the union feels is holding back on what had appeared to be a popular issue.

The history of strikes and poor employee-employer relationships in the post office had prompted a number of politicians to support the change to crown corporation.

"We'd like to see the Conservatives do something," said Langelier. "The organizational structure (post office) is one of the major problems."

Meanwhile, deBelle said in Victoria that union members would also be sending a standard letter to their members of parliament "to remind them that all three parties had agreed in principle with the crown corporation idea."

Clark says Tories will get the plums

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Prime Minister Clark said Monday that political patronage has been a way of life in Quebec. But he added that just as Liberals received government jobs under the Liberal regime of the last 16 years, competent Conservatives now will get jobs and contracts.

At a news conference following the morning session of his inner cabinet, Clark was asked to comment on a statement by Supply Minister Roch Lasalle that patronage is a way of life in Quebec and that loyal party workers would get government contracts.

Lasalle made the statement in an interview in Montreal last week and repeated it to reporters in this resort where the 12-minister inner cabinet is meeting for four days to discuss the future of the government.

Clark said that within a four-year mandate, the Conservative government elected May 22 will fulfil its election promises, including a $2-billion tax cut to stimulate the economy. He refused to say when that would happen.

Referring to Lasalle's remarks, he said: "I think that's a very astute observation of political history in the province of Quebec."

He said the Quebec-based minister, one of only two in the government, was indicating "what had happened historically."

"Certainly we are going to ensure that in a reasonable way, in a way that maintains public propriety, that activities undertaken by the Conservative government do not benefit the Liberal party."

He said it is a rule that those getting government work must be competent, but it was a suspicion of the Conservatives during 16 years in Opposition that "it wasn't enough to be competent."

"I naturally am not going to exclude Canadians who happen to combine competence with sharing my political affiliation."

One of the major Conservative pledges during the election campaign was a massive tax cut to stimulate the economy.

Fifteen-year-old Karl Leong landed a 34.14-pound chinook drift fishing in front of Finlayson Arm's Goldstream Island Sunday afternoon . . . and he was only using eight-pound-test line.

He will be a contender for the special prize of a waterproof wristwatch from the Old Gold Shop for the youngster with the outstanding quality catch of the six-month-long King Fisherman Contest and he will also be a contender for the Molson's Fish of the Month honors for the outstanding catch in August.

He won the VSIAA perpetual trophy for the most salmon 20 pounds or heavier for the past two years and with eight in the 20-pound and better class from Saanich Inlet this year young Karl seems well on his way to winning the trophy again.

But his father has won the VSIAA coho trophy for the past two years which places them even.

Father Harmon plans to be a little sneaky again this year by taking his holidays after school goes back so he will have the coho advantage over his son.

It took Karl about 40 minutes to boat his 34.14-pound chinook Sunday while fishing with two cousins, Derek, 14, and Regan, 20, in his father's 22-foot Bayliner. Young Karl had caught three seven-pounders Buzz Bombing in the morning and was after his fourth to make a limit. His father, Harmon, had limited in the morning.

Karl was using a white Buzz Bomb, on which he had painted his own special pink stripe, which he has found effective for Finlayson Arm fish. He was using his prized 10 foot, 10 inches Hardy rod and a Daiwa spinning reel.

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — A Danbury Race Arena starter was killed Saturday night when a stock car went out of control and hit the starter's platform.

Dear Readers: My response to the 12-year-old who wanted a monkey as a pet got me into more trouble than it was worth. Even my twin sister, Dear Abby, complained. I recounted how she had received two spider monkeys from friends in South America. They were lightning fast, full of mischief and very destructive. (She finally had to give them to a zoo.)

"Dear Sis," she wrote, "From reading your column one would think I let the monkeys run loose in my home. I wish you had made it clear that I kept them in a cage."

I want to announce publicly that my sister, Dear Abby, did NOT let the monkeys run loose in her home. She kept them in a cage.

Dozens of readers who keep monkeys as pets were upset because I spoke unflatteringly of their furry friends. This letter from Pasadena will give you an idea of what happens to people who get mixed up in monkey business:

Ann Landers: (I refuse to call you "dear" because you must be a terrible person.)

You said monkeys are undesirable house pets because they are destructive and impossible to house-break. Well, you are wrong.

I have had two monkeys within the last 10 years and they were both ideal companions. The last monkey hung himself accidentally on the drapery cord, and I'm all set to get another one as soon as I return from my vacation.

I have had dogs, cats, a raccoon and hamsters. They don't compare with monkeys when it comes to intelligence, and just plain fun. I prefer the company of a monkey to humans any day. — Darwin Was Mistaken.

Then there was this letter from Rochester, N.Y.:

Dear Ann Landers: You are WRONG. Monkeys do not belong in a zoo. They belong in the jungle. I become physically ill when I see an animal in a cage. Please apologize to all animal-lovers everywhere. — Steven Y.

Dear Stephen and everybody else out there who is mad at me because of my stand on monkeys. I don't know whether they belong in your homes, in the zoo or in the jungle, but one thing is certain: they do not belong in my column, and you have heard the last of it from me. Today I feel like a monkey's uncle.

Dear Ann Landers: My boy friend is losing his hair. He is ten years older than I am. At the rate his hair is going, we will soon look like father and daughter. Please tell us what you know about synthetic fibre implants. We have read some advertisements, but they always tell people how great the product is. What about the hazards? Are there any? Thanks for your help. —Rita in Augusta.

Dear Rita: I checked with three dermatologists. They are all strongly opposed to synthetic fibre implants. They say this type of implant carries a high risk for infection and a variety of other complications. They also pointed out that most of the fibres fall out within two months, along with some of the patient's own hair. Have you heard enough? I hope so.

CONFIDENTIAL to Heartbroken Mother: If the young man cared as much for your daughter as you say, he would have discussed the problem with her and tried to work out a solution. True love triumphs over allergies — especially when the cause is an angora cat.

THE ACES® IRA G. CORN, JR.

"The world gets better every day, then worse again in the evening." — Kin Hubbard.

Declarer had eight tricks in his search to score today's nip and tuck game. The problem lay with developing a ninth without giving West the lead.

West led the heart king and continued, declarer holding up his ace until the third round. Declarer had eight top winners and he had to decide whether to develop the diamonds or the clubs.

He chose diamonds – he had more of those than clubs – and played the ace, king and another, hoping that East would win the third round (or that hearts would break 4-4). No luck. West won the third diamond and cashed two hearts and the game fell one short.

Obviously, declarer should have played clubs instead of diamonds. But how should the suit have been played?

If declarer bangs out the top clubs from dummy, an alert East will make a bad evening. He will jettison both high honors to create an entry for West with the 10 of clubs.

The winning plan is to lead a low club to dummy after winning the ace of hearts. If West plays low, a low card is played and East is forced to win.

If West plays the 10, dummy's king wins and declarer crosses to his hand with a spade. Another club is led to dummy and, when West follows low, declarer surrenders the trick to East.

East has no hearts to lead and dummy's fourth club yields the game going trick.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Donohue: I heard on TV and radio about a major breakthrough in the treatment of acne, one using vitamin A. I looked for a follow-up in the newspapers but could not find anything. Where can I go for the most up-to-date treatment? I have been told only to use tetracycline capsules for it. It hasn't helped at all. I am 36 years old, a male. — J.S.

If all the "major breakthroughs" I've heard and read about in the past couple of decades were even partially valid the entire medical profession could pack its bags and retire.

This is an experimental treatment for acne that has been reported effective. The preparation is called tretinoin, a form of vitamin A (retinoic acid). But read on. It was found effective in a small study, (14 patients) in preventing acne eruptions and in clearing those present. A number of side effects were noted, chiefly sore mouth, face rash and skin dryness (xerosis).

The long-range value and safety of the preparation for use in acne is still in doubt. This will have to be determined by time and research. Areas of concern are the eyes and liver. The preparation would likely cause birth defects when used by pregnant women.

Doctors, particularly dermatologists, treat hundreds of acne patients each year and are on the alert for any new, safe and effective treatment for it. A dermatologist can advise you about this treatment or where any trial studies are being conducted.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How long should a thermometer be left under the tongue to get a reliable reading? — M.M.

At least three minutes.

Oak Bay police said his bike apparently hit curb as he was pulling out to pass. Stonley was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment.

Alaska, Yukon, B.C. talks Wednesday

Alaska Governor Jay Hammond, Yukon Commissioner Ione Christensen and Premier Bennett will get together in Victoria Wednesday to discuss energy problems and general economics.

The meeting is the annual Alaska, B.C., Yukon heads-of-government meeting.

Last year the main topic turned out to be the extension of the B.C. Railway along 1,600 kilometres of new track through northwestern B.C., the southern Yukon and into Alaska.

However, both Bennett and Hammond have said the extension will probably remain unbuilt until the federal U.S. government makes a major financial commitment toward its construction. The cost is estimated at close to $2 billion.

A spokesman in Bennett's office said Monday that as well as general economic performance in the three areas there would be discussion of the B.C.-government-initiated B.C. Resources Investment Corp.

Dealing with energy matters, the three heads will discuss oil pipeline proposals, Hydro development, the Alaska Highway natural gas pipeline, the highway itself, and again the rail link.

Joining the talks with Mr. Christensen will be Yukon Progressive Conservative Leader Chris Pearson, whose party holds the majority in the Yukon legislature.

He is likely to become the Yukon's first premier if Prime Minister Clark's government grants the territory provincial status.

Moving McKenzie extension 'extremely costly'

Realignment of the McKenzie Avenue extension near Interurban in Saanich would be extremely costly for provincial taxpayers, according to nearby residents.

Moving the roadway up to 100 feet northwest of original plans was agreed to by the highways ministry late last month after protests from the 86-unit Marigold Housing Co-operative Association.

However, members of the loosely-organized Garden City Homeowners' Association, which represents residents living in the old Marigold subdivision, claim the realignment was done without consultation with them.

They are concerned that the new alignment may threaten blasting damage to the rock bluff on which the Colquitz sewage holding station stands, loss of many native trees, and "unnecessary expense" in property acquistion, blasting and grading.

Deputy highways minister Tom Johnston denied there had been no consultation on realigning the route.

Johnston, replying to claims by GCHA spokesperson Patricia Van't Haaf of 710 Violet, said at least one meeting had been held with residents of the Marigold-Interurban area to get their opinions on what route should be chosen.

"We have also had correspondence with the various parties," he added.

Van't Haaf
. . . no consultation

He said the original alignment was on a right-of-way protected by Saanich municipality, but during the design stages it became clear that route would take the freeway within 25 feet of houses in the Marigold Housing Co-operative.

Curves had been realigned by about 20 feet to minimize disruption to residents on both sides of the right-of-way, Johnston said.

He added that since final designs of grade levels for McKenzie and an interchange at Interurban were still being worked on, it had not yet been possible to determine which properties would be affected, although the centreline had been decided upon.

Mrs. Van't Haaf said in a Colonist interview that residents of the older subdivision area had been shut out of discussions between Saanich, the highways ministry, and the co-operative members.

She said the secrecy surrounding the proposed realignment was a breach of trust with the neighborhood.

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

Home plan in trouble

Council bucks appeal over land reserve

The North Quadra residential development plan was placed in jeopardy Monday when Saanich council refused to endorse an appeal for removal of a 26-acre tract from the Agricultural Land Reserve.

Aldermen said they wanted staff to reassess plans for single-family homes on 250 acres in North Quadra and the agricultural potential of all reserve land in the plan area.

BUT THEIR biggest concern was the reason for a condition of sale attached by B.C. Hydro for a portion of the 26 acres.

Terms of the sale require Saanich to apply for exclusion of the total parcel.

Removing the land from the ALR was opposed by the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, B.C. Farmers' Institute, South Saanich Farmers' Institute and several residents who addressed council at a public hearing.

SOUTH Saanich institute spokesman Art Garcia told council he failed to understand the reason for Hydro's request.

He questioned why the corporation would make such a condition and why Hydro would be concerned whether a piece of property it was selling remained in the reserve.

"Is Hydro to play a part in the zoning and planning of Saanich?" he asked.

Garcia also asked why the municipality had not questioned "this very peculiar" condition of sale.

"IT IS a strange condition of sale and it would behoove those concerned to question closely such requirements in future purchases."

Saanich is proposing to develop about half of the 26 acres off Beckwith Avenue for a park and recreational area.

"It's good agricultural land," Garcia said. "If we keep eroding this law (the ALR) we are going to wipe it out. There is precious little farmland left, and we urge council to look at this request on moral and ethical grounds."

ALD. Geoffrey Vantreight, a veteran farmer, said he was opposed to removing the property as the land could be agriculturally productive.

"If we remove this portion, then we should throw the ALR right out of the window," he said.

Applications to remove an additional 55 acres in North Quadra from the reserve would be coming before council later, assistant planner Allan Hopper, told council.

SEVERAL aldermen said this possibility raised serious concerns about development in North Quadra.

Ald. Howard Sturrock said ignoring advice from agriculture bodies was a serious step, but it was also a serious move to mar plans for development now under way in the area.

Ald. David Paterson said there was no doubt in his mind that when council approved the North Quadra development plan that most of the land would have to be removed from the reserve.

"WE ARE basically committed to residential development," he said, noting council earlier this year approved a development cost charge bylaw for the entire area.

"Cost implications on the municipality will be horrendous if we turn back now," he warned.

Ald. Irene Block said she disliked the idea of Hydro dictating to the municipality, and "it is never too late to correct a mistake."

After years of debate, council agreed 18 months ago to a single-family-homes-only policy for North Quadra.

RESIDENTS fought a bitter battle to have council drop plans for townhouse and hig-density development on the land.

Ferry union says today is decisive

As both sides in the B.C. Ferry contract dispute head for a crucial meeting with mediator Fred Geddes today, union officials appear less optimistic than their management counterparts.

Both were reported banking on a settlement prior to the Labor Day weekend, but B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union president Shirley Mathieson indicated Monday night that such reports had no real foundation.

Declining to comment on just how matters stand, Mathieson said: "It will depend on what is proposed (today) when we meet with the mediator."

In addition to wages, the union and B.C. Ferry Corp. were still believed to be at odds over sick leave and the use of casual employees.

Mathieson has said the ferry workers will not take the illegal step of acting on a strike mandate while the mediator is still involved. Had Geddes reported out to Labor Minister Allan Williams, the 72-hour strike notice would have opened the way to a legal strike by noon last Friday.

United Way gives up door-to-door drive

That staple of fund-raising campaigns, the door-to-door canvass, is a thing of the past for the United Way of Greater Victoria which supports 23 service organizations.

The 1979 campaign kicks off Saturday, Sept. 15, and for the first time a residential canvass will not be on its fund-raising roster.

Campaign co-ordinator Al Pennock said Monday that the residential canvass had gradually been reduced over the years, and last year only a part of Oak Bay was canvassed door-to-door.

He said the time involved in preparing and carrying out canvasses was not justified by the results..

Instead, the United Way will rely on envelopes mailed out to households across southern Vancouver Island in mid-October.

The United Way will again rely heavily on employee and corporate contributions to reach its $1,020,000 target by Oct. 31.

The campaign will be paced by a variety of supporting local events. On Sept. 14, Victoria Mayor Michael Young will kick off both the Canadian senior amateur soccer championship tournament and the United Way campaign simultaneously at Royal Athletic Park. Silver collections taken throughout the championships will benefit United Way agencies.

On Sept. 15, the United Way Super Bingo will take place at the Victoria Curling Club, and the Western Speedway Canada 200 race that same day will have a 50-50 cash draw in which half the proceeds go to the United Way. The Sidney Kiwanis Club will hold a bingo game Sept. 16, with proceeds to the United Way.

The South Vancouver Island Rangers are sponsoring a trap shoot at their range in Metchosin, to which occasional shooters and members of the public are invited, on Sept. 22 and 23. Proceeds will go to the United Way.

Another Western Speedway benefit is a demolition derby scheduled for Oct. 7. Later in October, the Molson's Harbor Towers Beach golf event, the Miss Victoria Pageant, and CJVI Radio's Pay for a Play will assist the United Way.

Colonist wire services

LONDON — A ceremonial funeral with the entire royal family present will be held in Westminster Abbey next week for Earl Mountbatten of Burma, 79, who was killed Monday when his boat was blown apart by Irish Republican Army terrorists.

Mountbatten's grandson, Nicholas, 14, and a 15-year-old crew member, Paul Maxwell, also were killed.

The death of the Second World War hero is the first direct attack by IRA guerrillas against the royal family in their 10-year armed struggle against British administration in Northern Ireland.

Other members of Mountbatten's family, including his daughter, Lady Bradbourne, and another grandson, Timothy, were struggling for their lives in a Sligo hospital after they were plucked from the water by a fleet of small boats. The cruiser Shadow V held nine occupants. Two were missing.

The IRA Provisionals described Mountbatten's killing, with what they said was a 50-pound bomb set off by remote control, as an "execution" to bring world attention to the fact British authorities still "occupy" the six counties to the north.

The Irish army and police threw up roadblocks in the area. Irish Justice Minister Gerry Collins flew to Sligo to take charge.

Officials said Mountbatten, whose illustrious career spanned the rule of four monarchs, apparently was killed instantly in the blast that destroyed and sank the craft in Sligo Bay, 18 kilometres from the border of Northern Ireland.

IRA sources acknowledged responsibility for the bombing, saying "the operation had been planned for quite some time and is part of a continuing campaign to end British torture of the Irish people."

The attack occurred less than 90 kilometres from Galway, one of the sites Pope John Paul II will visit next month.

Mountbatten, who raised his nephew Prince Philip, was the supreme commander of allied forces in Southeast Asia in the Second World War and Britain's last viceroy in India before independence in 1946.

Mountbatten not only had

Ambush follows blasts

WARRENPOINT, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British Army said two remote-controlled bombs and an ambush by Irish Republican Army guerrillas killed at least 17 British soldiers Monday and possibly as many as 24.

The double bombings near Warrenpoint claimed the worst death toll in a single incident since the IRA began its guerrilla war 10 years ago to drive the British out of Northern Ireland and unite Ulster with Ireland.

An army spokesman said the exact number of soldiers killed cannot be immediately determined because some bodies were so mutilated. Eight soldiers also were severely wounded, he said.

Authorities said that in an ambush following the explosions, one suspected guerrilla was killed and a second was wounded. The IRA claimed responsibility for the bombs but denied its members had fired at the soldiers.

The IRA said the bombs were detonated by remote control "in similar fashion to the bomb which was set off to kill Lord Mountbatten."

The army spokesman gave this account of the bombings and the army's version of the firefight that he said followed:

The soldiers, in a truck and Jeep, were travelling between Newry and Warrenpoint in County Down when a bomb concealed in a parked truck loaded with straw exploded.

At least six men were killed in the blast that hurled

Thatcher vows to wage war on Irish terrorism

Colonist wire services

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Monday pledged a war against terrorism.

In a statement following the death of Lord Mountbatten, she said:

"By their actions today, the terrorists have added yet another infamous page to their catalogue of atrocity and cowardice.

"If reports of their involvement in the death of Lord Mountbatten prove true, they will earn the condemnation and contempt of people of good will everywhere.

"By the same token, the senseless murder of members of the security forces has reinforced the repugnance felt for those who seek to advance their political ends by these evil means.

"The government will spare no effort to ensure that those responsible for these and all other acts of terrorism are brought to justice. The people of the United Kingdom will wage the war against terrorism with relentless determination until it is won."

Earlier, Thatcher sent a message of condolence to Queen Elizabeth, saying: "The British people give thanks for his life and grieve his passing."

Ireland's deputy prime minister, George Colley, issued a statement expressing "profound shock and regret." It noted "subversive organizations have claimed responsibility" for "this cowardly and heartless outrage," adding thatd no effort would be spared to bring those responsible to justice.

Meanwhile, Tomas Cardinal O'Fiaich, the Catholic primate of Ireland, expressed horror and revulsion for the death of the earl and the British soldiers.

"The news from Ireland this evening totally appalls and horrifies me," the cardinal said in a statement made public by the Irish college in Rome on Monday. "This is mass murder and nothing can justify it."

O'Fiaich, 55, a strong spokesman for the rights of Catholics in Northern Ireland, arrived in Rome earlier in the day to arrange details for Pope John Paul's visit to Ireland next month.

Mourning week called for India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The Indian government Monday ordered a week's mourning for Lord Mountbatten, who as last viceroy signed India's independence from Britain 32 years ago.

"Lord Mountbatten will always occupy a place of honor in India," President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy said in a message to Queen Elizabeth.

Indira Ganhdi, daughter of India's first Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, called the assassinated British leader "an extraordinary personality, a lion, a born leader of men."

"Lord Mountbatten showed sympathies and understanding of complex problems facing India at that particular period. And this was the basis of his friendship with my father and our family and other Indian leaders," Mrs. Gandhi said.

Bandit gets out with 2 hostages

QUEBEC (CP) — A bandit fled the scene of a foiled bank robbery in a car with two hostages shortly before midnight Monday. He released 10 others, ending a siege which lasted throughout the afternoon.

The bandit escaped in the bank manager's car with the manager and a teller just after the hostages were released.

The three left the bank with their faces covered as the others were released. Several of those released were suffering from shock.

At about 11:20 p.m. the manager, who had left unseen, returned with his car and stopped in front of the bank with the engine running. Shortly afterward, the first of the hostages were let go and ran into the street screaming hysterically.

Police went in and cleared the scene.

The lone gunman had held 12 people hostage following an aborted holdup in a suburban bank branch Monday afternoon.

Ballerina says nyet, flies home

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-day impasse between the U.S. and Soviet governments that left a jetliner and passengers stranded on a runway ended Monday when ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova reaffirmed her intention to return to the Soviet Union.

"We are satisfied that the principles involved in this incident have been upheld, and that is that she is leaving on the basis of her own expression . . . that she wishes to return at this time to the Soviet Union," said Donald McHenry, chief U.S. negotiator at the scene.

U.S. officials had insisted that Miss Vlasova — whose husband, Bolshoi Ballet principal dancer Alexander Godunov, defected to the United States last week — meet with them to state in person that she was leaving of her own free will.

Miss Vlasova had refused to leave the plane, and she and 52 other passengers remained aboard until Monday, when McHenry and other U.S. and Soviet officials met with her aboard a mobile van used to ferry passengers to and from planes.

After the interview the jetliner departed for Moscow.

Godunov had insisted his wife also wanted to defect but Soviet officials claimed she wanted to return to Moscow and that she did not want to get off the plane to talk to U.S. officials.

Tuna-fleet arrest heats sea feud

Another Canadian-U.S. fishing controversy is shaping up over the first-ever seizure of American tuna trollers over the weekend.

The federal fisheries patrol vessel Tanu escorted the eight vessels suspected of fishing inside Canada's 320-kilometre (200-mile) zone into Ship Point dock at Victoria's Inner Harbor late Monday night.

Dr. Wally Johnson, Canadian Fisheries regional director in Vancouver, was in Victoria to inspect the seized vessels to determine if charges would be laid under the Coastal Fisheries Protection Act.

U.S. and Canadian governments are at odds over tuna-fishing regulations. Under American law, the individual state has jurisdiction over fishing within 20 kilometres of their coasts. Under Canadian law, there is a ban on foreign fishing within 320 kilometres of the coast.

Five of the American vessels are from Seattle and the other three are from California. Four of the Seattle boats are identified as the St. John II, Majestic, Alma J, and Lorelei II. Of the others, only the home port of the San Diego-based Jeanne and Los Angeles based Four C are known.

A Canadian official said five of the American skippers refused to follow the Canadian vessels when they were intercepted Sunday 90 kilometres off Cape Cook, south of Quatsino Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island. The vessels were then boarded by fisheries officers and escorted by the 185-foot Tanu.

First word of the alleged infraction came Friday from Canadian tracker aircraft patrolling the B.C. coast.

John Cairns of the Canadian fisheries department's Vancouver office said the vessels were given ample opportunity to leave the area.

"They were first advised Saturday that they were fishing in Canadian waters and were given a second opportunity to leave later that day," he said. "The third time, we had no choice but to escort them in."

Paul Glasoe, the American consul in Vancouver, demanded the release of the vessels and their crews.

"We want the boats and the fisherman released as soon as possible," he said.

The boats were believed to have been following a run of albacore tuna, which are rare in that area.

Pickets from Harmac shut MB Chemainus mill

Colonist staff and CP

However, problems for MacMillan Bloedel mounted on another Island labor front with pickets from the Harmac local shutting down the large Chemainus sawmill.

The 10 New Brunswick pickets, members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union, came to B.C. Friday to protest slow negotiations with their employer, MacMillan Rothesay in Saint John, a company partly owned by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. of Vancouver.

The New Brunswick workers have been on strike since April 10.

The labor relations board ruled Saturday that Local 601, which represents the New Brunswick workers, is not a recognized local in B.C. and therefore cannot institute job action.

MacMillan Bloedel spokesman Gordon Towill said the 10 pickets at both mills kept about 4,000 workers off the job.

MacMillan Bloedel holds a majority interest in the New Brunswick company, with the remainder held by Spanish interests.

Larry Hanley, a union local president in Saint John, said Sunday that if the striking workers from New Brunswick were forced to stop picketing in B.C., they would move to mills in other cities.

Harmac has been closed over a hot-pulp dispute since early last week, but on Monday, Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada pickets from the Harmac local spread their wings all the way to Chemainus.

Thus, as the 4,000 millworkers in Port Alberni and Powell River were returning to their jobs, some 1,200 Harmac workers were joined on the sidelines by the majority of the 600 employees at Chemainus, all members of a different union, International Woodworkers of America.

As was the case in the Powell River-Port Alberni clash, MacMillan Bloedel intends to seek a cease-and-desist order from LRB against Chemainus pickets.

IRA kills Mountbatten

a war record rivalling fiction —Noel Coward wrote a film about his exploits as commander of the destroyer Kelly that went down off Crete with guns blazing—but his peacetime activities were also legend.

He was one of the planners of the ill-fated Dieppe raid in which about 900 Canadians were killed in the disastrous attempt to test German shoreline defences.

He made many trips to Canada and often spoke of the Dieppe raid suggesting his own ideas were overruled by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

He was the modernizer of the British navy, a linguist, inventor, author and athlete who rewrote the tactics of polo.

He wore 10 rows of medal ribbons and 26 citations for courage under fire. During the Burma campaign when doctors told him he might lose an eye unless he stopped for treatment he refused with the words: "I'd rather lose an eye than (strategic) Kohima."

Mountbatten raised his nephew, Philip Mountbatten, from the age of eight and brought him and Elizabeth together.

Buckingham Palace said Queen Elizabeth, on holiday at Balmoral Castle in Scotland, was deeply shocked.

French police intercepted Philip's car as he drove to an equestrian event in Normandy and broke the news.

Charles, who had been scheduled to leave Thursday, was salmon fishing in northeastern Iceland when told of the earl's death by his private secretary. He was cutting short his holiday and returning to London.

The Prince of Wales was devoted to Mountbatten and was in his company as often as possible.

Buckingham Palace announced Monday night:

"The queen and the whole of the royal family will attend the service at Westminster Abbey.

"Internment will be at a private ceremony at Romsey Abbey in Hampshire near Lord Mountbatten's home, Broadlands.

"Flags will be flown at halfmast Tuesday and on the day of the funeral. The court will be in mourning up to and including the day of the funeral, which will pobably be on Wednesday or Thursday of next week. A final decision on the funeral will have to take account of the fact that a number of members of Lord Mountbatten's family are still gravely ill."

The IRA's slaughter of a member of the royal family may bring a backlash against Roman Catholics by the one million Protestants in Ulster.

After a low-point two years ago the IRA regrouped its 600 members into six-member squads. British army chiefs expect a long, increasingly sophisticated campaign by the Provisionals.

Reg Williams, a member of the household at Mountbatten's estate at Classiebawn Castle, Cliffoney, said, "We heard from him yesterday and he said he was thoroughly enjoying his holiday. He was going out fishing and was having a complete rest.

"He went to County Sligo every year for a month. He had no enemies in the world. Everyone liked and loved him. As far as I know he had never been threatened by a terrorist group."

Last March, a small Marxist group known as the Irish National Liberation Army murdered Airey Neave, the Conservative spokesman for Northern Ireland. A bomb was planted in his car.

Guerrillas have also killed British ambassadors to the Irish Republic and to the Netherlands.

Montbatten owned the castle at Cliffoney for about 35 years and a local official said he "was a very popular annual visitor."

The official said, "The village is full of holidaymakers —many of them from Northern Ireland—at the moment. Everyone is stunned over what happened, too stunned yet to say a lot about it.

"He knew local people very well and was very happy while he was there. He often visited other local areas incognito. There were frendships going back to the time of the last war when he was in a battleship anchored off Derry for 18 months . . . He loved Ireland and the Irish people . . ."

debris across the Narrowater canal into the Irish republic only a few metres away. The IRA's clandestine statement said the device contained one-half ton of explosives.

Helicopters and reinforcements were summoned, and 25 minutes later a second bomb exploded, killing and maiming more soldiers and leaving a six-metre crater in the road. That device, spotted 100 metres from the first bomb, contained 500 pounds of explosives, the IRA said.

One helicopter landing to evacuate the wounded was damaged but succeeded in taking off and returning to base with some of the injured aboard.

IRA gunmen across the canal then opened fire with automatic weapons and the bomb-stunned soldiers shot back.The guerrillas then disappeared.

The spokesman said the army casualties were members of a parachute regiment and the Queen's Own Highlanders.

Free tuna boats, U.S. demanding

Canadian fish imports to protest the move. Alverson said the U.S. group would request the embargo to be in effect until the vessels are released.

The earliest possible appearance in Victoria provincial court, if charges are laid, would be this afternoon.

Under the Coastal Fisheries Protection Act, the maximum penalty, if the crown proceeds by indictment, is a $10,000 fine and/or one year in jail for the captain. If the crown proceeds by summary conviction, the maximum penalty is a $2,000 fine and/or one month in jail.

A check Monday with U.S. Coast Guard authorities in Seattle indicated no Canadian fishing vessels have been seized or charged recently, nor was there any increase in surveillance.

The U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said the situation of seizures was particularly sensitive because of negotiations to renew the Canadian-U.S. reciprocal fishing agreement which lapsed last year. At one point last year, American and Canadian fishing vessels were ordered out of each others waters after the suspension of the 1978 fisheries agreement.

According to a Canadian federal fisheries official, Canadian fishermen are less likely to fish or stray into U.S. waters as they are better equipped with navigation equipment. Canadian fishermen tend to be more responsible, he added.

The official said infractions by U.S. boats were almost a weekly occurrence during this summer's salmon season. Earlier this month, six U.S. boats in separate instances in Juan de Fuca Strait violated Canadian regulations, he said.

Another American fisherman is to appear in court this morning following the seizure of the gillnetter Killer Whale about midnight Sunday.

Leo Linehan, 42, of Port Townsend, is expected to be charged with fishing illegally in Canadian waters.

Fisheries officers aboard the patrol vessel Howay say they observed the gillnetter almost two kilometres inside Canadian waters near Port Renfrew. The catch of approximately 350 pounds was sold for $354.85 after the vessel was taken into Port Renfrew.

of Irish bishops are in Rome making arrangements for this great event in our history, adds to the revulsion I feel at this moment," O'Fiaich's statement said.

"These deeds bring disgrace to our country and give scandal to Christians everywhere."

Irish opposition leader Garrett Fitzgerland said in a telegram to the Queen, "We feel a deep sense of shame at this brutal act."

Gen. Jacques Dextraze, former chief of staff of the Canadian Armed Forces, described Mountbatten as a man who worked for world unity. Dextraze said he had carried on admirably in India where he was viceroy in 1947-48 despite a serious threat of civil war.

U.S. President Jimmy Carter said Monday he was "profoundly shocked and saddened" by the death.

The president said Mountbatten's memory is enshrined in the United States "for the paramount role he played in achieving victory for the allied forces during World War II."

The president said he has sent condolences "in this time of great loss" to Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Rear-Admiral George Green, South Africa's chief of naval staff who once served under Lord Mountbatten, said: "He was a British sailor of the calibre of Nelson. He had a tremendous capacity for work and had a hand in shaping the destinies of millions of people.".

In Brussels, NATO Secretary-General Joseph Luns called him one of Britain's "great servants in war and peace."

TRAFFIC JAM IN GOALCREASE occurs when Ivan Thompson (18) of the Shamrocks squeezes between two Coquitlam players and fires a shot at goalkeeper Greg Thomas, just missing the right post. Checking Thompson are Dan Wilson (19) and an unidentified mate whose number is blocked out by Kevin Alexander (26) of Victoria.Rocks emerged with 8-3 win and west title.

Shamrocks take aim at Mann Cup honors

BY REG REYNOLDS

"We got this far last year and didn't come through. This year we're going to come through."

Those were the words captain Larry Bell had for 3,000 Victoria Shamrock fans Monday night as he accepted the Western Lacrosse Association championship trophy on behalf of his teammates.

The Shamrocks had just captured their second straight WLA championship by scoring an 8-3 triumph over Coquitlam Adanacs.

They won the best-of-seven final four games to one and earned the right to host the best-of-seven Mann Cup final which starts next Tuesday.

Last year the Shamrocks traveled to Peterborough for the national final and lost four games to three to Peterborough Red Oaks.

Fittingly the Red Oaks will likely be the Shamrocks opponents this year as they hold a 3-0 lead over Brampton Excelsiors in the Eastern final.

The Shamrocks haven't won the Mann Cup in 22 years but they did win it the last time it was held here, 1957.

"We're going to win it and we're going to do it front of the hometown fans," said a jubilant Ranjit Dillon. And nobody on the Shamrocks has waited longer than Dillon, a 14-year veteran and at 35 the oldest player on the club.

Monday's game featured the closest checking of the series but Dillon didn't consider it the toughest.

"It was the most intense game but we let down a bit in the second period. We tried to play too cautious and started dropping the ball." said Dillon.

Dillon then pointed across the noise, champagne-soaked dressing room to goaltender Larry Smeltzer and said "that guy there is the most phenomenal goaltender I've ever seen."

Smeltzer was without a doubt the standout of the series and even though he was afforded excellent protection Monday he still had to come up with 54 saves.

The way the game started it looked like Victoria would have a romp. The checking was close and the hitting hard but Shamrocks built a 5-0 lead on goals by Jim Lynch, Dan Green, Bob Cool, Ivan Thompson and Kevin Alexander.

Green scored on a power-play and Alexander's goal, shorthanded and the best of the night, came after a tremendous penalty-killing effort by Joe McCrea.

McCrea fought off two players to get the ball and passed to Alexander who was clear in front. Alexander, who stayed calm decide some fierce special attention, faked three times before bouncing a shot by goaltender Greg Thomas.

Green scored 29 seconds into the second period. But then Thomas, making his first Victoria start of the series, came up with some big saves and the hard-working Adanacs took advantage of the Shamrock lapse to score three straight goals, Dave Durante at 3:15, Gord Quilty at 17:49 and Randy Delmonico at 19:55..

Coquitlam continued to press in the third period and neither team could score early. But then Thomas left his net to make a pass. Dave Thomson was on top of the play and made a tremendous hit on the Coquitlam receiver to knock the ball free. It bounced to Chris Hall who quickly fired into the empty net for the 400th point of his career.

The six-foot-three Hall jumped high to knock in a rebound at 11:46 for the final goal of the game.

Thomas, who made 38 saves, stopped 15 in the second period and 12 in the third.

Opportunity knocks and Hudon answers

Joe Hudon did a lot with some live stock and good post position Monday night and Sandown Raceway again has a close scrap going on for meet driving honors.

The ex-Manitoban, starting from the rail in three of his six drives, made it to the winners' circle four times and is again challenging Keith Linton.

Linton was winless in five drives, finishing second once and third twice to drop his Universal Driving Rating percentage to .408 while Hudon moved up to .403.

Linton did cross the line second a second time, with Lady Fort in the fourth race, but a claim that he interfered with Nechako Chris just after the start was upheld and Lady Fort was moved all the way back to seventh place.

The five-year-old bay mare, owned by ex-hockey player Pat Lundy, opened its Sandown campaign by winning the first time out. Then it broke stride in four of its next five starts, was requalified on July 5 but promptly broke stride again in its next start.

It took five tries before Shoot The Works managed to requalify a second time, but finally, on Aug. 23 the balky mare went the distance, in 2.10 3/5, without breaking stride. And on Monday night it was all the way again to beat out High Morning.

Hudon was in the No. 5 post two other times without success, finishing fifth with Mr. Ming and fourth with Sandy Pick, but he was perfect from the No. 1 hole.

He scored from there with Holridge Bob in the fifth race, Bold Design in the seventh and Alemite Quill in the eighth.

The evening's payoff thrill came in the fourth race, and could be said to provide additional proof that hard work and perseverance, even when forced, does pay off.

Ceejay Hathy, starting for the 26th time at Sandown this year, wound up on the front end for the second time to become part of a $254.30 Exactor return. The four-year-old mare paid $14.80 to win and the rest of it was done by Milt Rodney, which paid $17.90 to place although it had won and finished close up in its two previous outs.

Former Bulls threaten suit

TORONTO (CP) — Five former players for Birmingham Bulls of the defunct World Hockey Association will take the National Hockey League to court to become free agents if they don't get a $1-million contract settlement from the league by Friday, the players' agent says.

William Waters said Monday that the five young players — all top choices in the NHL's recent entry draft — want the cash settlement on $2.8-million worth of contracts arranged with the Bulls before last March when the WHA folded and four of its clubs joined the NHL.

All WHA player contracts, including those of such teams as Birmingham which folded or did not join the NHL, had to be honored by the four incoming NHL teams as part of the expansion agreement.

But Watters contends that Rob Ramage, Rick Vaive, Craig Hartsburg, Gaton Gingras and Pat Riggin had their contracts ignored and were forced to join the NHL through the entry draft.

Watters said that Bulls' owner John Bassett had announced the $2.8-million contract package — five separate one-year deals — prior to the merger agreement.

"Then, in the NHL's wisdom, the contracts were ignored and the players were shuffled off for dispersal in the entry draft, normally reserved for amateur players," Watters said.

NHL president John Ziegler called the situation sticky and said "it's still under advisement and discussion."

None of the players have signed with their new NHL teams.

Ramage was chosen first over-all in the entry draft by Colorado Rockies. Vaive was also a first-round pick, by Vancouver Canucks. Hartsburg was Minnesota North Stars' No. 1 selection and Gingras went to Montreal Canadiens, also in the first round. Atlanta Flames took Riggin as their second-round pick.

"We will invalidate the draft if necessary," Watters said. "We want one of two things — a cash settlement or free-agency. If we receive a cash settlement we will proceed to deal with the NHL teams that drafted the players."

Frustrated Giants corps fighting mad, rebellious

San Francisco Giants' pitching staff, expected to be one of baseball's strongest, instead has become the angriest.

"It's unfortunate we have things to worry about other than baseball," says manager Joe Altobelli.

John Montefusco, the starting pitcher and loser in Sunday's 4-1 setback to Chicago Cubs, left Candlestick Park saying he didn't plan to come back. He was one of four players fined $500 for drinking on a plane trip last week.

"We'll just have to see if he shows up Tuesday night," said Altobelli, whose team had Monday off before opening a three-game series with St. Louis Cardinals.

Vida Blue, the 18-game winner of 1978 who ranks as a major disappointment this season, screamed at two baseball writers after Sunday's game. He grabbed a chair at one point and warned a reporter to move away or "I'll hit you over the head."

They've become the San Fiasco Giants, with five weeks remaining in the season and their hopes for a National League pennant long forgotten.

"I'm sure it's somewhat frustrating; we did have a club that was supposed to do something, and we didn't," said Altobelli in discussing the recent clubhouse blowups, including a fight between pitcher Ed Whitson and shortstop Roger Metzger.

During the team's last road trip, Blue became angry over some things written about him in San Francisco newspapers and he barred reporters from the Giants' clubhouse following one game.

The worst things printed about the Giants' pitching this year may be the box scores, however.

Blue, Montefusco, Bob Knepper and Ed Halicki were counted on in spring training as a solid starting foursome. They have a combined record of 27-29.

Blue, with a 5.20 earned run average, has been puzzled and bothered by his problems because he feels physically sound. Up until a few weeks ago, however, he also was able to smile.

"Thank God for Mickey Mahler," he said once, referring to the Atlanta pitcher who had the only higher ERA in the National League statistics carried in Sunday newspapers.

Glenn Schwarz, baseball reporter for the Examiner, quoted Blue a week ago as saying that writers "are never getting in here again after I pitch. . . . I'm going to start bringing a shotgun."

After hearing similar words Sunday, Schwarz said: "He's threatened me three times in 10 days and it goes deeper than newspaper stories. He's just become irrational. And this place is the snakepit of the major leagues."

Spec Richardson, the Giants' general manager, said Monday he was aware of Blue's outbursts.

"I'm making an investigation into it," he said, but he did not plan to meet with the pitcher Monday.

As for Montefusco's threat to leave the team, Richardson said: "That's his decision. I can't tell him what to do."

SEATTLE — There were nothing but records Sunday in the 44th running of the Longacres Mile.

The largest crowd in the 44-year history of the track accounted for a record mutuel total and favored Always Gallant won the richest-ever Longacres Mile in record time.

Owned by Joe LaCroix of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., a one-time real-estate developer and greyhound owner, and trained by his 25-year-old son, Dave, the Florida-bred five-year-old took the lead at the head of the stretch but needed its record 1:33 4/5 to neck out the 12-1 Tilt Balance.

Always Gallant, carrying top weight of 127 pounds and rated perfectly by Darrel McHargue, paid $7.30, $5.10 and $3.90 across the board in earning the $79,500 winner's share of the $127,000 purse.

Tilt Balance, which came from well out under the guidance of Bill Mahorney, paid $11.20 to place and $5.70 to show. Bad n' Big ($4) finished third, beaten almost two lengths. The defending champion, also weighted at 127 pounds, was ridden by Eddie Delahoussaye, making it a sweep for imported California jockeys. Canadian-owned Detrimental, off at 34-1, finished sixth, about four lengths in arrears.

The crowd of 19,827 wagered $2,131,872, and three additional records were set when the daily double pool totalled $173,204 and the Exacta pool reached $257,240 and brought a $6,002.25 payoff (for $5 tickets) when a 23-1 shot won the 10th race and a 34-1 outsider was second.

Mussels racing against clock

When the boys in the wheelhouse of organized baseball dubbed the Northwest League a short-season Class-A circuit, they weren't whistling an empty tune.

It is — a little too brief, in fact, for Victoria Mussels' liking.

Mussels and their seven counterparts have packed 69 games into a compact two months. Now the Mussels are running a footrace with time.

Because they were slow from the starting blocks, Mussels have had to maintain an eye-opening clip to climb within snatching distance of first place in the Northern Division.

Winners in 16 of their last 22 outings, Mussels completed a three-game sweep of division-leading Walla Walla Padres Monday night, 9-5 at Royal Athletic Park.

It was their third series sweep of Padres this season, closing Victoria's season slate at 12-4 against the Washingtonians.

But the Mussels still have much to do.

Mussels must sweep. It's that simple.

Even if they accomplish that objective, Padres must oblige by dropping at least two of three in Bellingham to the Mariners. Mariners went into Monday's game against Mets tied with Victoria.

On Monday, Mussels rallied from a 4-0 deficit with a four-run fifth inning, highlighted by Doug Morganti's fifth homer and a two-run triple by Jim Burton.

Capitalizing on some slipshod work in the field by Padres, Mussels got another run on a bloop double by Dan Purpura.

Victoria 011 041 020— 9 14 1

Debbie bests best to prove a point

MONTREAL (CP) — There may have been better world-class performances on the day, but high jumper Debbie Brill proved conclusively she can perform under pressures at home.

The lithesome, 26-year-old from Aldergrove, B.C., took on the best in the world at Olympic Stadium and came away with a gold medal Sunday, the last day of the three-day World Cup of Athletics.

Brill, who has a long history of failing to jump up to expectations at major Canadian track meets, looked cool and poised throughout the competition.

When Brill cleared her third attempt at 1.96 — setting a Commonwealth record — the more than 20,000 at Olympic Stadium gave her a standing ovation. The record was 1.94, established by Brill at Quebec City on Aug. 12.

The ovation grew even louder when Simeoni, the only other rival in the field still in contention, hit the bar with her wrist on her third attempt.

Brill continued at 1.98 — the winning height for Ackerman at the first World Cup meet in Duesseldorf, West Germany, two years ago — but missed all three tries as she tried to time her jumps between a 5,000-metre race that was already in progress.

But while Brill's performance as a representative of the Americas team brought back memories of 1976 when Vancouver's Grey Joy gave Canada its only medal of the Olympic Games in the same stadium, it was a red-letter day for the United States squad.

The American men captured the team title with 119 points, spearheaded by the superb running of world record-holder Renaldo Nehemiah in the men's 110-metre hurdles and long-jumper Larry Myricks.

Nehemiah, whose world mark of 13 seconds was never threatened in the race, won in a blanket finish at the tape over defending World Cup champion Thomas Munkiet of East Germany and Cuban Alejandro Casanas.

There were no world record performances over the three days of the World Cup of athletics which brought together outstanding performers from the U.S., Soviet Union, East Germany, Europe, Asia, Oceania, Africa and the Americas.

The 1981 World Cup of Athletics will be staged in Rome, Sept. 4-6. Meet organizers refused to give a final-day crowd count Sunday, which seemed to be only slightly higher than Saturday. Including freebies, the total with Sunday's 30,261 was 69,734 for three sessions in the spacious 60,000-plus seat stadium.

Saanich peewees win title

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. — Saanich captured the 'A' Division title by defeating Peterborough 7-4 at the Canadian peewee lacrosse championships Sunday.

Windsor and St. Catharines were the winners in Divisions B and C, Windsor defeating Burlington 12-9 in an all-Ontario final while St. Catharines shaded Delta 10-9. The three losing finalists received silver medals.

In bronze medal playoffs Coquitlam edged Richmond 7-6 in overtime in Division A, New Westminster beat Port Coquitlam in another all-B.C. clash in Division B and Langley crushed Bridgenorth, Ont., 14-0 in Division C.

Seaboard, Elks need fifth game

The title game goes tonight at 6:30 p.m. and it will be a rubber-match of championships. Seaboard won the McGinnis League title while Elks-Athletics won the District senior "B" championship.

Bob Wilson and Ray Beveridge cracked home runs as Elks-Athletics took Sunday's opener 8-5 but home runs by Wilson and Alf Hass weren't enough to stop Seaboard from picking up a 3-2 decision in the second game.

Wayne Forland, with his second home run in as many days, and Brian Grexton powered the Seaboard attack with homers and Randy Jackson pitched a three-hitter.

Meanwhile in the Heywood Avenue Men's League, Victoria Athletics and Capital Builders scored wins and advanced to the final which opens 6:30 p.m. today at Heywood Avenue Park.

The Athletics downed Brentwood Merchants 7-3 and the Builders edged Mears Realty 6-5.

Gustafson tops

Neil Gustafson piloted a dune buggy to over-all honors in the second Clover Point motorsport slalom Sunday.

The time of 45.629 also earned Gustafson first-place in the "B" modified class of the Speedline Quick Silver Cup Challenge.

Allan Meggy was second over-all and first in the "A" prepared class with a time of 46.665 in his Datsun 240-Z and Larry Sandham was third over-all and first in "D" prepared with a time of 47.15 in his Mini-Cooper S.

Meralomas pummel Dolphins

Unbeaten Meralomas upped their record to 3-0 while Dolphins, who missed threes regulars and lost three other players during the game, slipped to 0-3.

Dolphins dug themselves a 48-0 hole at half-time. Their only concerted drive, a push from their own 10-yard line to Meralomas' five, ended in an interception.

Next outing for Dolphins is next Sunday, when they tackle North Shore Cougars at Royal Athletic.

Meanwhile, defending champion Saanich Hornets clobbered Cowichan Timbermen 27-2 and Nanaimo Headhunters trimmed Oak Bay Farmer Construction 14-6 in opening games of the Island Junior 'B' League.

Warren Paugh led Headhunters with a pair of touchdowns and Randy Barr converted both. Mark Edgington's touchdown stood for Oak Bay.

'Cap fever grips Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Playoff fever gripped this West Coast city Monday as thousands of professional soccer fans lined up for blocks in the downtown area to buy tickets for Wednesday's game between Vancouver Whitecaps and New York Cosmos.

Both teams advanced to the national conference final during the weekend with stirring victories in the confusing North American Soccer League playoffs.

The Whitecaps defeated Los Angeles Aztecs 1-0 in a regulation game and 1-0 in a 30-minute mini-game here Saturday, while in New York the Cosmos performed similar surgery on Tulsa Roughnecks by 3-0 and 3-1 scores Sunday.

And the teams seem to have scores to settle, assuring a sellout at the 32,000-seat Empire Stadium.

Vancouver defeated the storied Cosmos 4-1 and 4-2 in regular-season games this year, with the second match in New York marred by a lengthy brawl.

Two players from each team were suspended, including scoring star Georgio Chinaglia of the Cosmos and controversial winger Willie Johnston of the Whitecaps.

Both played key roles in advancing to the conference final; Chinaglia scored three times Sunday against Tulsa and Johnston was player of the game against Los Angeles.

The game should pit the over-the-hill gang enthusiasm of the Vancouver team, dominated by former English players, against the world-wide collection of Cosmos stars.

Morris best in mini-tour

Tom Morris returned to the scene of many previous triumphs and added one more to his credit on the weekend.

The former Victorian, now racing out of Vancouver, scored a combined time of six hours, three minutes and 47 seconds to win the three-stage Victoria Wheelers' mini-tour.

Morris, a former member of the Wheelers', covered a total of 223 kilometres in the "A" division of the three-stage competition which consisted of a short road race, a time trial and a long road race.)

Results:

"A" class (223 km): 1. Tom Morris, Vancouver, 6:03.47; 2. P. Teffamenti, Vancouver; 3. M. McPhalen, Vancouver.

"B" class (160 km): 1. K. Sinclair, Vancouver, 4:16.07; 2. S. Cahill, Vancouver; 3. Paul Taylor, Victoria Wheelers.

"C" class (119 km): 1. R. Naasgard, Port Alberni, 3:12.21; 2. B. Pulfer, Vancouver; 3. P. Peron, Victoria Wheelers.

Veterans (119 km): 1. A. Everton, Vancouver, 3:16.37; 2. G. Patterson, Vancouver; 3. J. Butler, Vancouver.

Novices (56 km): 1. D. Richardson, Vancouver, 1:31.45; 2. B. Ratcliffe, Vancouver; 3. E. Justice, Vancouver.

Cowichan pays fare in dinner controversy

DUNCAN — The now-we-will, now-we-won't attitude of North Cowichan council manifested itself recently when it changed its mind on the controversial issue of whether to pay the Lieutenant-Governor Henry Bell-Irving's $300 dinner bill.

The matter of the bill surfaced following a visit by Bell-Irving to officially open the Duncan-Cowichan Summer Festival.

The city of Duncan was host to the vice-regal party and 100 guests to an afternoon reception at City Hall and festival officials had expected North Cowichan to pick up a $300 dinner bill for Bell-Irving and 12 guests, as its share of the expenses involved.

However, when the matter was brought before council, it refused to participate or share in the expenses.

The only alderman wanting to pay the bill was Ald. Margaret Roberts. Ald. Graham Bruce, who was absent from the previous meeting, was the alderman that made the new proposal that council change its mind and pay the bill.

He said: "We should pay this bill in the spirit of goodwill and community relations. Perhaps this will soothe a few ruffled feathers."

Mayor George Whittaker, who was against paying the bill, ssid he would allow Bruce to put a motion that the bill be paid.

Ald. Rex Hollett spoke against the motion.

He said: "We are just flip-flopping all over the place, No one will believe us when we make a decision now."

The matter was put to the vote and was approved 4-2, with Whittaker and Hollett voting against. Aldermen Dennis Hogan, Ron McKinnon, Robertson and Bruce voted in favor.

Meanwhile, Crofton residents' hopes for some relief of their water problems this summer were dashed when Ald. Bruce told council that a second well in the McDonald Road area of Crofton will not be drilled.

It had been hoped that this, the second of two wells to be drilled, might have proved of some temporary assistance to the town's water supply before the end of summer.

Mayor Whittaker, the original proponent for well drilling to form part of the backup system of an expanded system at a later date, said he "was very disappointed."

It had been hoped that the two wells would be able to produce between 600 gallons and 700 gallons per day to each residence connected to the system.

Bruce said: "We will just have to continue with other projects underway to improve the distribution system."

Ald. McKinnon suggested to council that it meet with representatives of the major industrial firms in North Cowichan to discuss their projected expansion plans.

He said an early meeting with Doman's, B.C. Forest Products and MacMillan Bloedel "could be very beneficial."

Whittaker said: "If they were prepared to tell us what they are intending to do, it would be very beneficial. But they are in a highly competitive market and I doubt that they would be prepared to tell us their plans."

Hollett disagreed with Whittaker: "Those people are competitive, but I don't think it would hurt to talk to them."

Council agreed that Hollett, who is North Cowichan's industrial representative, and also on the Cowichan Valley Regional Distict's economic development commission, should arrange a meeting with the three firms.

Administrator John Berikoff was instructed to arrange a meeting with highway officials, concerning the "very dangerous" situation at the intersection of Trans-Canada Highway and James Street.

Ald. McKinnon said he was "very concerned about this intersection, particularly as further development plans are in for this location."

Council had just been informed that plans were in for a car dealership and stores, to be located just behind McDonald's Restaurant, just northeast of the intersection.

"We are just compounding the problem, every time a new business goes in there.

"We just can't keep adding further and further commercial development down there," McKinnon said.

Council's finance committee is to consider a request from Ald. Bruce that council grant $300 to groups and $100 to individuals that represent the local community on an amateur basis, outside the province, and have attained this right through a series of tough competitions.

Hornby waits for hearing

COURTENAY — Public hearings, to be held Sept. 1, 2 and 8 on Hornby Island, will give everyone interested in the future of Tribune Bay Park an opportunity to voice an opinion.

The hearings have been called by the parks and outdoor recreation division of the ministry of parks, lands and housing. They will be held at the park.

The 180-acre park was created a Class A park in November of 1978 but little has been done in the way of development. It is located on the southeast side of the island.

A draft plan for the development of the park has been established by the parks branch along with a statement of the parks branch objectives for the area.

Immediate plans call for development of beach use and picnic facilities, especially as it concerns large group use. However, the development of single vehicle camp sites will not be considered until existing sites on the island cannot accommodate the number of users.

The future of the existing buildings which were for many years a private resort, will also be considered, the parks branch offers three options.

The buildings could be sold and removed from the park designation. They could be retained and adapted for public use or they could be retained and placed under private management for recreational use.

All three options will be open for discussion at the public hearings.

Whatever use is made of the park in the future, the rural lifestyle of the island, along with its road system and ferry access, will be a consideration.

Bibles given as gifts

COURTENAY — The Westerly Hotel, the latest addition in the accommodation field here, has received a gift of 80 bibles.

The presentation of the bibles was made by Lawrence Burns, a member of the Courtenay-Campbell River camp of Gideon's International in Canada.

The bibles are just a few of the 5,000 the local camp has donated to motels and hotels since it began here in 1971.

Grade 5 students have also received some 1,000 scriptures, which have been donated by the local groups.

The Gideon's in Canada consists of 3,500 Canadian businessmen and professionals who are born-again Christians.

The local unit has 12 members and meets monthly.

There are devotional, educational, business and fellowship meetings.

The local camp encompasses the area from Bowser north.

Task force ready for forces study

By RUTH McKELLAR
Colonist correspondent

COURTNEY — A task force which will investigate all aspects of integration in the armed forces will meet for the first time Sept. 6, according to Defence Minister Allan McKinnon.

The minister visited the Comox Valley at the weeken, going to CFB Comox and national sea cadet camp HMCS Quadra.

During his address to the cadets at Quadra, McKinnon said he had formed the task force to investigate integration and its ramifications and report to him by the end of January.

He said he did not want to guess what the task force might say and refused to say if changes were made in the existing concept, whether it would affect cadet services.

The government will be setting its priorities in the near future, the minister said, and added that in regard to cadet services finances, he was aiming at three-per-cent real growth.

He added it was his desire to get back most of the $150 million that was cut from the defence budget last year.

The government is still looking at the 78 F-14 planes in Iran, but McKinnon said the "deal blows hot and cold."

"There is also still some talk about leasing planes."

In regard to the task force, the minister said public hearings would be held across Canada.

He did not name the members of the group but said they were recently-retired service personnel, businessmen and two university professors.

He referred to a recent announcement by Comox-Powell River MP Ray Skelly, who has said that he would be making a full investigation into search and rescue procedures on the West Coast.

McKinnon said he was "very pleased" to hear the news and added it was always beneficial for the opposition to know "what they are talking about."

An increase in manpower in the armed forces, from 79,000 to 83,000, may be expected in the next four years, theminister said.

However, finances remain a problem and he said his government "had inherited an empty shelf and a big IOU."

McKinnon said NATO commitments had been made but no money placed in the budget and he was now trying to find the finances from other sources.

Replying to a question about the coast coming under the federal transport ministry, he said in its present format it is less expensive than if it were part of the military.

"I have no particular yearning to take it on," McKinnon said.

During the afternoon at Quadra, he witnessed a display of military precision by cadets, was presented withan honorary paddle and saw the colorful ceremony of the flags.

He called the ceremony a "tremendous performance" and said he was impressed with the training of a practical nature as well as "the spit and polish."

It was a long, hot four hours for both the minister and the sea cadets, both girls and boys, but McKinnon appeared genuinely impressed with the display.

Parksville combines fun and games

Croquet finally gets its seal of approval

By DONNA REIMER
Colonist correspondent

PARKSVILLE — Competitors from as far afield as England, OPEC and Bowser gathered in this seaside resort town last weekend for all the color, pageantry and drama of an international sporting event.

By Sunday afternoon, 19 of the 20 competing teams had been defeated and Parksville celebrated along with the three-man Vancouver team, called the Inside Edge, new "world croquet champions."

Never mind that the authenticity of the title bestowed on the new champions might be in question.

"We're calling it the world croquet championships because as far as we know, no one else has claimed the title," said one of the organizers, Brian Friar of Parksville's Island Hall Hotel.

The 60 competing athletes, too, were blithely unconcerned with the validity of the title for which they were vying, apparently more interested in the $1,000 first prize money.

As could be expected, the mixture of 60 highly-trained competitors (some teams had been in training for the past year) and the high stakes produced keen competition and some tense moments.

The OPEC team (Only Parksville Encourages Croquet) presented a fine song-and-dance routine: "We've come to play some croquet and have a ball."

But jealousy reared its ugly head when the team from the Nanaimo Times newspaper introduced its own mascot, the Good Times Seal of Approval.

The large shaggy brown seal was gathering in audience plaudits when he suddenly received a boot in the rear from OPEC's mallet.

The mallet, as a result of his unsportsmanlike conduct, fell to the ground and had to be rescued by other OPEC members.

The Times, for its part, protested that OPEC was not using a regulation mallet.

As play got underway on the grassy beachside lawns of the Island Hall, some teams apparently were still remembering defeats of last year.

In court No. 10, two of Parksville's finest, the Ambuturks, dumped their third team member from the stretcher in which he had been brought courtside.

But the three ambulance attendants were more concerned about kidnapping a rival team's mascot and giving it resuscitation than defeating their immediate opponents, the Ringers.

The draw could not have produced a more ironic pair of competing teams than in Court 8, where the Dead Soldiers Croquet and Football team faced the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 49, Mt. Arrowsmith Lodge.

Dr. Emil Schafer, captain of the Legion trio, offered a little pregame advice to a fellow team member.

"The angle is everything. You can't miss if you've got the right angle."

Dr. Schafer said that his team has been in competition every year of the event, which started in 1976.

This year, however, he confided, his team was a lot better prepared.

"We've got a lot better strategy. And we've got a secret weapon we'll bring out if necessary."

The Dead Soldiers, for their part, had their own strategy.

Stan (Gripper) Rogal was keeping an eye on the wind, which he said would affect the play of the trio from Burnaby.

The Dead Soldiers, mindful of the fresh breeze blowing in off the ocean, planned to keep all their balls low, he said.

"Last year, we a had a few a little too high."

A media event was occurring in Court 7—there the Times team faced the Victoria CFAX team.

Times sports editor Earl Coupar, who had exchanged his seal uniform for the flowing robes of an Arabian dignitary, revealed that he had discovered the secret of croquet success.

"The grip is all-important. You have to interlock the little finger on your right hand and index finger on your left. The V in your thumb must point to your right shoulder."

"We've changed our image," said Ann Russell, of the Bad Girls.

"Last year we were the Eager Beavers. Want a jawbreaker?"

They were still only halfway around the court when their opponents in the first round, the Landsdale Litigation, pegged out.

In court No. 6, the play was deadly serious.

"It's a sort of a grudge match," snapped a member of the Three Malleteers, as he and his teammates conferred on strategy against the Tweeds.

Strategy in croquet is evidently everything.

"It's sort of like chess," said one competitor.

Half of the strategy is how, and when, to knock your opponent's ball out of the court, and some of the most heartbreaking moments in the tourney were faced by players as their well-placed shots were ruthlessly sent spinning back to the other side of the court.

Now, it's a juggling act between the serious and spoof, said Friar.

"When we started, I had to go out and beg people to compete. This year, we had to turn teams away. Of the 20 teams competing, only two have not played much. Some local groups have been practising night and day."

For the serious players, there's the $1,000 first prize.

To balance that off, there's the request that teams wear costumes, and there are plenty of auxiliary fun events surrounding the weekend of croquet.

The event, Friar said, is obviously growing in popularity and acceptance.

Could Parksville become the croquet capital of the world?

Job corps summer busy time

COURTENAY — A group of young people working with the RCMP summer job corps wound up its activities last week.

During the summer, an intensive identification program, both personal effects and boat equipment, has been carried out as well as bike registration.

Daryl McLoughlin headed the project.

Bike owners are reminded that bikes may registered Monday through Friday between 3 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. until Aug. 23 at the RCMP office.

After Sept. 5, bike registration will take place on Wednesdays only from 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. at the police office.

McLoughlin reminds anyone who has acquired a previously-registered bike, to ensure the name is on the list in place of the previous owner's name. This may be done Monday to Friday 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A full report on the summer activities of the corps is expected by the end of this month.

Meanwhile, Lock it and Pocket it, a program introduced here last year by the RCMP Summer Job Corps, has been brought back again, according to McLoughlin.

The program is designed to reduce car thefts, which are often aided by persons who leave car keys in the ignition.

Members of the corps will be checking cars parked in the Comox Valley and if keys are found in the ignition they will be removed and taken to the RCMP detachment headquarters. The vehicle will also be secured.

Owners say claim the keys at the police office by producing proof of ownership.

The corps workers point out it is an offence under the Motor Vehicle Act to leave keys in a car ignition. The offence is punishable by a $15 fine.

Job Corps personnel will carry picture identification but members of the public are urged to phone RCMP at 338-6551 if they see any suspicious activity. They should not assume it is a member of the job corps.

Meanwhile in Port Hardy, police are cracking down on traffic violators.

Drastic increases in traffic accidents and injuries, mostly involving local people, according to police, have brought about the action.

Between Jan. 1, 1978, and Aug. 16, 1978, there were 184 accidents reported to Port Hardy police.

During the same time frame in 1979 the accident rate doubled and injury accidents are also on the rise.

Police say tourists were the cause of some of the accidents but blame in the main, local drivers who have become complacent over the years. To enforce the new plan, one RCMP officer will carry out traffic work as much as possible.

Special attention will be given to such offences as no seatbelt, running stop signs and other equipment violations as well as regular traffic offences.

Clark says party will get the plums

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Prime Minister Clark said Monday that political patronage has been a way of life in Quebec. But he added that just as Liberals received government jobs under the Liberal regime of the last 16 years, competent Conservatives now will get jobs and contracts.

At a news conference following the morning session of his inner cabinet, Clark was asked to comment on a statement by Supply Minister Roch Lasalle that patronage is a way of life in Quebec and that loyal party workers would get government contracts.

Lasalle made the statement in an interview in Montreal last week and repeated it to reporters in this resort where the 12-minister inner cabinet is meeting for four days to discuss the future of the government.

Clark said that within a four-year mandate, the Conservative government elected May 22 will fulfil its election promises, including a $2-billion tax cut to stimulate the economy. He refused to say when that would happen.

Referring to Lasalle's remarks, he said: "I think that's a very astute observation of political history in the province of Quebec."

He said the Quebec-based minister, one of only two in the government, was indicating "what had happened historically."

"Certainly we are going to ensure that in a reasonable way, in a way that maintains public propriety, that activities undertaken by the Conservative government do not benefit the Liberal party."

"I naturally am not going to exclude Canadians who happen to combine competence with sharing my political affiliation."

One of the major Conservative pledges during the election campaign was a massive tax cut to stimulate the economy.

Fifteen-year-old Karl Leong landed a 34.14-pound chinook drift fishing in front of Finlayson Arm's Goldstream Island Sunday afternoon . . . and he was only using eight-pound-test line.

He will be a contender for the special prize of a waterproof wristwatch from the Old Gold Shop for the youngster with the outstanding quality catch of the six-month-long King Fisherman Contest and he will also be a contender for the Molson's Fish of the Month honors for the outstanding catch in August.

He won the VSIAA perpetual trophy for the most salmon 20 pounds or heavier for the past two years and with eight in the 20-pound and better class from Saanich Inlet this year young Karl seems well on his way to winning the trophy again.

But his father has won the VSIAA coho trophy for the past two years which places them even.

Father Harmon plans to be a little sneaky again this year by taking his holidays after school goes back so he will have the coho advantage over his son.

It took Karl about 40 minutes to boat his 34.14-pound chinook Sunday while fishing with two cousins, Derek, 14, and Regan, 20, in his father's 22-foot Bayliner. Young Karl had caught three seven-pounders Buzz Bombing in the morning and was after his fourth to make a limit. His father, Harmon, had limited in the morning.

Karl was using a white Buzz Bomb, on which he had painted his own special pink stripe, which he has found effective for Finlayson Arm fish. He was using his prized 10 foot, 10 inches Hardy rod and a Daiwa spinning reel.

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

Conductor is raising his baton on new era

By JIM GIBSON
Colonist reporter

The man who is to lead the Victoria Symphony Orchestra out of the wilderness is now enjoying the little bit of wilderness he owns among the tall trees and cultivated lawns of Broadmead after life in the Detroit suburbs.

But as the symphony's new conductor, Paul Freeman hasn't been allowed too much time to settle into his expansive glass and wood home.

Freeman, with wife Cornelia and son Douglas, arrived in Victoria earlier this month but the conductor found he was busy right from the start in preparation for the symphony's season opening Sept. 30.

There were some raised eyebrows when Freeman didn't appear with his new orchestra at least once during the last weeks of the Victoria International Festival, but he insists he needed the time away from conducting to settle in after a busy July with Michigan's Delta Music Festival and his former orchestra, the Detroit Symphony.

"I conducted my last concert in Detroit on Friday, July 29, and our movers came in on the Monday," said Freeman, who left the motor city after nine years with citations from Mayor Coleman Young, city council and the state legislature.

"In all our other moves, we've had to wait for our furniture to arrive," added Mrs. Freeman who found herself with movers to direct the morning after she arrived in Victoria. Among the boxes to be unpacked were 40 containing her husband's records and scores.

And if she wants her husband to help with any more unpacking, she has to do it now.

In two weeks, he returns to Michigan's Saginaw Symphony where he continues as its commuting conductor until the spring. On that same trip he lectures at the National Conference of Action for Children in Television in Minneapolis. Freeman is involved in several projects including one with the Radio Luxembourg Orchestra that brings symphonic music to young people in a form other than just a televised concert.

From his resume, which includes appearances with many of the world's great orchestras and 20 recordings alone with the London Philharmonic, Freeman is obviously a conductor with market appeal. His choice of the financially-troubled Victoria orchestra, particularly when two others wanted him, seems a bit puzzling.

One rumor had Freeman agreeing only to come to Victoria after the symphony put $45,000 up front.

"If they'd done that, do you think I would have had to pack and unpack so many boxes?" joked Mrs. Freeman.

Her husband won't discuss the financial arrangements, but said the contract does allow him latitude to work elsewhere. Undoubtedly that's particularly appealing to a man of Freeman's scope. This year he misses three pairs of Victoria concerts to conduct other orchestras.

The big persuader for Freeman was Victoria itself.

"We just had a happy wedding with the city" is how he describes that February weekend in Victoria with his family for the auditioning concert which initially he was prepared to write off as just another guest appearance. That his wife and son came with him was somewhat of a surprise as he'd given them a choice of a trip to London, Edmonton or New York.

"Cornelia's priest had said he had just been to Victoria recently and she said 'my husband is conducting there' and he said 'you must go'."

"We noted such a potential here for both the orchestra and arts in the community," he added.

A look at Freeman's first season put together during five hurried trips to Victoria before the summer indicates he recognizes the talent available in the city.

Young Victoria pianist Walter Prossnitz makes his second appearance with the orchestra this season with the world premiere of a piano concerto by another young Victorian, Rod Sharman.

The orchestra is to play a work by Victoria composer Murray Adaskin and on occasion will be backed by two local choral groups, Newcombe Singers and the View Royal Community Choir.

Both concertmistress Derry Deane and principal cellist Larry Skaggs make solo appearances with their orchestra which has more than just economic advantages.

Travel firm on road

NANAIMO — A travel agency with a world of experience will help put Nanaimo's newest and largest shopping centre on the map in October.

After 16 years at its downtown Nanaimo location, McFarlane Travel has decided to branch out, and has chosen the Country Club Mall, four miles north, at the junction of Island Highway and Norwell Drive.

"The town's growing that way," says Bill McFarlane Jr., whose father, a former CPR employee, knows the West Coast like the back of his hand.

First a railway ticket clerk, then an employee working the CPR ferry's Alaska run, and eventually located in the CP Air ticket office in Nanaimo, McFarlane founded his agency in 1963 and was active in it until his recent retirement.

His family, including Bill Jr., Keith ("name any place in the world and he's been there"), and daughter Linda Deugau (manager of the Ladysmith branch), is convinced that Canadians have travel in their blood, "although nobody yet has asked us to book them to the moon," Bill said.

But who knows? It could happen opening day, when Islanders come to take advantage of Country Club Mall's one-stop shopping convenience.

They will be pleased to see that other new retailers have been added to the list of tenants: Busy Bee Dry Cleaners, Agnew Surpass Shoes, Bata Shoes and Carlton Cards.

These together with the two major tenants, Safeway and Woolco, and some 40 others, will make up the complement in this bright, spacious new business and cultural core planned for central and northern Vancouver Islanders.

Owned by the North American Life Assurance Company, Country Club Mall is being developed and managed by Edgecombe, a national firm which already manages an extensive property portfolio from coast to coast.

L.A. Heath Management and Development Corporation Ltd., Suite 2210-700 West Georgia Street, Vancouver, is handling the leasing arrangements.

The mall has had the blessing of Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney right from the start.

He was quick to see the potential and the need for retail outlets in the area, since Nanaimo is rated 33 per cent above the national average as a trading market, a the total personal disposable income for the city in 1977 was $259 million, or seven per cent above the national average.

State rites planned

Colonist wire services

LONDON — A ceremonial funeral with the entire royal family present will be held in Westminster Abbey next week for Earl Mountbatten of Burma, 79, who was killed Monday when his boat was blown apart by Irish Republican Army terrorists.

Mountbatten's grandson, Nicholas, 14, and a 15-year-old crew member, Paul Maxwell, also were killed.

The death of the Second World War hero is the first direct attack by IRA guerrillas against the royal family in their 10-year armed struggle against British administration in Northern Ireland.

Other members of Mountbatten's family, including his daughter, Lady Brabourne, and another grandson, Timothy, were struggling for their lives in a Sligo hospital after they were plucked from the water by a fleet of small boats. The cruiser Shadow V held nine occupants. Two were missing.

The IRA Provisionals described Mountbatten's killing, with what they said was a 50-pound bomb set off by remote control, as an "execution" to bring world attention to the fact British authorities still "occupy" the six counties to the north.

The Irish army and police threw up roadblocks in the area. Irish Justice Minister Gerry Collins flew to Sligo to take charge.

Officials said Mountbatten, whose illustrious career spanned the rule of four monarchs, apparently was killed instantly in the blast that destroyed and sank the craft in Sligo Bay, 18 kilometres from the border of Northern Ireland.

IRA sources acknowledged responsibility for the bombing, saying "the operation had been planned for quite some time and is part of a continuing campaign to end British torture of the Irish people."

The attack occurred less than 90 kilometres from Galway, one of the sites Pope John Paul II will visit next month.

Mountbatten, who raised his nephew Prince Philip, was the supreme commander of allied forces in Southeast Asia in the Second World War and Britain's last viceroy in India before independence in 1946.

Mountbatten not only had

Ambush follows blasts

WARRENPOINT, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British Army said two remote-controlled bombs and an ambush by Irish Republican Army guerrillas killed at least 17 British soldiers Monday and possibly as many as 24.

The double bombings near Warrenpoint claimed the worst death toll in a single incident since the IRA began its guerrilla war 10 years ago to drive the British out of Northern Ireland and unite Ulster with Ireland.

An army spokesman said the exact number of soldiers killed cannot be immediately determined because some bodies were so mutilated. Eight soldiers also were severely wounded, he said.

Authorities said that in an ambush following the explosions, one suspected guerrilla was killed and a second was wounded. The IRA claimed responsibility for the bombs but denied its members had fired at the soldiers.

The IRA said the bombs were detonated by remote control "in similar fashion to the bomb which was set off to kill Lord Mountbatten."

The army spokesman gave this account of the bombings and the army's version of the firefight that he said followed:

The soldiers, in a truck and Jeep, were travelling between Newry and Warrenpoint in County Down when a bomb concealed in a parked truck loaded with straw exploded.

At least six men were killed in the blast that hurled

Thatcher vows to wage war on Irish terrorism

Colonist wire services

LONDON — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Monday pledged a war against terrorism.

In a statement following the death of Lord Mountbatten, she said:

"By their actions today, the terrorists have added yet another infamous page to their catalogue of atrocity and cowardice.

"If reports of their involvement in the death of Lord Mountbatten prove true, they will earn the condemnation and contempt of people of good will everywhere.

"By the same token, the senseless murder of members of the security forces has reinforced the repugnance felt for those who seek to advance their political ends by these evil means.

"The government will spare no effort to ensure that those responsible for these and all other acts of terrorism are brought to justice. The people of the United Kingdom will wage the war against terrorism with relentless determination until it is won."

Earlier, Thatcher sent a message of condolence to Queen Elizabeth, saying: "The British people give thanks for his life and grieve his passing."

Ireland's deputy prime minister, George Colley, issued a statement expressing "profound shock and regret." It noted "subversive organizations have claimed responsibility" for "this cowardly and heartless outrage," adding that no effort would be spared to bring those responsible to justice.

Meanwhile, Tomas Cardinal O'Fiaich, the Catholic primate of Ireland, expressed horror and revulsion for the death of the earl and the British soldiers.

"The news from Ireland this evening totally appalls and horrifies me," the cardinal said in a statement made public by the Irish college in Rome on Monday. "This is mass murder and nothing can justify it."

O'Fiaich, 55, a strong spokesman for the rights of Catholics in Northern Ireland, arrived in Rome earlier in the day to arrange details for Pope John Paul's visit to Ireland next month.

"The fact that these diabolical acts have occurred at a time when Ireland is preparing to welcome the Holy Father and when a number

Mourning week called for India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The Indian government Monday ordered a week's mourning for Lord Mountbatten, who as last viceroy signed India's independence from Britain 32 years ago.

"Lord Mountbatten will always occupy a place of honor in India," President Neelam Sanjiva Reddy said in a message to Queen Elizabeth.

Indira Ganhdi, daughter of India's first Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, called the assassinated British leader "an extraordinary personality, a lion, a born leader of men."

"Lord Mountbatten showed sympathies and understanding of complex problems facing India at that particular period. And this was the basis of his friendship with my father and our family and other Indian leaders," Mrs. Gandhi said.

Bandit gets out with 2 hostages

QUEBEC (CP) — A bandit fled the scene of a foiled bank robbery in a car with two hostages shortly before midnight Monday. He released 10 others, ending a siege which lasted throughout the afternoon.

The bandit escaped in the bank manager's car with the manager and a teller just after the other hostages were released.

The three left the bank with their faces covered as the others were released. Several of those released were suffering from shock.

At about 11:20 p.m. the manager, who had left unseen, returned with his car and stopped in front of the bank with the engine running. Shortly afterward, the first of the hostages were let go and ran into the street screaming hysterically.

Police went in and cleared the scene.

The lone gunman had held 12 people hostage following an aborted holdup in a suburban bank branch Monday afternoon.

'FREE WILL'—U.S.

Ballerina says nyet, flies home

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-day impasse between the U.S. and Soviet governments that left a jetliner and passengers stranded on a runway ended Monday when ballerina Ludmilla Vlasova reaffirmed her intention to return to the Soviet Union.

"We are satisfied that the principles involved in this incident have been upheld, and that is that she is leaving on the basis of her own expression . . . that she wishes to return at this time to the Soviet Union," said Donald McHenry, chief U.S. negotiator at the scene.

U.S. officials had insisted that Miss Vlasova — whose husband, Bolshoi Ballet principal dancer Alexander Godunov, defected to the United States last week — meet with them to state in person that she was leaving of her own free will.

Miss Vlasova had refused to leave the plane, and she and 52 other passengers remained aboard until Monday, when McHenry and other U.S. and Soviet officials met with her aboard a mobile van used to ferry passengers to and from planes.

After the interview the jetliner departed for Moscow.

The international drama started at 5 p.m. Friday when a police car parked behind the Aeroflot Ilyushin-62 to keep it from moving to the runway. Miss Vlasova, 36, a soloist with the Bolshoi Ballet, had been ushered aboard the plane by eight Soviet officials.

Godunov had insisted his wife also wanted to defect but Soviet officials claimed she wanted to return to Moscow and that she did not want to get off the plane to talk to U.S. officials.

Tuna-fleet arrest heats sea feud

Another Canadian-U.S. fishing controversy is shaping up over the first-ever seizure of American tuna trollers over the weekend.

The federal fisheries patrol vessel Tanu escorted the seven of the vessels suspected of fishing inside Canada's 320-kilometre (200-mile) zone into Ship Point dock at Victoria's Inner Harbor just before midnight Monday.

An eighth fish boat, the Four C of San Pedro, is to arrive sometime this morning under escort by the federal fisheries vessel, Laurier.

Canadian customs and immigration officers boarded the vessels on their arrival but federal fisheries officials will wait until later this morning to inspect the boats.

Among those meeting the boats was Dr. Wally Johnson, Canadian Fisheries regional director in Vancouver who said following this morning's search a decision would be made around noon as to what charge or charges would be laid against the boat owners

All of the eight seized boats are about 60-foot in length and capable of carrying between 20 to 40 tons of frozen fish.

The eight captains are to be represented by a Victoria law firm in the event of any charges being laid, said Lew Wright, general manager of the San Diego-based Western Fishboat Owners Association.

"We'll do what ever we have to do to get them out fishing again," said Wright who was at Ships Point to meet the vessels.

The U.S. and Canadian governments are at odds over tuna-fishing regulations. Under American law, the individual state has jurisdiction over fishing within 20 kilometres of their coasts. Under Canadian law, there is a ban on foreign fishing within 320 kilometres of the coast.

Five of the American vessels are from Seattle and the other three are from California. Four of the Seattle boats are identified as the St. John II, Majestic, Alma J, and Lorelei II. The othersare from San Diego and San Pedro.

A Canadian official said five of the American skippers refused to follow the Canadian vessels when they were intercepted Sunday 90 kilometres off Cape Cook, south of Quatsino Sound on the west coast of Vancouver
